WAS A GAY PREACHER.
Eastern Minister Had Special Liking For Blondes.
Pittsburg, Pa.—Behind closed doors the trustees and elders of McKeesport's fashionable First Presbyterian church are pondering ways and means to allay public opinion aroused by charges of desertion and unbecoming conduct made by the wife of the church's pastor, the Rev. Walter H. Price, who has disappeared.
"Don't spurn my love. Don't desert me now. Keep your promise!" These pleading protests form the keynote of a passionate letter in a feminine hand found in the pocket of the missing pastor by his wife.
Price, who is 45 years old, left behind a wife and five children. The fathers of several girls in McKeesport are making a search for him and it will go hard for him if he is discovered.
He is said to have a liking for blondes between 19 and 25 years of age, whom he took with him to make pastoral calls and "other church work." It is alleged.
The minister employed a stenographer whom he neglected to pay before he skipped out and the church trustees had to "foot the bill." Price is said to have been a strong preacher and to have done especially good work among children.
President Hunter of the board of trustees, referring to some of the evidence presented to that body said it was "awful." Mrs. Price is almost prostrated by the revelations.
Angelic Youth.
Mother—Just run upstairs and fetch baby's nightgown, Tommy.
Tommy—Don't want to!
Mother—Oh, well, if you are going to be unkind to your new little sister she'll put on her wings and fly back to heaven.
Tommy—Then let her put on her wings and fetch her nightgown!—The Throne.
