

You Well Dressed Men of This City Who Have Helped by Your Liberal Patronage to Make This Store What it is

ought to take some pride, as we do, in knowing what it is. It is unique among clothing stores in the fact that it deals in good clothes only. We recognize a quality line; and below that line we don't go. The demand for low prices tends to force quality below that line, but we will not sell goods that do not come up to our standard.

This spring stock is ready now; the product of months of careful preparation, selection, study; fabrics picked from the world's best markets; garments designed by the best fashion builders; tailored by the most skillful hand-craftsmen; the largest, most varied, most complete stock of fine clothing in the world.

Distinctive Suit Styles

The new models in suits for spring are exceptionally pleasing; and the new fabrics are a delight to the eye. Great ingenuity has been displayed in the variations of grays, browns, tans, blues; so many patterns and shades as to be almost bewildering; an endless variety; something for every taste; something becoming to every man. New English models in sack suits; the new Varsity; the Shape-maker; smart fashions, suitable for all wearers.

LAWYER'S FOREMAN IN TROUBLE AGAIN

Walter Gillman is causing Attorney Will M. Peterson much trouble these days. He is foreman on the lawyer's fruit ranch at Coyote and is such a valuable man that his services can ill be dispensed with. Recently he was arrested for stealing two horses from an Indian on the reservation and Mr. Peterson had to come to his rescue with bail to get him out from behind the bars. Monday he succeeded in getting himself incarcerated again. He is a squaw man and his woman got into a quarrel during the afternoon on Cottonwood street with another squaw and Gillman, himself, proceeded to settle the dispute by knocking the latter down. Three times he repeated this performance until the poor woman's face was bleeding and bruised. Chief Gurdane arrived on the scene and conducted the belligerent man to the jail and he was brought up before Judge Fitz Gerald and fined $15 which Peterson paid. The judge brought blushes to the face of the attorney when he rebuked him for stating in his defense of his foreman that the woman got what she deserved. The judge reminded him that he was a native of a state that is famed for its chivalry and the shot went home.

Countess Alleged Swindler.

New York, April 5.—Countess Anna Gustav Oxenterna, the wife of a Scandinavian noble who is engaged in business in New York, will be given a hearing today in Brooklyn on the charge of using the mails to defraud. It is alleged that the countess was associated with Bertel Kallenburg, a butler, who is said to have worked the so-called "Bible game."

Kallenburg's method of operating was to send a letter addressed to some recently deceased person, stating that a Bible ordered, and on which a deposit had been paid, was ready for delivery upon receipt of a balance of several dollars. The relatives usually sent the "balance."

Kallenburg has made a statement completely exonerating the countess from any knowledge of the scheme, saying that she received mail for him in her beautiful country home merely out of kindness. The butler is said to be of a prominent Swedish family and a graduate of a Stockholm university.

Kaiser Not to Visit Rome.

Rome, April 5.—Again Emperor William of Germany has had a change of heart in regard to his visit to Rome during jubilee year, and it is now understood that the German royal party will avoid Rome on the return from Corfu. Diplomats of the vatican are jubilant at the new turn of affairs, but the Italian people generally are deeply offended and the emperor on his next visit to Rome, will get a very cool reception.

When the Italian national celebration now in progress was first announced, the pope issued a statement declaring that the vatican would be closed to visitors during the jubilee year and asking that all monarchs friendly to the vatican remain away from Rome. Emperor William, who had intended visiting the Eternal City this year, cancelled his arrangements, but this led to such a public clamor in both Italy and Germany that he reconsidered his decision. After his recent meeting with Emperor Franz Joseph, of Austria, he again changed his mind and it now seems definitely decided that Rome will not see the emperor this year.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY SKETCH.

Prof. John A. Fleming who was recently awarded the Hughes gold medal of the Royal Society of London, is 62. To secure such a distinction from the Royal Society places one among the foremost scientists of the world and means an honor almost equal to that of being assigned a niche in America's Hall of Fame.

For 12 years Dr. Fleming has been the scientific adviser of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company. He has written many important scientific papers upon different subjects and he has delivered many courses of lectures before the Society of Arts and the Royal Institution in England. For 30 years Prof. Fleming has been engaged in experimental physics, researches concerning himself particularly with the technical applications of electricity. He is the author of a large number of books which have a world wide reputation for exactness and depth of knowledge.

He is the son of a minister. He has filled a host of notable positions in the scientific world. After his graduation from the Normal School of Science in South Kensington, England, he was demonstrator in the laboratories of the Royal College of Chemistry, and was also a private assistant to the late Sir Edward Frankland. Many new theories owe their birth to the mind and genius of Dr. Fleming. Many remarkable results in radio telegraphy and radio telephone and other similar ultra-modern lines of science have been advanced through the work of Dr. Fleming.

Maryland Church Congress, Baltimore, April 5.—The eighty-third annual session of the Maryland conference of the Methodist Protestant church was commenced today at Federalburg.
