"Both Tarkington is very difficult to please in matters theatrical," said a famous Philadelphia novelist, "Tarkington was visiting me here during the run of one of his plays and after dinner one evening we sauntered to the theater. But the doorkeeper did not know us and for some little time refused to let us in. Finally, though, Tarkington's identity was established and we were conducted to a stage box."

"The performance wasn't up to much. Tarkington fidgeted in his chair and at the end of the first act suggested that we go. On our way out I saw my illustrious friend peering anxiously about the lobby."

"What are you looking for?" I said.

"I'm looking," said Tarkington, "for that chap who wouldn't let us in. I want to give him a quarter."—York Press.

such scenes. In a way, too, the film shows the kind of work the social settlements do. It is not too much to call the picture educational.

"American Beauties." A perfectly glorious picture of roses and pretty women. The most artistic film ever released.

"On the Desert's Edge." Essanay. Graphic scenes in and about the great Mojave desert make this film notable. This is a sensational western drama with many thrills. The love story, with the jealousy of the bad man gives it a heart touch.

"The Samurai's Epitaph." Pathé. A Japanese film d'art. Played by the leading actors from the Royal theater of Tokio. This picture shows the greatest struggle ever shown on a screen. How an unarmed youth overcame a Samurai armed with a sword.

The Coss.

Fine program for Monday and Tuesday.

"Shifty's Claim." Essanay. Shifty is a bondit but he writes his sister that he has a mine. Shifty is killed while resisting arrest and when his sister comes to visit him she is told he died in a mine explosion. The way in which the sheriff and the boys kept up the bluff is very interesting and the end is both funny and expected. A great western drama.

"The Voice of His Conscience." Solax. Old Squire Mosher has a scuffle with a young man and accidentally falls on a knife, killing himself, but the young fellow is accused of the crime. A series of dramatic situations follow, leading up to a final vindication. A finely colored film of unusual interest.

"The Rival Artists." Some art critics were led to praise the work of an unknown artist, whom previously they had roasted, thinking all the time they were looking at the work of a famous artist. Their discomfiture can be imagined on discovering their mistake. A love story is interwoven and the denouement is a good ending.

"A Tale of Ebon Tints." Reliance. This is a powerful drama by the well known Reliance company. As in the case with all their stories, there are many intensely dramatic situations that compel your closest attention. Superb acting and fine coloring in this picture.

"Orpheum."

Pendleton's favorite picture theater. Good program for Tuesday's change.

1. "The Quarrel on the Cliff." This film is taken by the Edison Co. in Cuba. It deals with the old eternal triangle but is worked out along novel lines. This film abounds in beautiful scenes and the rescue from the brink of the cliff is one of the most interesting and sensational scenes that have been thrown on the screen for some time.

2. "The Bankrupt." Gaumont. A good drama. The story is clear, acted quickly and naturally.

3. "Discharging the Cook." Solax. This is a slap stick comedy in which a bill pup and a quantity of oyster shells play important parts.

4. "Dear Kind Hubby." Solax. This is a short, snappy comedy, illustrating how a business man goes about cooking a dinner. After several attempts he telephones for a cook and joy again reigns supreme.

5. "Sailor Jack's Reformation." Kalem. A story of the Salvation army. In point of moral and dramatic worth this is one of the best stories ever told. Miss Gene Gauntier as Capt. Agnes.

The Pastime.

The house of quality. A big special for Tuesday's change. A picture that every one is interested in, "The Life of Count Leo Tolstoy." Pathé. An interesting and intimate view of the most loved man Russia ever produced. Better than a biography. A closer insight into the character and everyday habits of this great man. His family life, his philanthropy and his recreation may be obtained from this film than by any other means. Learn thus to know one of the world's greatest figures.

"The Angel of the Slums." Lubin. This well told story has for its heroine a young woman settlement worker. She saves a thief and induces him to become a man. The views of slum life are characteristic and are interesting to audiences unfamiliar with
