LAST WILL OF CLASS OF 1911

By Nelle Anibal.

Be it known to all that on this twenty-fifth day of May, 1911, the class soon to leave Pendleton high school does hereby make known its last will and testament which is to be duly executed upon the departure of this class from high school.

The heirs, the class of 1912, are not to break this will, and since to each individual a valuable heritage is left, we can deny no just reason for the breaking of this document. To the heirs we have tried to be most liberal and hope that the gifts will be accepted in the proper, grateful spirit.

Since we have made a careful study of the vital, motive and mental temperaments of the members of the class of 1912 we are able to quite accurately determine those characteristics, which, although they are necessarily lacking during only the third year in high school, will make their last year more faultless, pleasant and profitable.

Accordingly it is thought that a small portion of that remarkable capacity for following out a train of thought and for concentrating all faculties upon one subject, which we all know belongs to Louis Anderson should be beneficially left to a Junior or who is somewhat rambling in thought and who is rewarded for his love of variety, including everything from snake-hunting to prize-fighting. So we think an act of charity is performed by leaving to Ross Carroll this splendid inheritance.

Then imagine the gratitude of Claud Hampton when he hears that to him descends a part of the judicious cautiousness of Richard Devine, whom we all know is over-solicitous that more physical culture be introduced into the public schools, in order that posterity may enjoy the physical advantages from which he has been barred.

To the practical, studious Carl Eason, we leave a part of the romantic character of our restless perpetual-motioned class historian—Arthur Jordan.

Perhaps a part of the faculty of imitation by the use of which Mollie McMill could assume any mood she chose and enact its proper manifestations, could be wisely divided between Hazel Young and Myrell Parlette who will find that this gift will attract in most social gatherings and the spirit of youthful enterprise as is she from whom they inherit this blessing.

Fortune indeed is Delta Morse upon whom we bestow a goodly share of the ability of Emma Richardson for planning original ways and methods for accomplishing things and her abnormal intuitive perceptions of the relations of causes and effects—especially in affairs of the heart.

We would also, for his own safety impart a reasonable portion of the causality which has, we fear, converted Ray Simpson into an "impractical theorist," to Clayton Strain who will, by using it to its intended purpose, realize his advantage over many.

From a well-known sensible girl, by name Blanche Badley, who is well endowed mentally but who would rather wield considerable influence in the realm of society, we may safely give to Agnes Anderson, an adherent to the principal that a few tried friends are of more importance than many estimable acquaintances, a part of Blanche's inclinations to change semi-yearly, the object of her affections.

To Chester Fee, who is capable of manifesting great lung power but to whom that commanding and all conquering genius which usually bends everything to its will and of which we know James Hartwell is the possessor, we bequeath enough of the before mentioned faculty to make illustrious his final year in high school.

To Francis Saling who possesses a pre-eminent degree to love and to be loved and which is irresistibly attracted by the other sex, we leave in the hope that she will use it to overcome her fickle amatorial ideas, a part of the combativeness of Cressie Baker, who we all believe, when aroused, might replace discretion with valor.

From John Nolte, a boy who is naturally ambitious to shine and perhaps a little apt to live upon the smiles and frowns of associates, and who is polished and polite, in the extreme, we would grant to Clifford Jordan somewhat indifferent to popularity, and not particularly complimentary, enough of his over-dose of approbation of Mr. Nolte, to enable him to reach that standard of dignity which becomes a senior.

If one Junior could be more fortunate than another we would think that Lenora Horn was that particular person, for to her is given a most valuable gift—the inexhaustible flow of conversation of Bee Brownell.

Some of the persistence and executive-ness which enables Harvey McPherson to be remarkably energetic, ready to grapple with anything, to face any odds, but which without a doubt will make him an intellectual giant of the age, is to be equally divided between Helen Johns and John Hinderman.

To Chester Gordon, we concede a portion of the temperament of Dale Chessman, who is very ambitious and aspiring in the highest degree but who we fear is pursuing the wrong course in as much as he hopes to reach the goal of fame through an effective display of his magnetic glances and hypnotic influence.

Since we shudder, lest a certain Leo Haw will be overcome by laborious pursuits of knowledge and culture, we leave to him a part of the tenderly hand characteristic of Lynwood Livermore who is generally inclined to attempt too little rather than too much, and who is very moderate in his expectations for the future.

Then the consciousness which causes Etta Baker to be governed always, by moral principals and to be scrupulously exact in matters of right and to set up lofty standards of morality, is to be given to Muriel Saling.

The natural talent of Clem McCoy for computation and his fondness for statistical information we wish to be given to Harry Siebert.

Then from Grace Fimmel whose expectations are almost unbounded and who we are sure, spends her life in a world of bright illusions we would tenderly hand some of the lovely visions of Clair Raley who by combining them with her rare artistic ability will make world-wide fame for herself.

