ELKS HELD HIGH JINKS LAST NIGHT

MERRIMENT HOLDS ABSOLUTE SWAY THROUGHOUT

Long Looked for Event Fills All Expectations—"Judge" Hennessy Presides Over Mock Court—Grand Theatre Furnishes Attractions.

If there are any doubts that B. P. O. E. does not stand for Best People on Earth, they would have been quickly dispelled had their possessors attended the stag party given by the antlered herd last night in their hall at the corner of Main and Cottonwood streets. It was an event which has long been awaited by local Elks and the realization fulfilled to a completeness all anticipations. The lodge room was packed to the doors and from one end to the other and from the first minute to the last, merriment held absolute sway and melancholy was banished to the shades of oblivion.

While the real festivities did not begin until about 11 o'clock on account of the appearance of "A Stubborn Cinderella" at the Oregon theatre, still a large number of the local herd assembled prior to that time and were entertained by a troupe of musicians from the Grand theatre. Shortly before 11, Frank Hennessy, one of Portland's most popular Elks, assumed a judicial dignity and opened a mock court, Frank Frazier and C. E. Roosevelt, attired in all the regalia of Irish copers, proceeded to round up various offenders and, before the operations were ended, most of the Elks present had been forced to deposit a few shining kopecks into the treasury. The fines ranged all the way from fifty cents to five dollars. George Darveau and A. Buckley being assessed the heaviest, the one because he permitted a "prizefight" to be conducted in his building and the other for failing to ever dispatch a train on time. Much sport was derived from this proceeding and the revenue secured was sufficient to defray all expenses of the smoker.

Following the mock court, an excellent program was put on by talent of various kind. Through the courtesy of Manager Smith of the Grand theatre, a troupe of splendid musicians were present and rendered several selections during the evening which were greatly appreciated. The "Stubborn Cinderella" company also sent over a few of their troupe who added greatly to the features of the evening. The local quartet, composed of George Baer, Elmer Storle, Glenn Scott and Brook Dickson, furnished one of the best numbers on the program, their melody and their parodies in which the B. P. O. E. was usage of numbers on the ballot. Along the same line is a bill by Dicklick, providing that the polls on primary day be open from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m., instead of opening in the afternoon. Another election measure is that of Kellaher, empowering citizens to hold special elections when they wish to vote on annexation to cities or towns.

Insurgency in House.
Salem, Or., Jan. 11.—Insurgency in the house, like the winning support for Rusk, has come from an unexpected source. The Eaton forces, ranking under their defeat in the speakership fight, are trying to shear Rusk of his power by having a committee on committees named by the house.

While the Rusk men would feel the effect of such action, the move is intended to deprive Thompson and his supporters of the benefit of their action of yesterday in going over to Rusk practically in a body and naming the speaker. The Eaton forces cannot forgive the Thompson men for this, and hard feeling is followed.

These men went into meeting to select a committee of five, who will make the appointments.

Others related to perfunctory investigation of state institutions, postage stamps and other routine matters.

money where it can be used to best advantage.

How Army Board Erred.
The apportionment suggested by the army board commits the government to several extremely costly and comparatively unattractive projects which will require $45,000,000 in addition to the $45,000,000 recently apportioned, to complete them. Should this program be carried out, the government could undertake no new projects, other than those approved by the board, until 1924 or 1925, and Oregon would be left out in the cold along with Washington, California and several other western states that have contributed heavily to the reclamation fund.

Klamath Will Get More.
Mr. Hawley today received a letter from Secretary Ballinger in answer to his formal demand for more money for irrigation in Oregon, in which the secretary says: "Allotment made for Klamath project, together with the sum already available, gives for that project an immediately available fund of approximately $1,000,000, and I will endeavor to see that additional amounts may be allotted to properly and economically continue construction work upon the Klamath project and to complete same within a reasonable time."

