

HOGS AND SHEEP SHOW WEAKNESS

CUT OF 15 CENTS IS NOTED FOR PORKERS

Yearling Mutton Sheep Go As Low As $4.25—Cornfed Steers Bring Good Price.

(Monday's Journal.) Hogs and sheep developed considerable weakness in the North Portland yards this afternoon. Hogs sold at a cut from 15c from former figures owing to the weakness in the east, while one lot of yearlings sold as low as $4.25.

One select load of corn fed steers from Idaho brought $7 in the yards today at North Portland, this being the full price that was received here a week ago for similar quality. The lot included 24 head that averaged 1230 pounds.

Sale at such a high figure does not indicate that the market for real good cattle is any lower than a week ago, even though the offerings of poor quality have been heavier.

Ten loads of cattle were brought in from California this morning by one party and there were liberal shipments from eastern Oregon. The S. & S. company is reported to have a fine bunch of cattle in from the Prineville country. These do not enter the local trade at all.

Sheep shipments were heavy and therefore there was a reduction of about 10c in price formerly obtained. Some very good wethers were sold during the morning at $4.65 compared with former transactions at $4.75 or even better. Weakness has again developed in the sheep market at eastern centers, after temporary showing of strength and slightly advanced quotations.

Hogs were weak everywhere today and this had an indirect effect upon local conditions, although only two loads came forward for today's market.

Among the Cattle—Kiddwell & Caswell, Los Bonas, Cal., 10 loads; R. L. Reasley, Blackfoot, Idaho, one load; H. H. Coffey, Shaniko, Ore., six loads; W. W. Cooper, Union, Ore., one load cattle and calves; J. L. Cox, Eaton, Idaho, one load.

Hogs—L. B. Vanor, Joseph, Ore., one load; M. E. Moksits, Argo, Idaho, one load.

Sheep and lambs—Robert Starkweather, North Powder, Ore., one load; P. L. Cox, Eaton, Idaho, two loads; J. Bower, Heppner, Ore., one load; A. Minor, Heppner, three loads; R. M. Stanfield, Stanfield, Ore., one load; B. C. Harberger, Baker, Ore., one load; C. B. Johnson, Baker, one load.

Horses—W. L. Shipton, La Grande, Ore., one load.

A reduction of 50 cents a ton in the railroad charge for hay from Idaho points to the Pacific northwest, is being used by the holders of alfalfa at Twin Falls to unload a portion of their big surplus.

Hay market in general is quiet with ordinary stuff just about holding its own, although fancy timothy is firm. No change in price is showing in any variety.

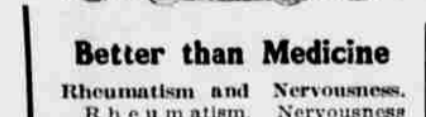

Wheat market is extremely quiet. There was a general holiday in the east on account of the celebration of Lincoln's birthday, and foreign cables were generally lacking. The price here remains nominally the same at 79c for club and 82c for bluestem, although Saturday millers were in a half-hearted way offering as high as 86c for the former.

Coarse grains are still dull with no special tendency to prices one way or the other. Business in both oats and barley is limited.

Millstuffs are steady at former figures.

Flour trade is nominal with no oriental business reported confirmed by millers on this side. Buyers on the other side are still clamoring for a reduction of about 15c a barrel.

We cannot corner the market of ideas.

Better than Medicine

Rheumatism and Nervousness. E. H. Cummins, Nervousness, Neuralgia, Backache, Liver and Kidney complaints are caused by excess uric acid. Medicine can only temporarily counteract the effect, while Electropodes remove the excess uric acid, and all other poisons and impurities, from the system. The result is prompt relief and a permanent cure.

One man from Pasadena, Cal. writes: "Electropodes cured me in two weeks' time, after all other remedies had failed." Another from Madison, Neb., says: "Electropodes have done me more good than all the medicine I have taken."

NO CURE, NO PAY.

Druggist Signs This Contract.

The purchaser of Electropodes is granted the privilege of returning them within 30 days, and the purchase price ($1.00) is to be refunded upon the following conditions: They are to be worn according to directions for at least 25 consecutive days, and then if not satisfactory, to be returned in original box.

Druggist's Signature.

At druggists; or by mail, post-paid. If your druggist cannot furnish Electropodes, send us $1.00, and we will see that you are supplied immediately. State whether for man or woman.

Adams was seized with a wind storm Sunday, doing considerable damage to small out buildings. It blew down one porch on Main street. It also blew over the fire bell and tore up several trees.

An attack of grip is often followed by a persistent cough, which in many proves a great annoyance. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been extensively used with good success for the relief and cure of this cough. Many cases have been cured after all other remedies had failed. Sold by all dealers.

