STATE FORESTER VISITS PENDLETON

WAGING CAMPAIGN FOR PROTECTION OF FORESTS

Says All the People of the State Should Be Interested in Holding Down Forest Fires—Is Experienced Woodsman.

F. A. Elliott, newly appointed state forester, is a visitor in Pendleton today and he is here in connection with the campaign he is waging for the education of the people with reference to the protection of the forests against fire.

Arriving in Pendleton this morning, Mr. Elliott has passed the day as the guest of Dan P. Smythe, member of the state forestry board. From here the state forester will go to Union and to Baker counties before returning to Salem.

Discussing the subject of forest fire prevention, Mr. Elliott said: "All the people of the state are interested or should be interested in holding down forest fires. Such fires not only mean a loss to the timber owners and to settlers, but when timber is lost by fire it means a heavy loss to the people in general for the reason that they lose the money that would otherwise be derived from logging the land and manufacturing the timber into lumber. A big part of the money expended by the lumbering industry goes as wages to workmen and for supplies."

Lumber Men Careless.
Regarding the fires that did so much damage last summer, Mr. Elliott declares his belief that much of the blame for those fires may be laid directly at the door of timbering concerns that were careless about fires. At times last summer there were fires that could have been easily handled when they first started, but through the neglect of the men chiefly interested they were allowed to burn on and later in the summer did immense damage. This year he thinks the lumbering people will be more than careful and will be zealous in firefighting because they have learned a costly lesson.

Camp tenders for Wardens.
In the reserves of eastern Oregon it will be the policy of the forester to appoint many deputies from among the sheep camp tenders. This policy has been urged by Dan P. Smythe, who is familiar with sheep conditions and feels the camp tenders if rightly selected will be able to do good service. Steps are being taken to secure the names of reliable and experienced camp tenders who will guard the fires in their localities. They will be paid only for labor actually performed. The United States forest rangers will also be authorized to enforce the rules of the state forestry board.

Hunters Are Cautioned.
Hunters and others who camp in the mountains for pleasure are strictly warned against leaving burning fires since they may spread and do much damage. There are strict laws for the punishment of those who show negligence in this regard and it will be the policy of the forester to see that such laws are enforced as closely as possible.

Is Experienced Woodsman.
State Forester Elliott has an experience as a woodsman and forester that should serve him in a splendid way in the position he now occupies. He was for many years in charge of the land department of the Oregon & California railroad and as such organized the first fire patrol ever formed in Oregon. He has devoted many years to forestry work and is enthused over the possibilities of his present position.

OPENING OF MILL IS BOON TO BEND

Bend, Or., May 3.—The reopening of the old Pilot Butte Development company's sawmill at Bend under the management of the Bend company has come as a boon not only to Bend but to all the adjacent country. For several months the sawmill has been shut, pending the outcome of negotiations which resulted in the recent transfer of the properties of the Bend Townsite company to a group of timber men and others. Now, under the new company, the mill has been again put in operation, and is cutting about 30,000 feet daily, and employing in the neighborhood of 40 men.

Not only does the new supply of lumber mean much to the building development of this town, but it is of great importance to the settlers upon the big homestead country to the southeast of Bend, where hundreds of landseekers are locating or have located, all of whom require lumber for the construction of homes.

The Oregon Trunk Railway is constructing a spur to the Bend company's mill. It is expected that much lumber will be shipped from it to the towns along the railroad north of Bend, these for the most part being now entirely dependent upon the Willamette valley mills for their lumber supply.

New York State League Opens.
Albany, N. Y., May 3.—Baseball had its official inaugural today in the cities of the New York State league, which includes Albany, Syracuse, Elmira, Utica, Troy and Binghamton, N. Y., and Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, Pa. The season will continue to September 17. The Albany senators open today at Troy.

Increased Gold Output.
London, May 4.—Reports received from Rhodesia, South Africa, place the gold output for the last month at over $6,000,000, nearly three times as much as during the preceding month.

Orpheum.
Pendleton's favorite picture theater. Fine program for Friday's change.

- "Winsor McCoy and his Animated Comics." Vitagraph. Winsor makes 4000 drawings of his characters from his celebrated cartoons, "Little Nemo" and suddenly they become active and cut up all sorts of pranks that make you think you are having one of "Little Nemo's" dreams.
- "Bob Sledding at Huntington, Long Island." Vitagraph. Showing the exciting and exhilarating winter pastime of coasting on the extensive hills of that section of Long Island that has made "Bob Sledding" a national pastime.
- "His Best Girl After All." Lubin. Young hubby, at a dinner with two girls, wins too well and dream- wife had discovered him. He "beat it" home with a "never again" resolution.
- "A Visit to Nassau, Bahama." Lubin. A scenic picture showing native life in this little West Indian paradise. Sponge and shell gathering, but building, village life and so on. Interesting and instructive.
- "The Resurrection of John." Edison. This is a deliciously funny comedy from start to finish. It tells an entertaining story and develops a number of interesting situations.
- "Isis." Pathe Feres. Isis was the great Moon Goddess of the Egyptians. She is the protectress of Thyrta, a beautiful singer, for whom she chooses Prince Dilo as a husband, sending him a message to that effect. The prince sees out Thyrsa and charmed with her grace and beauty, is more than willing to marry her and discard Sara, his former favorite.
- "A Dog's Instinct." Pathe. Irene Donald is employed at a milliner's and as usual at midday her maid sends Fido, the faithful black poodle, to bring her home.

The Pastime.
The house of quality. Program of interest for Friday's change.

"The Inherited Taint." Vitagraph. Herbert Warning inherits a fortune, at the same time he inherits a passion for drink. He becomes engaged to a society girl she is a heartless coquette and throws him over for Jack Thurston. Driven to despair, Herbert takes to drink. He meets a young nurse, Kathleen Holt, and falls in love with her. He asks Kathleen to marry him. She tells him that if he can resist drink for a year, she will consent. He fights his year's battle and finally triumphs over his weakness.

"The Letter With the Red Seal." Klein. Imagine being on ship board and finding that a letter which you had carried to the ship's captain gave directions to kill your husband as soon as the ship reached a certain latitude and longitude, then you can form some conception of the interesting complications developed in this film. The story is good and well told.

"The Trading Stamp Mania." American comedy. This story tells what occurred to an unfortunate man whose wife had the trading stamp craze.

"The City of Amalfi in Italy." This film shows the beautiful coast from Vietri to Amalfi on the Bay of Naples.

"With Interest to Date." (By Rex Beach). The story shows how Harry Hanford as young engineer, triumphs both in business and in love.

Plan to Develop Northwest.
Helena, Mont., May 4.—Hundreds of delegates from Northwestern states are here today for the purpose of perfecting the Northwestern Development league organized for the purpose of developing the entire northwest. Plans will also be completed for a great land show to be held either in St. Paul or Minneapolis next winter. The show will have for its only object the development of the northwest with the Twin City as the eastern gateway.
