Judge Hands Out Sentences.
Judge G. W. Phelps this morning sentenced three of the prisoners in the county jail who entered pleas of guilty during the recent term of court. R. W. Gillett, the old engineer who forged the name of Twohy Bros. to a check, was given an indeterminate sentence in the penitentiary of from one to seven years. Roy Blake and George Steward, the two young men who pleaded guilty to stealing wheat sweepings from grain warehouses, were sentenced to one year in the county jail but were paroled pending good behavior. This leniency was extended to them by the court because of the fact that a large number of citizens of the county had signed a petition in behalf of the boys and moreover, because they had already been confined for three months in the jail.

ANGLERS SEND MAN TO SALEM

SECRETARY CRANSTON WILL REPRESENT THIS COUNTY

Proposed Fish and Game Commission is Favored—Removal of Screens from Ditches Declared a Menace.

Secretary C. K. Cranston of the Umattilla County Anglers' association, was dispatched to Salem last night to represent the anglers of this county this evening before the committee on fisheries. The committee had previously issued invitations to the different associations in the state to send representatives to make their views and their wants known and at last night's meeting of the local organization Cranston was selected as the local representative.

Among the more important questions discussed last evening was the bill which has been introduced in the legislature and having for its purpose the separation of the fish and game departments of the state from politics. This law provides for the creation of a fish and game commission, the five members of which are to serve without pay.

The president of Oregon agricultural college is to be one member of the commission, while the other four are to be appointed by the governor and no more than two are to be of one political faith. His commission shall have the appointment of all game and fish wardens, shall be responsible for the enforcement of all game and fish laws, and shall provide for the propagation of fish as well as the protection.

Under this arrangement the conflict between the game and fish departments which has existed in the past to the detriment of both will be avoided.

avoided, wardens will be appointed on merit instead of on political pull and the thousands of dollars which are accumulating from the sale of licenses will be used for the purpose for which they were intended instead of being allowed to accumulate and remain unused.

Senator Norton who yesterday introduced a bill in the legislature providing for the removal of screens from irrigation ditches, was denounced in no uncertain language. His statements were branded as false and his theory as disastrous to trout fishing. It was the consensus of opinion that the proper screening of irrigation ditches and the building of fish ladders at all dams was of far more importance to the preservation of fishing than the length of the closed season, the size of fish which are caught or the number limit. It was declared that one or two small irrigation ditches unscreened or one dam over which fish could not make their way would destroy more fish in one month than all the anglers in the county would take with hook and line in a year.

These are the views which Secretary Cranston will present to the legislative committee on fisheries at the meeting tonight.

Wm. Humphrey was last evening elected treasurer of the association, while Humphrey, Vaughan and Earnhart were named as a committee to increase the membership.

SELECTION OF NEW SITE PREDICTED

Salem, Ore., Jan. 31.—(Special.)—The selection of a new site for the eastern Oregon insane asylum will not cause surprise here. The proponents for the site selected by Bowerman are losing ground and unless the committee changes its mind it is said that the Daniels tract, further down the Umattilla river, may be selected. West and Kay both favor the Daniels site, saying the Oliver tract is such that the buildings can't be built on high enough ground and the strip along the bottom is too narrow.