PAINTING OF GEORGE STARTS CONTROVERSY

Washington.—An immediate result of a bill by Representative Gill, (Dem. Md.) for the purchase of an oil portrait of George Washington for $50,000, by the government, was the discovery by congressmen today that there was a considerable crop of Washington portraits by Peale. They found that one of them, a duplicate of the portrait of which Gill advised the purchase, except in one point of minor difference, has adorned the senate wing of the capitol for nearly 20 years. The difference is that in the senate picture Uncle George wears epaulettes, while in the other his shoulders are unadorned.

The senate picture is life size and shows George Washington when he was forty-six years old. He stands in careless pose, his left hand resting on some indistinct object which might be a rock and on which his cloak is draped. His right hand is placed on the hip and his legs are crossed. He wears knee breeches and black silk stockings. His face is strong and ruddy, less broad and wholly unlike the countenance of the father of his country that beams benevolently from the lithographs on Washington's birthday. It looks like the portrait of a man who might own a string of race horses and have an interest in the good things of life.

Gill's bill proposes the purchase of a Baltimore owned version of Peale's Washington. It is set forth in the measure that it is a painting presented by Washington to King Louis XVI of France, given by that king to Lafayette, and finally returned to this country. It is owned by Dr. George Reuling, who is said to have proof that Washington ordered the picture painted as a gift to the king and to have traced it through the hands of art collectors, after Lafayette's death, to Judge Tissot, of New Orleans. Dr. Reuling obtained the portrait from the Tissot estate.

Charles Henry Hart, of Philadelphia, a distinguished investigator of early portraits, is authority for the statement that the original of Peale's painting in the senate is in possession of Thos. McKean of Fernhill, Germantown, Pa. Hart says the original was painted in 1778 and that the senate portrait is one of the many repetitions painted by Peale in 1779, which date the senate picture bears. The painting which the senate owns was sent to Europe and back again and in 1841 was purchased by Charles B. Calvert of Maryland, for $200. The Peale heirs always claimed ownership of the picture. In 1882 congress gained an undisputed title by the payment of $5000 to Titan R. Peale, son of the painter.

A history of the art and architecture of the capitol published in 1908 by George C. Hazleton and Captain H. F. Kennedy, says the portrait of Washington in the senate was begun by Peale at Valley Forge in 1778 and completed in the following year. It says also, that a replica was executed under a commission from Lafayette who presented it to Louis XVI.

Hart's statement that Peale painted many repetitions of the original portrait is regarded as likely to lead to the disclosure of a good many examples of Peale's industry.

Congregational Congress, Hartford, Conn., Feb. 14.—The New England Congregational congress met in biennial session here today.

HOW ELECTRIC JUICE IS COUNTED

Few of us, outside of engineering circles, know how that mysterious servant, electricity, is measured. We only know that the regular monthly bill calls for "1567—1543 equals 24 kw.-hr. for which please remit $2.40." Many of us have gone down cellar, or up in the attic, with a lighted candle to stare with mystified wonder and profound awe at the little mechanical meter with its incomprehensible dials and unreadable figures only to wonder what it was all about.

The fact is that electricity, or strictly speaking, electric energy, is measured in kilowatt hours. A kilowatt hour is practically the same as one and one-third horse power hours since 746 watts equal one horsepower. The watt is a rate of work just as a horsepower is a rate of work. One tells how hard the dynamo has to work, while the other tells how hard a horse or engine has to work to produce the required energy.

The measurement of electric power may be simply explained thus: The current enters the house and a certain fraction passes through a small motor contained in what is called a "meter." The moving part of the motor, or armature, is connected to an ordinary counter, such as used on bicycles, gas meters and automobiles. This system of toothed wheels is arranged to count the number of watt hours of electricity. A thousand watt hours is called a kilowatt-hour. The prefix "kilo" always means 1000. A kilowatt hour costs about ten cents. If the result is desired in horse power hours, it is only necessary to remember that a kilowatt hour is the same as one and one-third horse-power hours.

The wattmeter is peculiar in that it measures power consumed. An instrument which measures the quantity of electricity or "juice" is known as an ammeter, because quantity of electricity is always measured in amperes. An instrument which measures the pressure which drives electricity is called a voltmeter, since electric pressure is measured in volts just as water pressure is measured in pounds. The wattmeter, however, takes account of both pressure and quantity; that is, it multiplies the volts by the amperes and gives the results in watts. Volts multiplied by amperes give watts, just as pounds-times-feet give horsepower, provided we assume that the work was done in a certain time—that is, so much work done in a second, or minute, or hour.
