Newsy Notes of Pendleton

None in Police Court.
The police court docket presented a rather blank appearance this morning despite the fact that there have been sessions since Saturday. Sunday brought no offenders into jail and consequently the work of Judge Fitz Gerald was considerably lightened.

Circuit Court in Session.
The special May session of the circuit court convened this morning with Judge G. W. Phelps in the chair. The attention of the court during the entire day has been occupied with the cases of Williams vs. Cecil, and Gillette vs. Cecil appealed from the justice court of Echo. The plaintiffs are being represented by Attorney Henshlag of Echo and the defendants by Attorneys A. W. Gray of Stanfield, and L. A. Esteb of Echo. The other cases set for trial and the order in which they will be called follow: State vs. Flarty, State vs. Vermillion, Gilbert Co. vs. Peters, State vs. C. C. Hendricks et al and Nolen vs. Nolen. The grand jury is in session and will probably return several indictments against men now in jail.

Echo Played Good Game.
Manager R. B. Stanfield of the Echo Lizards is in Pendleton today enroute home from Weston where his team played the Mountaineers yesterday and suffered defeat by the score of 5 to 3. Manager Stanfield is greatly pleased with the showing his team made because of the fact that he was greatly handicapped due to the fact that five of his regular team turned in their suits last week because of some fancied grievance and he was forced to fill their places with high school boys and "has-beens." He had no pitcher but during the last six innings the hard hitting Weston players only gathered two hits and one run off his improvised slab artist. The spirit of the Echo manager is to be commended for, despite the discouragements he has been forced to work under, he is always on hand at every game and ready for the fray.

Jack Stanfield, Mascot.
Young Jack Stanfield, mascot for the Echo baseball team has been in the city today in company with his father R. B. Stanfield who manages the Echo twirlers. Jack has just acquired fame through the medium of the Oregon Journal yesterday with the following sketch, though the Journal erroneously stated that the boy was the son of R. N. Stanfield instead of R. B. Stanfield.
"The Echo team, of the Blue Mountain league, has a mascot who, although only eight years old, threatens to break into professional baseball. He is Jack Stanfield son of the team's manager, R. B. Stanfield.
Besides being manager and playing captain of the Echo Juniors, whom he has trained in the inner workings of the national game with studious care, Jack gets out with the big fellows in practice and holds his own. He is said to be the youngest "playing mascot" in the west."

STAGE STILL LURES WIFE OF DR. MUNYON

Chicago. — "There is hope." So said Dr. James M. Munyon, the millionaire patent medicine king, a score of years ago, and his words were displayed in the front windows of every ophthalmic shop.

"There is hope." So echoes Dr. Munyon's beautiful wife, who twice tackled matrimony and found it a failure and three times essayed the stage with varying success, as she prepared for a fourth theatrical debut by a brief engagement on Chicago's moving picture circuit.

Failure to find happiness as a wife drove Mrs. Munyon back to the stage. She hopes to find an actress that will not drive her back to the homeopathic villa of her sexagenarian husband.

Now, spurred on by the applause of the "fans" in the tiny Casino 10-cent theater at North Clark and Illinois streets, she announces that she will not return to the old religion with the doctor, but will carve out success for herself before the footlights. On this last point there seems to be some difference of opinion.

Charles Moore, stage manager of the Casino has little faith in the art of the beautiful Mrs. Munyon.

"You know how it is with these society women," he said. "They all think they can act and sing, and there's only one in a thousand of them who ever makes good. Mrs. Munyon wasn't any scream here."

"My voice is all gone and I had to talk my songs instead of singing them," said the artist herself. "That is all that is the matter."
Mrs. Munyon uses her maiden name Pauline Neff, on the stage. She is 25 years old. Dr. Munyon is 61.

FLIRTATIONS IN SEATTLE COME HIGH

Seattle, Wash.—That a courtesy extended to her on a Capital Hill street car by F. S. Lang, a local stove manufacturer at 1827 First avenue, resulted in a flirtation during which he asked her if she believed in "love at first sight" and called her "honey" and "dearie," was the charge made on the witness stand today by Miss Mae Aronstein, who is suing Mr. Lang for $50,000 damages for breach of promise in failing to carry out his promise to marry her.

Lang admits that he flirted a little with Miss Aronstein before he married his present wife but charges that the present litigation is blackmail. When Lang married, Miss Aronstein lay in wait for Lang at the Rainier Grand Hotel with a horsewhip but some friends conveyed the news to him and he came not to the trial.

GREY MARE IS HOMESICK. Can't Board Ferry So Swims Across the Columbia.

Vancouver, Wash., May 22.—The love of home was so strong in a dapple grey mare today, that she risked her life in reaching it by swimming the Columbia river, where it is a mile wide, and more than 30 feet deep.

The horse was recently sold to the St. Johns Lumber company, but she broke away and reached the ferry slip on Hayden Island yesterday. At every landing of the boat she was driven back to the top of the hill, and she was still persistent in trying to get on the ferry.

This morning the homesick mare was turned into a pasture by the ferry landing, and in a few minutes she was on the river bank, surveying a course which she was to follow. No one being around, she jumped into the muddy torrent and began to paddle for the Washington shore, holding her head upstream.

She passed the City of Vancouver ferry in the middle of the stream, and kept on her weary way, the water covering all except her head and ears, and they, too, were at times submerged by the waves. When she was about two-thirds across she began to go down stream and her long swim began to tell on her power of endurance, but she paddled away and finally landed near the shipyards of the Pittock & Leadbetter Lumber company, where in a few minutes after she had shaken the water from her hair, began to browse along the bank.

aid treatment by field surgeons. It was seen that M. Berteaux was fatally hurt and that M. Monis was seriously injured. After the ministers had been cared for, the surgeons dressed the wounds of those who had received minor bruises.

WAR MINISTER IS KILLED.

There are various versions as to the cause of the accident, but all seem agreed that it occurred with such rapidity that there was no time for M. Berteaux, M. Monis and the others to escape.

The father thought Pierce mentally incompetent to contract a marriage, as at the time, he said, the young man was suffering from the effects of about 45 drinks and 50 cigarettes a day.

Dr. Carlos F. McDonald, called as an expert, gave it as his opinion that a person who drank and smoked so much was in no condition of mind to contract marriage.

The petition denied that any agreement existed whereby the action would not be defended. Young Pierce did not appear, but his father told in detail his objections to his son's wife and also said he had refused to pay her $25,000 which his son demanded to recompense her for the income she had lost by reason of her marriage to Pierce.