Again, to Wayne Chapman who has not extraordinary elevated notions of the properties of life but who is quite fastidious at times we would give some of Charles Milne's non-sentimentalism and his liking for the plain and substantial rather than the ornamental.

From the symmetrical Brook Dickson, who is remarkably apt in exercises involving skill in balancing, etc., and who is greatly annoyed at the

BRIEF BREEZY NOTES ABOUT ECHO PEOPLE

(Special Correspondence.)

Echo, Ore., May 29.—Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Scribner returned Saturday from Walla Walla, where Mr. Scribner has been having his eye treated. The doctor gave some hopes that his eye may be saved.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Gilbert were among those who attended the ball game in Pendleton yesterday between the Walla Walla and Pendleton teams.

Miss Opal Cochran of Ione, spent the week end here visiting with Miss Ina Watenburger. Miss Cochran returned home this morning.

The Misses Nona and Zena Houser visited yesterday in Pendleton.

Mrs. R. N. Stanfield came up from Stanfield yesterday and spent the day here visiting with friends.

Miss Beulah Barker, who taught school at Heppner the past year has returned to her home at this place.

Mrs. Al Moore and daughters, the Misses Ruth and Ella Moore, left yesterday on the westbound local for Seio, where they expect to spend the summer.

E. E. Lewis, accompanied by a party of friends, went to Pendleton in his automobile yesterday to witness the baseball game played there.

Miss Malbie Fuller of Minnesota, is here on a two weeks' visit with Miss Beulah Barker.

Mrs. W. H. Worley was a passenger to Pendleton on the motor this morning.

Miss R. B. Stanfield and little Miss Maxine visited in Pendleton today.

GARRISON FIRST IN ORATORY.

Adams and Dupurtius of Idaho and Washington in Contest.

Los Angeles.—J. G. Garrison, Pomona college, California, won first prize and Guy A. Woods, Willamette university, Oregon, was awarded second prize at the interstate oratorical contest of the intercollegiate prohibition association, held at Blanchard hall, in the city tonight. Joseph M. Adams of the University of Idaho and Daniel Dupurtius of the University of Washington made it hot for the winning contestants by the excellence of their efforts and received the unreserved plaudits of a large Los Angeles audience. They were warmly congratulated on their fine orations by Dr. E. S. Chapman, who announced the decisions of the judges.

Garrison will represent the Pacific coast at the next national contest in the east. California has won five out of the last eight interstate debates.

BOX BEFORE CHARTERED CLUBS

All Other Matches Barred, Says the Governor of Missouri.

Kansas City, May 29.—From Jefferson City came information that just before starting for here Gov. Hadley said it was his intention to stop all boxing contests in Missouri not given by chartered clubs. If necessary, he is quoted as saying, he will call out the state militia to prevent the contests. The governor has no objection to boxing contests being held by private clubs.

New York has a four-year old boy with a suicidal mania. Possibly he has read the theory that the good die young.

INTERESTING NOTES FROM UMATILLA

(Special Correspondence.) Umatilla, Ore., May 29.—Two boats of the Open River Transportation Co. landed considerable freight here today for local as well as other merchants.

Mrs. Kuntzle is visiting in Pendleton the past month.

Rev. Mr. Vernon held services here Sunday in the school. Rev. L. R. Russel has charge of the Umatilla work for the summer months and is residing here.

Miss Beatrice Brownell has returned home from Pendleton where she has been attending the Pendleton high school and was one of the graduating class of 1911.

D. R. Brownell has been appointed postmaster succeeding A. B. Stephin, Jr., who has resigned. Mr. Brownell is one of the leading business men of the west end of the county and came here some ten years ago from California. The citizens are surely to be congratulated on Mr. Brownell's appointment, as he since coming to Umatilla county has done more in his own little way for the betterment of the county than any other citizen. As a member of the city council he has achieved more for the welfare of the citizens at large than any one member of the board. The new P. M. first move was to circulate a petition to have a postal savings bank for Umatilla and the petition has received the approval of all and is being largely signed.

Umatilla strawberries, the first of the market this year found ready markets in Pendleton, The Dalles, Portland and Arlington. The crop is very small this season yet the ranchers are not complaining as their berries being the first on the market they got good prices before the other berries were ripe.

Dr. B. Monkman paid a professional visit near Stanfield.

Rev. C. Butler held services in the morning at St. Patrick's church and Rev. L. Brophy had evening devotions and benediction, preaching a masterly sermon to a fair sized congregation.

The local Masons are having some extensive decorations to the interior of their lodge room. They propose to give a ball during the early part of June.

Mrs. Frank Rohan was called to Wallace, Idaho, today through the serious illness of her sister.

Mrs. S. A. Saylor is expected to arrive from Portland this week and will spend the summer enjoying the beautiful and refreshing breezes of the Columbia at Umatilla.