"Protection of water rights of the government in connection with the Umatilla west extension would seem to require early consideration, and the people of Oregon through various channels have indicated their earnest desire for the initiation of the work upon this unit. On December 31 I advised the Portland Commercial club that I favored the construction of this unit, and if funds could be found for the purpose would use my utmost endeavor to secure its undertaking. Promptly thereafter I called upon the director of the reclamation service to submit an early report and recommendation with reference thereto, and as to whether sufficient funds for beginning work thereon may be tentatively allotted from the general reclamation fund or by readjustment of allotment of the funds by board of engineers."

"I hope the department will be able to find the means necessary to carry on the work of these two Oregon projects."

Representative Ellis today called on Director Newell of the reclamation service and learned from him that telegraphic instructions had been sent to the local reclamation engineer at Portland, directing him at once to undertake surveys of West Umatilla, that must be completed before the work of construction can be commenced. Newell expressed it as his personal opinion that approval of the project and authorization of surveys last Saturday absolutely insure construction of this project by the government, and the reclamation service will do its utmost to help the project along.

IMPROVED TEMPLE BUILDING FINISHED

Dr. I. U. Temple has completed the improvement work on the building next to the St. George hotel which he recently purchased, by which work a new story has been added and the first floor rooms entirely remodeled. On the ground floor there are now two rooms, both of which are occupied, the north room by the Walsh grocery store and the south one by the Cosy theater. Both rooms are well adapted to the purposes they serve, the fronts being particularly attractive. In the Walsh store is a back balcony which has been fixed up by the proprietor as a rest room for farmers and their families. It is supplied with chairs, sofas, tables, a toilet and many other conveniences which will make it extremely popular with the country folk.

The new story which has been added, is divided into thirteen office rooms, each of which is well lighted, well heated, well ventilated and supplied with all modern conveniences. There is hot and cold water throughout the building and each room is connected with both the electric lines and gas mains. One of the most noticeable modern features is the type of skylight installed, prism glass being used which gives a soft light and one that is not affected by the sun's rays.

At present there are seven out of the 13 rooms engaged, Dr. Temple himself using two for his offices, E. T. Wade, the real estate man, having two more and Mr. and Mrs. Will McCormack having three back rooms for light housekeeping. A number of other professional men are considering the other rooms and it is very probable that, within a short time, every one will be taken.

Dr. Temple spent $2500 in the improvement work and is to be congratulated upon the splendid building which he has given to the city's main thoroughfare.

CROWDS OF MORBID WOMEN ATTEND TRIAL

Wheeling, West Va., Jan. 11.—Three hours before the trial of Mrs. Laura Schenk opened today crowds gathered about the court house. A large percentage were women who arrived before 7 o'clock. The court opened at 9 and the officers had to hold the crowd back to prevent a scramble for seats.

Dr. Hupp, the chief medical expert, was called for the state. He told how the woman acted in her husband's sick room and said the illness was caused by poison.

JUDD VICE-PRESIDENT OF AMERICAN BANK

F. E. Judd is the new vice president of the American National bank of this city, having been elected to that position last night to succeed A. D. Sloan who has resigned. Mr. Judd is too well known in local circles to need an introduction and his business ability and qualifications for his new position are alike recognized. He commenced his new duties this morning.

His election followed the annual meeting of the stockholders of the institution at which the following directors were elected for the ensuing year: W. L. Thompson, F. E. Judd, A. D. Sloan, J. N. Burgess, R. N. Stanfield, L. F. Anderson and T. G. Montgomery. A semi-annual dividend of ten per cent was declared which makes a total dividend of twenty per cent during the year. Fifty thousand dollars was transferred to the surplus fund, which now gives the bank a capital stock of $100,000, a surplus fund of $150,000 and undivided profits amounting to $26,000, according to a statement given out this morning.

The new board of directors immediately organized and re-elected W. L. Thompson as president, T. G. Montgomery as cashier and W. S. Badley as cashier and elected Mr. Judd as vice president.
