

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind.—"Your remedies have cured me and I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pains in my sides, especially my right one, and down my right leg. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon."—Mrs. SADIE MULLEN, 2728 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. E. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

STOCK OF DIAMONDS IN LONDON EXHAUSTED

London jewelers say that the accumulated stocks of diamonds have been exhausted, and the market must now be supplied with current production. The output of diamonds has been far in excess of the demand for the past year or two, owing to the fact that those sales represented stocks which had been accumulated previously. It seems, therefore, as if diamonds, like meats and other necessities of life, will cost more this year. The preparations for the coronation have already caused a boost in prices. There is already a demand for pearls and ermine which hardly can be supplied, especially as the ermine season is proving unsuccessful.

CONGRESS FULL OF QUEER CHARACTERS

The next congress will have its share of interesting characters, thanks to the radical changes in the last elections. Victor Berger as a socialist will not attract more attention than will Caleb Powers, republican, of the Eleventh Kentucky district, whom members of his party hail as a martyr to political passion, but whom the democrats back in the Blue Grass still exorcise as a red-dyed accessory before the fact in the assassination of William Goebel. Satuated with the spice of human interest in this young man. His father a kinsman of that Abigail Powers who married Millard Fillmore, was a Kentucky mountaineer who believed that boys should attend school early and often. So Caleb's shining morning face was turned schoolward when he was five, and the little log cabin where he got the first glimpse of the three R's was two miles away. When only fifteen he entered college and taught between terms to pay his expenses. Then he was appointed to West Point, but had to leave in his second year because of failing eyesight, which necessitated two years of rest and treatment. But by the time he was twenty-four he had graduated from law school and been elected county superintendent of Wayne. Three years later he married, but within six months, his bride, who he has always said was too perfect to last, died of spinal meningitis. After her death he took a post graduate course in law, began practice in 1891, and a year later was the republican candidate for secretary of state in the bitter campaign which culminated in Goebel's assassination and his own arrest as accessory to the crime. After languishing in jail eight years during which he was four times tried, twice sentenced for life and once condemned to death, Powers was finally pardoned by Governor Wilson, after which he went on the lecture platform.

But even now when his neighbors have sought to vindicate him by sending him to congress, his troubles do not appear to be over, for it frequently has been reported that his political opponents will ask the house to deny to sent him on the ground that his pardon has not the effect of an acquittal in redeeming him from the status of a felon.

Reduce Distance 500 Miles.
With the completion next August of a cutoff between Mexico, on the Belon line, and Coleman on the Gulf line, about 300 miles, the Santa Fe will reduce the distance between Los Angeles and Galveston 500 miles, making the entire distance 1845 miles. While the route of the Southern Pacific is shorter by several miles, the Santa Fe will have the advantage of low grades, and become a strong competitor for Pacific coast business, now monopolized by the Harriman system.
