ARMOURS TO BUILD PLANT AT NORTH POWDER

Baker, Ore., June 1.—The little town of North Powder has been selected by Armour & Company as the location for a big packing plant, employing 1500 men, to handle the firm's livestock and packing business of the northwest. This information is contained in a letter to the Powder Valley Bank there from F. D. Armour, who says that the reason North Powder was chosen was because of the facilities for handling and caring for such a business here.

This decision follows the visit of Mr. Armour and party to North Powder some time last week. Many other points were visited in the northwest, but this place won the plant. Easy access to a large hay growing territory, feed and water makes this point ideal for this sort of a plant.

The plant Armour & Company expect to erect is to cost $500,000 and will be one of the most modern plants for the slaughtering of stock and packing of meats in the country.

BASEBALL SEASON MAY BE EXTENDED

OTHER TEAMS WANT GAMES THROUGH SUMMER

Word Is Received from Milton-Freewater That Schedule Be Extended to September—Four Team League Advocated.

Do the fans of Pendleton want summer baseball? Do they want the Blue Mountain league season to extend on through the months of July and August and will such a venture pay? These are the questions which are confronting Manager Clark Nelson and the other members of the Pendleton club, and which they will be called upon to answer one way or the other.

Manager Nelson received a telephone message from the Milton-Freewater club this morning stating that the fans in the fruit towns are demanding an extension of the season until September 1. Walla Walla officials had previously voiced a similar desire and they want two more of the clubs, preferably Pendleton and Athena, to join with the other two to make a four-team league during the summer months.

Manager Nelson is a little dubious as to the extent of the support he would receive from the town on such a proposition. He remembers that there are some mighty hot days in the middle of the summer and there are many of the Pendleton people absent at summer resorts. These two factors combine to make him hesitate about continuing the schedule, although, personally, he expresses a strong desire to do so. Others of the fans, however, are confident in asserting that summer baseball would be a paying proposition and are eager to join in with Walla Walla and Milton.

It is a little early yet to make any definite decision and the matter will

ITALIAN LEAPS OUT WINDOW OF COACH

Creston, B. C., June 1.—To jump from a car window when the train was running to make up time Monday afternoon near Goat river canyon and to be seen lying stunned as if dead only a few inches from the flying train and to thus elude the law was the experience of an Italian prisoner, T. Madura, alias Gobbie, who was being taken to the Nelson jail by Provincial Constable Andy of Wardner.

T. Madura, who was sentenced to 30 days in the Nelson jail by Justice T. Gaffney of Wardner for being drunk and disorderly, expressed a desire to work out his sentence at Cranbrook instead of Nelson. When the westbound passenger reached a crooked cut about a quarter of a mile from Goat river bridge the officer's attention was temporarily attracted in another direction. The prisoner, who had been apparently sleeping, with his head resting on his hand, suddenly disappeared out of the window. Constable Andy grabbed for the man, but the Italian was out the window and fell with terrific force on the hard clay bottom of the railway cut.

Constable Andy had the train stopped and went back on the track to look for the man. He found only a package of cigarettes.

How Lewis Crowe Was Killed.

John Cowe left last night for Walla Walla in response to a telegram announcing the tragic death of his brother, Lewis Crowe on Blue creek, thirteen miles east of that city. The Walla Walla Union this morning tells the story of the accident, as follows:

Mr. Crowe in company with three other workmen were at work blasting, making preparations for the excavation for a barn. The men had loaded two holes 36 inches with dynamite to which they had attached fuses. After lighting the charges they repaired to the rear of a barn which stood near the place and awaited the explosion. After hearing the report, the men approached the hole to find that only one of the charges had exploded. E. D. McGee, who was in charge of the work together with Mr. Crowe were standing not further than six feet from the pit after finding that one of the fuses had not taken effect. The other two employees had turned to leave the place while Crowe and McGee were making preparations to again ignite the charge of dynamite. The charge exploded as Crowe was leaning over the hole, a large boulder striking him on the forehead. Mr. McGee who was injured about the head, heard a moan from the laborer and turning, found him lying on the ground with both hands covering his face. An examination proved that he had suffered a fractured skull together with numerous scalp wounds. He did not regain consciousness.

Feeble-Minded School MUST REJECT PATIENTS

Salem, Ore., June 1.—On account of the reduction made in the funds for the maintenance of the State School for Feeble Minded by the last legislature, the state board was informed yesterday by the superintendent of the institution that unless additional funds can be obtained from some other source to augment the appropriation, he will have to refuse all applications to the school hereafter, as there are not sufficient funds on hand with which to feed more inmates. Although the board went before the ways and means committee of the legislature and requested that the maintenance fund for the school be not cut down, the committee reduced the appropriation from $100,000 to $90,000, and now, as the board is committed to the policy of preventing deficits, the institution is crowded to its utmost capacity. Superintendent Smith states that he has 200 patients now in the institution, while at least 50 more applications are awaiting approval or rejection, the latter being the only possible answer to the applicants in the event that no additional funds can be secured.

MUSICIAN SEEKS MOTTE.

Dr. Emil Enna Interviews Indians for Astoria Centennial Opera.

Hood River, Ore., June 1.—Dr. Emil Enna, a prominent Portland musician, who is writing the musical score for an opera to be staged during the Astoria centennial celebration, has been several days here conversing with the many Indian berry-pickers, who swarm the valley at this season of the year, in an endeavor to gain from them some motif which he could work into the opera for the Indian dances.

The production on which Dr. Enna is working is based upon the facts surrounding the coming of Astor to the Pacific coast and the struggle between the Americans and English for supremacy in the country of the Columbia river. The opera will require a large chorus and will be the principal attraction of historical interest at the Astoria celebration. The Indians will, of course, play an important part in the dramatic historical recital. Dr. Enna says Hood River valley reminded him more of the country along the Rhine in Germany than any other country he had ever visited.

Receipts from internal revenues have also passed the high water mark the past fiscal year. This is largely due to the increased taxes on tobacco, the increase from that source amounting to about $800,000 a month. Increased consumption of beer has also helped to fill Uncle Sam's strong box.

GOVERNOR OUTLINES HIS PLAN FOR PARDON

Eugene, Or., June 1.—In an address to the students yesterday, Governor Oswald West, after announcing his intention of instigating many reforms for economy in the state government, in order that the University of Oregon and higher educational institutions may have available more money, and expressing his intention to cooperate with the university in the problems of the state, he outlined a plan of penitentiary reform in Oregon. He stated that already 50 convicts had received pardons from him and that within two years he intends to pardon half of the remaining 500. He believes a large number of the convicts are imprisoned at the expense of the state, who, if given an opportunity, would make excellent citizens.

He proposes to establish penitentiary brickyards, with which he will furnish free brick for the new university buildings, in which convicts will make their own clothing. He will make men who are costing the state $12 a month earn wages for the state. The men who while in prison, show themselves capable of good behavior and good citizenship, he will pardon. In doing this he will be open to criticism for the acts of one out of 100 who is a failure. He will find employment for the liberated convicts.
