 way constructed along the edge of the depot grounds.

Other Suggestions.
 In commenting upon the Roundup park Mr. Weed declared that tract to have great possibilities for a landscape gardener. By the proper planting of trees and shrubbery he held that the tract recently purchased by the Roundup management could be made a place of beauty as well as a good Roundup grounds and athletic stadium.

The levee should be converted into a promenade for the accommodation of the people. It would be impracticable to make a driveway of the levee for the reason that it is not of sufficient width, but the speaker declared that at but slight expense the levee could be made into a beautiful walk. He also suggested that by the planting of proper shrubbery a rock garden could be created.

North Side Cemetery.
 Applause burst forth from the audience when the lecturer took up the subject of improving the old north side cemetery. He advised that the tract be converted into a park and suggested that the graves be removed and that a suitable monument be erected there in honor of the pioneers who have been buried on the spot in days gone by.

In discussing Olney cemetery Mr. Weed advised against the erection of fences or concrete work about the graves. Such work makes an elaborate and expensive cemetery but not a beautiful place.

Private Homes.
 The subject of improving the private homes of the city was also discussed by the speaker and while he praised the city for certain features he commented critically upon the failure of people to observe some of the principles of landscape gardening. Too many householders, he asserted, spoil their lawns by the promiscuous planting of trees and shrubbery. All shrubbery should be massed along the borders of the lawns or by the house foundations. By this course the lawns are made to appear expansive and more beautiful.

LIBRARY NOTES.

Material on "Landscape Gardening," "Landscape Gardening as applied to home decoration," by Samuel T. Maynard, is a book which presents to the reader good, practical instructions in the principles of growth and care, grouping and arrangement, underlying successful work in home ornamentation but may be equally adapted to the decorating of parks, public squares, school yards, etc.

The author gives plain and simple descriptions of the trees, shrubs and plants recommended and full and careful directions as to the soils best adapted to the growth of each. The many excellent illustrations add much to the value and attractiveness of the book.

Many interesting and instructive articles on the subject of landscape gardening are also to be found in the current numbers of the magazines, Country Life in America, Ladies' Home Journal, Woman's Home Companion and Outing, all of which, are to be found on our reading tables.

CHURCH BOYS WIN.

Company L Cadets Are Routed in Fast Game of Basketball.

With John Hamley, Jr., as the bright and shining star the boys of the Episcopal Sunday school of the Church of the Redeemer, won an exciting game from the company L cadets in the Commercially association gymnasium, Saturday evening, thereby winning the Junior championship of the city. The final score was 17 to 13.

A large number of friends of the participants on both sides had gathered to see this, the second game of a series of three and the rooting at times was very enthusiastic. Hamley, playing forward for the Sunday school team, was the sensational player of the evening, scoring 11 of the 17 points made by his side on five field goals and one foul goal. Greulich made on field goal and Breck 2.

Fowler and Mensor did all the scoring for the cadets, the former making two field goals and the latter one with six fouls.
