the cooperation of the members in his support.
J. J. Sayer.
J. J. Sayer, field secretary for the Portland Commercial club, addressed the association and told of the information he is gathering in eastern Oregon. He is obtaining data for use by the immigration bureau and also by the press bureau of the Portland club. Mr. Sayer also gave extended advice regarding the work of the Pendleton club and urged among other things that due interest be taken by Pendleton in the various sections of the county. He urged that better quarters be secured for the local club, but places the display and publicity features of the club above the social side.
Frank Sloan, president of the Stanfield Commercial club and D. C. Brownell of Umatilla, were also called upon for remarks and responded with interesting talks.
During the business session of the club the following new members were elected to membership: F. J. McMonies, S. R. Thompson, J. H. Gwinn and Lester Hamley.

To Fight in Paris.

AT THE PICTURE SHOWS

Orpheum.
Pendleton's favorite picture theater, excellent program for Tuesday's change.

1. "A Republican Marriage." Vitagraph. A story of the French revolution with a dramatic grasp and historic import. Helene de la Croix, an aristocrat of proud and passionate disposition, has been brought up to look upon the peasants as little more than cattle. Bernard, a blacksmith, conceives a passion for her. She is storm stayed in an old hunting lodge, which is struck by lightning, and Bernard rescues her from the burning building. Her castle is besieged by the revolutionary soldiers, Bernard, now a sergeant in the army, pleads for her, renounces his allegiance to the republic, espouses her cause, and chooses death with her rather than freedom without her.

2. "Priscilla and the Umbrella." Biograph. Another episode in the romantic life of Paul. Paul and Harry certainly have a tempestuous time fighting for the good graces of Priscilla. A very attractive comedy.

3. "The Apple of His Eye." Pathé. A drama that is interesting throughout. The story is clean and the actors perform their parts with understanding.

4. "The Peat That Failed." Kosmik. An outlaw marked with the "Fleur de Lis," the symbol which criminal making his way incognito through the country accompanied by his sister, is royally entertained by a hospitable lord. He makes love to the lord's daughter and plans to do away with his rival in her affections. His scheme fails. He then arranges a duel with the man he would have assassinated. His sister is so hurt by his evil plans that she reveals his true social position and makes it impossible for him to accomplish his designs.

5. Pictures in chemistry showing in full detail the formation of numerous products into crystals. Processes which really require hours are shown within a few moments' time.

The Pastime.
The house of quality. A good program for Tuesday's change.

"The Fortune Hunters," Selig. This is a society comedy drama. It depicts, with a good deal of animation, the adventures of two bogus counts who search for marriageable daughters of wealthy people. By pretending to be of noble birth, they find no difficulty in gaining an entree into wealthy if not aristocratic circles. "Get Rich Quick Wallace," a hale and hearty capitalist falls an easy prey to the rogues. Wallace has two daughters whose ambition to shine as social leaders, causes them to cast aside two honest young Americans who love them for themselves, in favor of these fake nobles, who are put out of business just as they lead their brides to the altar.

"The Warrant of Red Rube," by Melles. A story of how a bad man was too much for a number of deputies, but was captured by the sheriff disguised as a tenderfoot. The story is well told and has a degree of interest which holds the attention throughout. It is both thrilling and amusing.

"At the Old Mill," by George Kline. This love story is told around a picturesque old mill. The acting is good and there is considerable satisfaction seeing the crusty old landlord relinquish his demand for the girl's hand and bless the two young lovers. There is no question of the attractiveness of this picture.

"Making Bamboo Hats in Java."—The natives work with such sprightliness and good humor, the little children amongst them smile so roughly into the camera, that the film holds the attention from first to last. "The Bad Man's Downfall," Essany. A splendid western drama, with the winsome girl, the bad man and the avenging gentleman who rescues the girl.
