BLUE BACK SALMON IS ON EXHIBITION

Hundreds of people have gathered before the fishpond window of the La Dow & Peterson hardware store today, viewing the exhibit of young Albino salmon. They were presented to the store by President C. K. Cranston of the state board of fish and game commissioners, who brought them up with him this morning from the state's central hatchery at Bonneville.

The technical name of the tiny fish is Oncorhynchus Nerka, but they are commonly known as the Blue Back salmon which formerly swarmed the Willowa lake by the thousands and were there known as Red Fish, through the fact that they turned red upon reaching their spawning ground. The hatchery officials are now feeding 9,000,000 baby Blue Backs and Chinooks at the Bonneville hatchery at the present time, but the Albinos are very scarce.

There are exactly 27 of the pretty little fish in the local store window and they are now in the pond formerly occupied by the big rainbow trout. This fine specimen was placed in the window last September. At that time he was but five inches in length and this morning when he was given his liberty in the Umatilla river just below the Lee street bridge he measured a trifle more than 12 inches.

Incidentally, in connection with the liberation of this fish, G. I. La Dow, head of the firm of La Dow & Peterson and president of the Umatilla county fish and game commission, announced that the store would present a $10 rod to the man who catches and brings in the trout. He was marked in such a way that he can easily be identified, but the nature of the marking is known only to the proprietors of the store.

Traveling Men Meet.

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 26.—More than a thousand traveling men from over the southwest are in attendance today at the annual convention of the Kansas-Oklahoma jurisdiction of the United Commercial Travelers.

Orpheum.

Pendleton's favorite picture theater. Strong program for Friday and Saturday.

1. "A Priestess of Carthage." Gaumont. A wonderful production laid in the days when Carthage was at war with Rome. The acting is forceful and well balanced, the titular role being sustained with fine discretion and art by Madame Gravier of the Theater de la Renaissance, Paris. In every sense, costume, acting, staging and photography, this film can not be surpassed.

2. "Unto Us a Child is Born." Selig. This is an interesting, well acted drama. It tells a heart story with interest and pathos. The story is clear and the actors perform their parts with understanding.

3. "The Peace Offering." Vitagraph. Howard Graham is married to a redheaded wife, which means she has a very bad temper. Bridget, the cook, who is also redheaded, is not immune from fits of anger, nor free from being a subject of the spleen of her mistress. Bridget feels that she has endured Mrs. G.'s abuse long enough and decided to take French leave. On her way to the front door she spies Mrs. Graham's fur coat. She takes it, leaving her own old raglan in its place. Mrs. G. summons the police sergeant, who starts his men on the track of the guilty person. The following morning Mrs. Graham meets Bridget. Threatened with arrest, Bridget returns the coat to Mrs. G., and on her way home she (Mrs. G.) is captured by the police. She is released by her husband, who assures the police that she is not the guilty person.

4. "The Lily of the Tenements." Biograph. A story of east side New York, showing how a young man saves a young girl's virtue and his father from an awful deed.

The Pastime.

The house of quality. Good program for Friday's change:

"Helping Him Out." Lubin. We have here another of the sparkling comedies for which the well-liked Lubin company has established a reputation. The story of the elopement is one of the best comedies presented in a long time. That all the family should aid the young man and suggest an elopement is a conceit which cannot fail to win applause from any audience. It is really one of the most pleasing stories put on the screen in many moons.

"The Latest Edict of Francis II." Urban. A series of scenes of life at the French court during the time of Catherine de Medici. The story is based upon a love affair with a man nearly executed. It is indeed an unusually interesting picture full of human interest and incident. Introducing the following scenes: The Court-yard, the audience chamber, the royal document, love scene on terrace, faithful until death, final verdict, the king's pardon, La Romandie in Prison, Catherine de Medici inter-poses, the firing party, king's pardon, saved by love.

"The Heart of a Savage." A red-man's sacrifice through gratitude. The picture of the uprising, the attempted warning and the misunderstood action of the Indian ending with his tragic death are events in a good story.

"The Chief's Talisman." A western story. Pathe American Co. Is an Indian story in a new and acceptable form associated with the life of a preacher and his family.

