TENNESSEE GROCER BELIEVES IN ADVERTISING

An advertising feat of particular interest to newspaper publishers and advertisers not only remarkable for its size but for its clean contents expressive of the sentiment that "There is something better than making a living—making a life" was "put over" by Mr. Bowers, a local grocer of Memphis, Tenn., advertising his 35 stores, called "Temples of Economy," and appearing in the May 9th issue of the Memphis Press.
The advertisement covered six and one-half pages, which is going some, in one issue.
Mr. Bowers is well known to many publishers of great metropolitan newspapers. His recent fight against the fixed-minimum-price-plan of manufacturers of food products was the subject of many editorials in great newspapers. He carried this fight direct to congress and only dropped it when the supreme court last month handed down an opinion upon the point it issue which established the right of a retailer to sell goods at his own price. The bill which Mr. Bowers had introduced at Washington made him known to hundreds of newspapermen, congressmen and to men of large affairs who were vitally interested in the point fought for as no other man has ever fought. But to the publication and advertising world in particular his latest advertising feat is interesting.

CENTERVILLE MAN ARRESTED FOR MURDER

Goldendale, Wash.—Herman Matte, of Centerville, who was with Albine Mattens when the latter was drowned in the Big Klickitat river a week ago, was last night arrested on a complaint of the Prosecuting Attorney charging the sale of intoxicants to minors. The sheriff made the arrest. The report of the arrest followed the finding of the drowned man's gun badly battered and the stock broken, by searchers for the body, and rumors are rife that Matte knows more than he has told of the death of his friend. The officers refuse to commit themselves, but the general belief here is that Matte's arrest on the liquor charge is a blind. At the time of Mattens' death quite a party of Centerville people, members of the Finnish colony, had gone on a fishing and camping trip. Mattens and his wife, accompanied by Matte, left the camp near the Rusk Soda Springs one morning and the woman and Matte returned a short time later reporting that Mattens had fallen into the river and drowned, though they did not see him fall in.

BRIEF BREEZY NOTES ABOUT ECHO PEOPLE

(Special Correspondence.)
Echo, Ore., May 25.—The young man from one of our neighboring towns who got too much circus while here last week and broke a large window in one of the stores, was arrested yesterday and tried before Justice Scholl. He escaped with the light fine of $10 and costs. To the young man's credit he voluntarily agreed to replace the window which costs $7.50, which accounts for the minimum fine.
The funeral of H. C. Thomson was held here yesterday at 1:30 p. m. from the M. E. church. The services were conducted by Rev. Reese of Milton. The remains were laid to rest in the I. O. O. F. cemetery. The funeral was largely attended as he was well and favorably known.
The splendid rains continue in this section much to the joy of the farmers and everyone for it means thousands of bushels of grain as well as great help to the hay.
Yesterday afternoon Ellis Ragen, the 13 year old son of Mrs. James McCoy had the misfortune of having his collar bone broken while playing with neighboring boys. Dr. Dorn was called and reduced the fracture.
Mrs. M. E. Baker of Pendleton, visited here yesterday with her daughter, Mrs. J. T. Hoskins.

BEWARE FAKE TREE DOCTORS.

Frauds Perpetrated by Men Using Agricultural College as Reference.
Corvallis, Ore.—Frauds are being perpetrated in several parts of the state by men who give as their references the names of professors at the state agricultural college, without authority. One claims preposterous things in the way of curing apple trees of anthracnose and protecting them from the codling moth by applying chemicals to the roots. Another is offering a premium with subscriptions to a paper, which turns out to be a fake.
Dean A. B. Cordley of the agricultural school, has received a letter from a farmer near Tuolatin, asking if he gave his endorsement to such men. The letter says:
"A man named Saunderson claims to have a treatment whereby he renders trees immune from diseases by the application of some chemicals to the roots, especially apple trees. He claims that they will be cured of anthracnose, and that the codling moth will not bother such trees for six years, and that no spraying is required on treated trees, other than a light spray of concentrated lye once every two or three years, to keep moss off the trees. Mr. Saunderson gave me the name of Prof. Cordley as reference, so I took the college to give me its opinion. I regard this fellow as a fraud, pure and simple, and in order to protect my neighbors from his operations I have written to the college."
"I know nothing whatever of him," Dean Cordley replied, "and if I should give my testimony in the case, it would be to the effect that any man who claims to be able to render trees immune from the attacks of the codling moth anthracnose and other fungus diseases by an application of certain chemicals to the roots of trees, is a fraud."
Another letter from Lebanon states that a young man claiming to be connected with the college is taking subscriptions for a paper and offering a premium, which turned out later to be a fraud. Dean Cordley has issued a statement that there is no such person connected with the institution, and that he is evidently rading upon the popularity and reputation of the college to make smooth the way for his fraud.

