cause it hardens the face, for one reason, and for another it requires an irreducible minimum of hair. While it is quite true that the coiffure is growing strangely less every week, it has not yet been reduced enough to satisfy the demands of the helmet. Possibly one can get this hat on the head with the aid of the shoe horn, but the difficulty is in getting it off without scalping oneself. It would be perfectly impossible to go on with the coiffure as it is when the hat is removed; one would have to begin at the beginning and do their hair over from the scalp out.

The little Dutch bonnet called the Wilhelmina, with several modifications of it, are most attractive. They all have the short brim in front, the round crown, and the upturned flaps over the ears. One of the most attractive shaps is in Delft blue, with a flat bow or black velvet in the back and a large straw butterfly in blue and yellow posed in front. These butterflies are on many hats and are made of varied fabrics from jeweled gauze to straw braid.

Neckwear is also novel and more charming than ever. Ties of narrow velvet, edged with tiny satin flowers, continue in favor. One to be worn with a lingerie blouse is made of an inch-wide strip of Irish crochet. It rounds the neck, crosses in front and falls to the bust in round ends. The crossing is held by a bunch of pink satin roses and green leaves, while a wreath outlines each end.

EPIDEMIC TAKES AWAY MANY PRAIRIE DOGS

In the event that the epidemic among prairie dogs is not shut off soon in the southern part of the state, and the ranchers are hoping that it won't be, there will be no need of the ranchers of that district banding together for the purpose of carrying on a war of extermination against them, according to Joseph C. Lewis of Alton, who is in the city on business connected with his nursery.

"There have been hundreds of the animals which have died within the past two weeks from some unknown cause," said Mr. Lewis yesterday. "It is seldom that one ever has an opportunity to see a dead prairie dog lying on the open range, but they are there by the scores in certain districts of the southern part of the state. It is considered possible that some ranch man may have put out poisoned grain for the animals, but whoever that kindly disposed person was, he has not been able to determine, if such there was. It seems more probable that they have got hold of some poisonous weed which is new in the district. No one has as yet found out what it is, but it is a God-send to the country, no matter what the cause may be. Last year there was hundreds of dollars' worth of wheat lost by the farmers because of the inroads made by the prairie dogs, and preparations were being made to fight the pests this year, but it appears that some other agency was responsible for the destruction of the dogs.

"They constitute a far greater pest in the district than do the grasshoppers and the efforts of the farmers thus far against them have been without avail."—Boise Statesman.

His Income. "What's your husband's income?" asked the settlement worker.

"It averages about 2:30 in the morning," answered the lady who was standing for the interview.

HOW SHE DODGED. Miss Marie Dressler was inviting her friends to a birthday party.

"There'll be a birthday cake, I suppose?" some one remarked.

"Yes, there'll be a cake, never fear," was the reply.

"And candles, of course?" went on the alleged wit.

"My friend," said Miss Dressler, "this is to be a birthday party, not a torchlight procession."—Rochester Herald.

JOHNSON'S TRAVELOGUES AND WILLARD COMING

At the Oregon on Wednesday and Thursday, April 26 and 27, Johnson's Famous Travelogues, combined with Willard, the man of mystery, will be the offering, and it is safe to say that this will prove the greatest and best popular priced offering at the Oregon this season. Two and a half hours of wholesome entertainment, instructive, as well as amusing, will be an evening rare, in towns the size of Pendleton.

In all the large cities, this attraction has proved a wonderful drawing card. In Denver, at the Auditorium, over 10,000 children attended the Travelogues alone. To offer them Travelogues alone would be a big attraction, but when combined with another attraction, it makes, what is without doubt, the greatest and best show at the prices, that has ever been seen here. The sale of seats opens on Tuesday at the following scale of prices, 15, 25 and 35 cents. Complete change of program each evening.

the people. Dr. Cook consented to personally appear in the picture because he felt that it would be a means whereby he could reach a great many of the American people with his version of what actually occurred. This he has not been able to do through the press and he sincerely hopes that those who see the picture will consider the story it tells well and decide for themselves as to whether or not he has had fair treatment. The Cosy will present for the first time in this city, "THE TRUTH ABOUT THE POLE," Saturday and Sunday.

THE NEWEST FASHIONS.

New York.—There is much in a name this year, particularly in the world of dress. One would require a prodigious memory to know all the names of the new hats. Take first, as a handful, these: the Jockey, the Windmill, the Aeroplane, the Quo Vadis, the Medic, the Fireman, the Russian Police. All of these are worn for each suits a different kind of face.

The helmet is the most trying of all. It is the shape used for the Quo Vadis the Fireman, the Jockey, and the Russian Police. It is not so extreme in the latter shape as the others. It is shaped exactly like its name implies, is high, is with or without a visor brim, has a deeply dented ridge across the entire top, and is more or less trimmed. It is difficult to wear be-