STORES CLOSE AT TWO NEXT TUESDAY

SPECIAL BALL GAME FOR DECORATION DAY

G. A. R. Will Observe Occasion—Baseball Fans Lead Move to Have Business Houses Close for Game With Weston.

On Tuesday afternoon, May 26, the stores of the city, or practically all of them, will close at 2 o'clock in the afternoon or sooner in honor of Decoration day and to permit employees to attend a special ball game to be played here between the Pendleton and Weston teams. The game will be a return game for the match being played at Weston this afternoon.

The G. A. R. men are also planning Decoration Day observances and all indications point to the fact that the soldier-dead will be well remembered by Pendleton this year.

Backers of the baseball team took the lead in the move to get the stores to close at 2 o'clock for the game which is scheduled to commence at 2:30. Up to this afternoon the following houses had signed an agreement to close at 2 o'clock.

Alexander Department Store, The Peoples Warehouse, Boston Store, F. E. Livengood & Co., Bond Bros., Workmen's Clothing Co., Empire Meat Co., R. Folsom, George H. Clark, Ladow & Peterson, Owl Tea House, Max Baer, Taylor Hardware Co., Wonder Store, John S. Baker, H. D. Gray, H. H. Wessel, Frazer-Nelson Co., A. L. Schaefer, Pendleton Furniture Co., Hamley & Co., Cash Market, Kupers & McCook, E. L. Smith & Co., W. J. Clark & Co., Standard Grocery Co., Gerard & Kirkpatrick, Nissen Implement Co., Golden Rule Store, J. L. Vaughan, William Hanscom, Murphy Bros., Mark Moorhouse, R. M. Sawtelle, A. Eklund, The Hub, E. L. Power & Son, Central Meat Market, Jos. F. Keney, Sharon & Eddings, Charles Koch, C. D. Rayburn.

WAS DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Horse-trader Kicks Sick Wife in Face Then Murders Her.

Wayland, Mo.—At St. Francisville, a village five miles north of here, Dave Conn, a traveling horse trader, walked into his brother-in-law's house at 5 o'clock this morning, went to the bed where his sick wife was lying, told her that he had come to kill her, and then proceeded to carry his threat into execution. After he had fired three bullets into his wife's breast, from the effects of which the defenseless woman died almost instantly, Conn turned the pistol on himself, pulled the trigger and fell a corpse beside the body of his wife. The weapon was a 22-calibre revolver.

It was one of the most cold-blooded murders that has ever occurred in Clark county, and has stirred the community as nothing else in a criminal way has done within the memory of the oldest resident.

There is no doubt but that the double tragedy was premeditated. Conn was a worthless fellow and made life so miserable for his wife that she was obliged to leave him, having made her home with her sister, Mrs. Harvey Nye, at St. Francisville, since Monday last. She had a suit for divorce pending at Keokuk, her former home, and it is stated that he has intimated to her that at the time that she filed her application that she would never live to see the day when she would be legally separated from him.

The Cosy.

Friday and Saturday.

"As Ye Sow." Rex. A story which depicts the consequences of youthful folly. No matter what methods of prevention have been suggested, nothing can be devised which will assuage th sorrows and heartaches which are the certain results of such sin. It is unusual that a lawful wife should do what this one is shown as doing, but her act makes a fine ending to an extra fine picture. Exquisitely colored film throughout.

"Ogallah." Powers. An extraordinary Indian picture which illustrates the Indian characteristics as they are commonly understood. The relentless pursuit of the kidnaper by the Indian, the long shot with his bow, and the final vengeance are accurate in their delineation of Indian character, which is savage and cruel as Indians are by nature. Its strength cannot be denied and it arouses the keenest interest. Finely colored.

"Strategy." American.—A film that tells a tragic story leading to a thrilling climax and ending in a situation that is truly laughable and funny.

"The Fakir's New Servant." Gt. Northern. An interesting trick picture showing a magician doing all kinds of strange stunts, but when his servant tries to do the same thing he gets into enough trouble to keep everyone laughing.

"Troubles of a Trip." Gt. Northern. A lively comedy, showing the efforts of a wife to prevent her spouse having as good a time as he expected. (Special features for Sunday's program.)