POISONED BAITS TO KILL BUGS.

Oregon Agricultural College Expert Tells How to Protect Gardens from Pests.
Corvallis, Ore.—Poisoned baits are desirable for destroying grasshoppers, cut worms and a few other insects," says H. F. Wilson, entomologist at the Oregon Agricultural College, in a new bulletin on insecticides for the garden, which will soon be off the press.
"Such baits are most effective if used in early spring," he says. "Poisoned slices of tomato or some similar vegetable treated with a strong solution of arsenite of lead or Paris green are used to poison sow-bugs and wire-worms."
"To make a bran arsenic mash mix thoroughly a pound of white arsenic, half a pound of brown sugar and six pounds of bran, and add enough water to make a wet mash. A spoonful should be placed at the base of each tree or vine. For cut worms a still better bait may be prepared by mixing thoroughly a pound of Paris green, 15 pounds of middlings, and 15 pounds of bran, dry, and sowing it broadcast upon the vegetation, about the borders of cultivated fields or gardens. It may also be sown with a seed drill along the rows of plants to be protected. So used it has been found especially valuable for destroying cut worms in onion fields."
Advertised letters for week ending May 25, 1911.

AT THE PICTURE SHOWS

Orpheum.
Pendleton's favorite picture theater. Strong program for Friday and Saturday.
1. "A Priestess of Carthage." Gaumont. A wonderful production laid in the days when Carthage was at war with Rome. The acting is forceful and well balanced, the titular role being sustained with fine discretion and art by Madame Gravier of the Theatre de la Renaissance, Paris. In every sense, costuming, acting, staging and photography, this film can not be surpassed.
2. "Unto Us a Child is Born." Selig. This is an interesting, well acted drama. It tells a heart story with interest and pathos. The story is clear and the actors perform their parts with understanding.
3. "The Peace Offering" or "The Absconding of Bridget." Vitagraph. Howard Graham is married to a redheaded wife, which means she has a very bad temper. Bridget, the cook, who is also redheaded, is not immune from fits of anger, nor free from being a subject of the spleen of her mistress. Bridget feels that she has endured Mrs. G.'s abuse long enough and decided to take French leave. On her way to the front door she spies Mrs. Graham's fur coat. She takes it, leaving her own old raglan in its place. Mrs. G. summons the police sergeant, who starts his men on the track of the guilty person. The following morning Mrs. Graham meets Bridget. Threatened with arrest, Bridget returns the coat to Mrs. G., and on her way home she (Mrs. G.) is captured by the police. She is released by her husband, who assures the police that she is not the guilty person.
4. "The Lily of the Tenements." Biograph. A story of east side New York, showing how a young man saves a young girl's virtue and his father from an awful deed.

The Pastime.
The house of quality. Good program for Friday's change: "Helping Him Out." Lubin. We have here another of the sparkling comedies for which the well-liked Lubin company has established a reputation. The story of the elopement is one of the best comedies presented in a long time. That all the family should aid the young man and suggest an elopement is a conceit which cannot fail to win applause from any audience. It is really one of the most pleasing stories put on the screen in many moons.
"The Latest Edict of Francis II." Urban. A series of scenes of life at the French court during the time of Catherine de Medici. The story is based upon a love affair with a man nearly executed. It is, indeed an unusually interesting picture full of human interest and incident. Introducing the following scenes. The Court-yard, the audience chamber, the royal document, love scene on terrace, faithful until death, final verdict, the king's pardon, La Remande in Prison, Catherine de Medici intervenes, the firing party, king's pardon, saved by love.
"The Heart of a Savage." A red-man's sacrifice through gratitude. The picture of the uprising, the attempted warning and the misunderstood action of the Indian ending with his tragic death are events in a good story.
"The Chief's Tallman." A western story, Pathe American Co. Is an Indian story in a new and acceptable form associated with the life of a preacher and his family.
Scenes at Solombo, Ceylon. Eclipse.
If the people of Oklahoma City should happen to get into trouble over their state capital removal they can do no better than retain Colonel Roosevelt as chief counsel.
When Mr. Vanderlip gets back to New York after his tour of the country, won't he please cross his heart and tell us which city in the United States is really, truly the best?
