PECULIAR CONDITION IN PORTLAND CATTLE MARKET

Hay Is Extremely Weak While Wheat Prices Are Nominal-Some Think There Will Be No More Exported.

(Wednesday's Journal.)

Some very select cattle came into the yards from Shaniko today and were being held for better prices than recently received. The cattle market generally remains in poor condition. Killers' wants have been more than everyone of them has a surplus on vorable conditions. One of the large packers has re-

Potato Corner Planned, Careful inquiry made by the Joural confirms the reports current here that stocks of potatoes in the hands f producers are very limited.

It is now generally believed by hose familiar with the situatin that at least three quarters of last year's growth has already passed out of the hands of western Oregon producers. While only a small amount of the cales have passed into consumption, still buyers report their inability to secure more than a nominal supply at this time. Speculating dealers hold the bulk of the potatoes remaining in this stare ist as regards the situation in California. Therefore dealers generally are making every effort to boost quotations. With that end in view they are inclined to offer fractional advances to producers for remaining supplies. This would serve to further strengthen the situation. Owing to the delicures sore feet to stay cured.
