

YOUNG MOTHERS

The greatest crisis in a woman's life is when first she becomes a mother. All the physical strength of her nature is demanded at such times, and it is necessary that her system be thoroughly prepared for the event in order that her health be preserved for future years. Mother's Friend is a woman's safest reliance; it is a medicine for external use, composed of oils and other ingredients which assist nature in all necessary physical changes of the system. Its regular use before the coming of baby prepares the muscles and tendons for the unusual strain, aids in expanding the skin and flesh fibres, and strengthens all the membranes and tissues. Mother's Friend lessens the pain and danger at the crisis, and leaves the mother in such healthful condition that her recovery is always rapid and natural. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Philadelphia 7, Washington 2.
Philadelphia, April 26.—Washington was again defeated here today, the score being 7 to 2. Groom weakened in the fifth inning, when three hits, including doubles by Oldring and Collins, two bases on balls and an error netted five runs. The inning wound up by Milan making one of the greatest one handed running catches ever seen at Shike park, the play robbing Davis of a possible home run.

Sacramento Downs Portland.
Portland, Ore., April 27.—Sacramento, by bunching hits in the first two innings yesterday, won the game from Portland by the score of 2 to 1. Portland had no difficulty in finding Fitzgerald when hits were of no use, but could not find him with one exception when their slugging would have proved effective.

Seals Lose One.
San Francisco, April 27.—Oakland fattened its batting average while administering a sound drubbing to the locals yesterday. Seven tallies against the Seals' two had been run up by the Oaklanders in the sixth inning, when for an hour, rain interfered with the game. With the resumption of play, Oakland added another run to its score. Jim Wiggs held the locals to but two runs. On the other hand, Willard Meikle lasted only six innings for the Seals. He was replaced by Frank Eastley.

Vernon Wins in Seventh.
Los Angeles, April 27.—With the score standing 4 to 0 against them at the end of the seventh inning yesterday, the Vernontes turned defeat into victory by bunching hits in the eighth, ninth and tenth. Delhi, backed by clean fielding, had the game well in hand until the ninth, when hits by Brashear, Stinson, Burrell and Sheehan tied the score. Couchman then displaced Delhi and the first three Vernontes up in the tenth filled the bases. Patterson scored on a wild pitch and a single by McDonnell sent Brashear and Stinson home.

THE DALLES INDIANS WERE INTELLIGENT

HAD GREAT ABILITY IN THE OLDEN TIMES

Basket Making Was a Fine Art—Woven from Willow Witches—The Dalles Was a Great Trading Place of the Redmen.

Trout Lake, Wash.—The old Indian village, situated near the modern, bustling city of The Dalles now stands was, in the olden times, known to the aborigines as Wingquatt. This was the trading place of the red man and in hundreds the Indians gathered from every direction.

The influence of the Wascos, who inhabited that portion of the country surrounding the village was great and the natives gathered here during the fishing season for trafficking, gambling and indulging in various sports. The Indians from the North and East brought horses here for trade for buffalo robes and furs, furs and dressed skins of several qualities, ropes made of wild hemp and of horse hair, and buffalo meat, etc. The Southern tribes brought Modoc and Pitt river, as well as Shasta and California Indian prisoners here for sale as slaves.

At The Dalles the Indians did not flatten their heads as those did farther down the river. Among those Indians who practiced the head-flattening fashion, the slaves were debarred from this mode. The Indians east of the Cascades are said by early writers to have been cleaner and more robust and more intelligent than those of the Willamette valley and lower Columbia river. However that may have been, the Indians are all very much the same now. The Indians of the Columbia river region once had a fashion of inserting strings of beads or quilla shells, the latter ornament being prized highly.

Clothes of Deerkins.
Collars of bears' claws were worn by the men while elk's tusks were used for decking the persons of women and children. The clothes of the "old school" Indians were made of deerkins, which, when new, were very white. These were made with fringe of the buckskin at the bottom of the dresses and all the seams of the men's clothing. Sometimes the costumes were decorated with shells and copper and brass, as well as glass beads that flashed and jingled with every movement of the wearer as he walked or rode.

