given a black eye in a report drafted by Senator Carter, chairman of the senate irrigation committee, says a special from Washington to a Portland paper. The report covers the observations of his committee when it inspected the government projects a year ago last summer.

It alleges, in substance, that the Klamath project should never have been undertaken by the government, as most of the land is in private ownership. Moreover, without specificially so charging, the report intimates there was gross frauds in the purchase of private canals which have since been incorporated in the government project, The reclamation service is con-
