GORGEOUS GOWNS

Worn by Marcella Hamilton in the Forthcoming Production of Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks, The production of Elinor dramatization of her wonderful book, "Three Weeks," which will be presented for the first time in this city at the Oregon theater on Tuesday, March 14, will have the asmosphere of refined elegance throughout. Not only will the stage pictures be striking in their color scheme and beauty, but every detail of furniture and ornament will be in perfect keeping. And as for costumes—the beautiful Marcella Hamilton who plays "The Lady" and touches every chord of emotion with her perfect art, will diseyes of the fair sex and give them something to discuss for many a day. Each and every one is a Paris creation and their value runs into beig money. The first dress is a beautiful grey chiffon, embroidered with cut steel and fringed half a yard deep all around the train. The second is a Paquin gown of black velvet in the Empire style and also made over chiffon and trimmed with steel. third is a Hallett creation of Nile green chiffon covered with Irish crochet and heavily embroidered with opals, emeralds and pearls-truly a gown worthy of a queen. The last is a soft, shimmery moonlight chiffon, semi-evening gown, decorated with pule pink and green satin roses.

It is one thing to have expensive gowns and another to wear them, but in this respect there are few who can approach Miss Hamilton,

"Three Weeks" has everything to recommend it to public favor and will doubtless repeat its triumphs of last season and draw the largest and most fashionable audiences that have been seen in this city.

Liebler & company, the New York managers, whose firm is a positive guarantee of excellence in the stage world, induced Mr. Terry to make a short tour of this country, pending the completion of changes being made in Mr. Terry's own theater in London.

For nearly half a century this actor has been one of England's most ploy some gowns that will open the popular and successful stage figures. and his London engagements and his tours of the cities are hailed with and most wholesome things in stage performances.

Mr. Terry will open his brief engagement in Pinero's delight play, "Sweet Lavender," which was written for him, and which he produced first in 1888, at the Strand theater, London. His impersonation of Dick Phenyl, the great hearted but rather dissolute barrister of the Inner Temple, is a stage classic.

In Mr. Terry's company are such well-known English favorites as Robert Pateman, Templar Powell, Percival Madgewick, Percy Bell, William Dexter. Christopher Steele. George Byrne, Adah Barton, Kathleen Leigh, Eugenie Vernie, Christine Rayner, Gabrielle aul and Una Tristion of the French National Federation of Boxing clubs, the first interrying them more than three hundred national boxing congress ever held was opened today in Paris. America, England, Belgium and Germany, as well as France, are represented.

The congress is held for the purpose of considering many important questions concerning the boxing game, in the hope of reaching some much-needed international agreements and regulations. Chief among the resolutions proposed today was one providing for the standardization of weights in each class, so that a boxer will be a bantam or a heavy, ourses, they have appeared annually as the case may be, in all countries. land, Australia, America, France and other countries where the game flourishes is now the cause of much con-

"La boxe" is now attracting attenall finesse of mature men and finish-France and clubs or "salons de boxe" and the astute Hugh D. McIntosh, of script, not published, much of which Australia, who has made a small fortune as a fight promotor in England. has invaded the French capital and will open his club tomorrow night with Sam McVey and Sam Langford as the attraction. McIntoch has secured the enormous Paris Hippodrome for the battle and there is every likelihood that it will be well filled. The place comfortably seats 8,000 people, while several thousand more can find standing room.

The French promoters regard the intrusion of McIntosh with some jealousy, but the fight-mad populace has given the Australian the glad hand, Monsieur McVey has long been a favorite in Paris and there is great popular curiosity as to what he will e able to do with the big black from Boston. The dopesters give McVey little chance, but he is being heavily backed by the Parisians as a matter of sentiment.

Boxing in Paris is no mere amusement for the lowbrows and the vulgar mob. "High society" has taken up the game and at the Cirque de brain, by the use of which he selects Paris, on the nights of "la boxe," the the best extant 'cello literature and street in front is encumbered with the carriages and automobiles of the noble and wealthy and fashionable.