Before modern cooking utensils came into use among the Indians, they used troughs and bowls hewn from cedar, and baskets woven from willow withes and roots, or grasses, made so tight they held water. Into these they placed the food to be cooked and by means of heated stones cast in upon the food this was cooked and made ready for use. Fine specimens of these ancient vessels are to be seen at Wishram village, above Granddalles, but the owners would not part with these valuable heirlooms at any price. So long have they been in use, particularly those made of wood, that they are black as ebony and very smooth. Many of them are carved very neatly and are quite artistic.

Spoons Made of Horn.
Spoons made of the horn of the Big Horn sheep were in use when seen on a visit to the village not long ago. When horn could not be obtained, spoons were fashioned from wood. In the bowls of these, grotesque figures were carved, and often symbols were used to convey some special religious thought to the one using it.

Salmon made the principal food for the Columbia River Indians in the olden times, as it does today. This was augmented by dried and fresh berries, roots and wild game. The roots consisted of peahay, which was quite bitter, boiled into a jelly, m'toothla, ground into flour by means of a native-made pestle and mortar; mamum and su-ky-wat made into bitter white cakes; camas, having a blue flower and growing in shallow ponds; calz, a wild sunflower; kouse root, dug in June or July. Then also they ate fresh water mussels. The roots were dried and pulverized. These contained a great deal of nutrition. The kouse root was very sweet and palatable, but it must be dug in the months named or it becomes very strong.

sopal minister, said Frey, "and he had been caused by the blow on his head. Death occurred while the unfortunate man was still unconscious. The deceased was born in Carthage, N. C. and had been a resident of Dalles for nine years. He lived on Logan Harrison streets. This afternoon funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock at the residence.

LABOR NEWS AND NOTES.

Unions all over the country are still giving New Jersey the palm for the best labor legislation.

The international convention of the copper plate printers will be held in Boston in July.

Serious trouble is threatened among the shop men of the Pennsylvania system at Altoona, as the result of the retrenchment policy recently put into effect.

Strikes in Austria have been more frequent during the past four months than in the history of organized labor. The recognition of the union is the main issue.

At the coming meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers, it is probably that one entire day of the session will be devoted to the discussion of the very timely and important subjects of accident prevention and industrial relief. Addresses will be made by men prominently identified with the problem, and an important feature connected with accident prevention and industrial insurance will be the displaying of a great number of lantern slides, illustrating not only the experiences of foreign countries, but of the United States. The fact that fully 1,000,000,000 persons are injured every year in the industries indicates the vital importance of the subject to labor, capital and the general public alike.

On May 3 a joint conference of the freight handlers' organizations of Boston and representatives of all the roads having terminals and steamship sheds in that city, will be held. The workmen will ask for better wages and hours. After the conference there will be another meeting, at which the representatives of the union will draw up final requests, making such additions or alterations as may have been suggested by the conference, and these will have their final presentation to the railroads on May 5.

MILITARY TOURNAMENT O. A. C.

May 5 Selected for Regimental Review by Governor West and Annual Inspector.

Corvallis, Ore.—The annual military tournament of the Oregon agricultural college cadet regiment will be held Friday, May 5 at the college armory, which Governor Forth has designated to be the finest in the country. Governor West will review the regiment, and Captain Laubach of the U. S. general staff, will make his annual inspection. It is expected that the special rates offered by the railroad will bring a large crowd of visitors to be entertained by the college throughout the day and evening. The program is as follows:

9 to 12 a. m., inspection by Captain Laubach on the campus.

2 to 2:30 p. m., review by Governor West on the campus.

2:30 to 3:50, company competitive drills for the Brodie Banner and Chambers Cup, including musical drill by entire regiment, wall scaling events, equipment and obstacle races, individual competitive drills and officers' sabre drills.

4, baseball game, University of Washington and O. A. C.

7:30 to 9 p. m., military exhibition in the armory.

9 to 12, annual military ball in the college gymnasium.

Never leave a good thing behind until you know there is a better one in front.