W. F. Turnrow has purchased the B. O. Coleman ranch near here and will shortly begin the erection of a cottage. Mr. Turnrow holds a responsible position with the O-W-R. & N. and knows that Umatilla has a great future and in getting the Coleman ranch he showed good judgment as it is one of the best of its size in the west end and is set to a fine orchard and alfalfa.

H. M. Gunn who was principal of the Hermiston high school has taken the Umatilla school for next term. The two former teachers, Mr. T. M. Thornley and Mrs. Burham will teach in other schools next term. Mrs. Burham having been appointed to the Arlington schools.

Capt. Stanfield who has been ill for some weeks is now around again attending to business.

R. T. Linko who has accepted a position at Starbuck paid a visit to his family here today.

The Chapel car "St. Anthony" will arrive in Umatilla Monday, May 29, and will remain here for a week. The car is in charge of Rev. Father Flemming who is an eloquent speaker, and no doubt the mission which they will hold while here will be well attended. The opening services were held in St. Patrick's church Sunday evening.

T. W. Duncan and Harry Paterson are visiting in Portland this week.

J. H. Tomlinson of Portland was here the past few days looking after property interests.

Among the ladies who attended the commencement exercises of the Pendleton high school were Mrs. D. C. Brownell, Miss Eva Brownell, Mrs. H. C. Means and Miss Hazel Means. Miss Edna Stiffer of Spokane is visiting Miss Jewel Franklin this week.

Mrs. Davidson is visiting in Starbuck for the past few days this week.

J. M. Griffin superintendent of motor cars for the O-W-R. & N. and S. P. is here today in official capacity.

SELLS-FLOTO CIRCUS CUTS PRICE IN HALF

The popular priced circus is an assured fact.

Last season when the Sells-Floto circus decided to cut the regular price of admission in half those who thought they knew the circus business best voted the opinion that such a move meant nothing short of insolvency. But the management of this magnificent enterprise was game enough to try the experiment and the world today knows how successful this new departure has proved itself to be.

"Last year the price of admission was placed at 25 cents," said Arthur Bennett who is here representing the promoters. "So far back as the history of the circus goes double that amount had always been charged. At first sight it seemed as if it would be impossible to conduct any attraction costing more than 2,000 a day to operate successfully at the cut price. But Sells-Floto proved beyond a doubt that the idea of popular prices when applied to the circus was no idle dream, but from an intensely business standpoint was possibly the our attendance. Still by that time we were pretty well immune so far

Facts About Motherhood

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at the time of child-birth, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when the strain is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves, and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, women will persist in going blindly to the trial. It isn't as though the experience came upon them unawares. They have ample time in which to prepare, but they, for the most part, trust to chance and pay the penalty.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy, and strong.

Any woman who would like special advice in regard to this matter is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. Her letter will be held in strict confidence.

wisest move they could have made.

"This season the twenty-five cent price will be in force everywhere the Sells-Floto circus appears. When we say twenty-five cents, we mean twenty-five cents. No more, no less. Wherever the tickets are on sale this price will prevail. None of our employees are authorized to take any more. We carry no so-called "accommodation wagons" where a greater sum is charged. The regular ticket offices will be open at nine o'clock on the day of every performance. General admission tickets purchased at any time will be honored either at the matinee or evening.

"Perhaps it would be just as well in this place to tell you something about the Genesis of the Sells-Floto circus, because we started in in a small way and for many years were forced to bear the brunt of one of the most desperate fights ever known to the world of big tents. No matter where we went we found ourselves the target of an opposition which left nothing undone even to the destroying of our property in order that the name of Sells-Floto should pass into history as one of the mile stones that marked the many failures in this particular line of endeavor.

"It is true that year after year we came home with very little money in our treasury, in fact, more frequently than not we faced a very serious deficit. But we always thought then, as we do now, that some day or other our patrons and those who have seen us coming back year after year always striving to give a clean and appreciable entertainment would recognize our efforts and realize that we really had the best interests of the profession at heart.

"Last year, as before stated, we decided to cut the price in half. If we had fought battles before, you should have seen the line-up against us from the time we took the road last season until we had completed as fighting was concerned. We were seeking an unqualified verdict of the great American people and we got it, that's the answer.

"We are still as we always were, an independent circus, owing allegiance to no trust or combination. We have no quarrel with anyone in the same line of business. We don't care how they conduct their affairs so long as they keep within the law, reserving the same privilege for ourselves.

"Now just one thing more, the Sells-Floto circus will parade every day at 10 o'clock. Our patrons can see for themselves just what we have to offer and those who do not think that we are giving full value in every way or have endeavored to make them the victims of misplaced confidence had better stay away from the performances."

The Sells-Floto shows come to Pendleton on Friday, June 2.
