THE STORY OF "THE FALL OF TROY

Menelaus, King of Sparta, going to join his soldiers, bids an affectionate good-bye to his wife, Helen, the most beautiful of Greek women. The parting takes place in the gardens of the palace, the imposing structure, with its massive columns and marble stairs, lending a background to a scene of wondrous beauty, with gushing fountains, lovely flowers, strutting pea-cocks and flittering birds. Menelaus leaps into his chariot, and is seen galloping away through picturesque
