AT THE PICTURE SHOWS

Orpheum.
Pendleton's favorite picture theater. Interesting program for Sunday's change:
1. "Athaliah, Queen of Judea." Pathe. The greatest film released. Remarkable in its dramatic power, sustained interest, thrilling episodes, wonderful scenery, gorgeous costumes and perfect pantomime. A Bible story taken from 2d Kings and 2d Chronicles, by Jean Racine, and woven into a wonderfully enthralling drama of equal interest to all.
2. "Across the Plains." Essanay. A great western dramatic picture that will arouse your fighting blood. See the race between a lone girl in a prairie schooner with a band of Indians—the thrilling fight in a deserted cabin—the rescue by the cowboys. "Across the Plains" is a great photo play and will delight all who see it.
3. "Billy's Valentine." Vitagraph. A refined comedy. His girl gets his valentine but instead of a missive of love she gets a "comic" in place of the bouquet of flowers, she gets a bunch of vegetables, then her little sister explains it all and sets Billy right.
4. "Society and the Man." Vitagraph. Almost like an illustration of an old-time Sunday school story, in which a writer asserted that city life ruined both men and women. Perhaps this family's experience is a type of an occasional wreck, but it by no means represents all. A good many may agree that they were wise to leave the rush of the city and seek for contentment rather than money. It will do no harm to disseminate that impression, but it is to be hoped that uninformed audiences will not accept the story this film tells as accurately representing life in the city. Four reels, 4000 feet of moving pictures.

The Pastime.
An unusually good program for Sunday. A big feature film:
"The Spanish Gypsy." Biograph. A love story with the scenes laid in the picturesque gypsy camps which are always attractive. Here is love, intense hate, jealousy and all the rest of it shown with consummate understanding. From the New York World: "The Biograph story 'The Spanish Gypsy' received a salvo of applause in a theater where applause is seldom bestowed on a picture. There is the same artistic treatment, clearness and strength of plot and skillful selection and posing which made and which sustains the Biograph name. As a picture it left such an impression of completeness that we were not at all surprised to note the applause."
"Between Two Fires." Edison, drama by Roy Norton the well known writer. An elaborately worked out film depicting an episode during the Franco-Prussian war. The dilemma of the girl is a study which will please and her determination to make a clean breast of the situation relieves all of whatever difficulty her previous duplicity may have caused. The love story gives the film heart interest.
"Getting His Own Back." Essanay. In this comedy there are situations of unusual cleverness which will arouse sales of laughter from all who view it.
"Lost—A Baby!" Essanay. A lively comic about "baby, baby, who's got the baby?"

"The Survival of the Fittest"—Selig. The story of a circus. A show girl with two lovers and a dancing bear. There is a thrill when the girl is attacked by lions, from which she is rescued by her former lover.

TODAY IS SOCIALISTS' "FOURTH OF JULY"

New York, April 29.—Today is the socialist "Fourth of July," and the disciples of the Marxian scheme of political economy in New York quit work to march in the annual May Day parade and listen to the socialist orators. The suffragettes had planned a monster demonstration for today, but socialist leaders persuaded Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch and other leaders of the Women's Political Union to postpone their parade until next Saturday.

Some Task.

The office manager turned to the new boy.
"Here, George," he said, "go into the next room and look up 'collaborate.' I am not quite sure about the spelling."
The boy disappeared and didn't return. The manager put the letter aside and took up some other duties. Presently he remembered the boy and went out to look for him. He found the lad studying the big dictionary with great intentness.
"What are you doing, George?" he asked.
The boy looked around.
"I forgot the word you told me, sir," he replied, "an' I'm lookin' through the book to find it."
The manager gasped.
"How far have you got?"
"I'm just finishing the second page, sir."
"That'll do, George." — Cleveland Plain Dealer.
