Link Swaggart, the well known Athena hog raiser, came in this morning on the local.

N. Seaman of Irrigon is a Pendleton business visitor, being registered at the Bowman.

James S. Bell and wife of Athena were among the out of town people in the city last night.

Mrs. O. L. Renn of Touchet is in the city visiting friends and relatives. Want to Sweep Later.

E. B. Wood, O. R. & N. detective, was a passenger on the early morning train from Portland today.

A. J. Sturdivant, the pioneer rancher of the Pilot Rock country, came in from that town yesterday afternoon.

Gus Arp, the Helix dispenser of intoxicating beverages, came in this morning on the Northern Pacific train.

Jack McLaughlin, traveling freight agent for the Illinois Central, is here today, having come up from Portland this morning.

A. F. May, manager of the Nisson Implement company, left on the morning train for the Milton country on a business trip.

Ernest Knight, the young Helix rancher, came in on the Northern Pacific train this morning to pick up a few of the many itinerant gentlemen of leisure and transport them to his ranch where they will be given employment pulling Jim Hill Mustard from among the grain stalks.

Mayor E. J. Murphy was informed today of the circulation of a petition calling for the begging of street sweeping at a later hour than that now observed by the street cleaning contractor. The petitioners object to the use of the sweeper early in the evenings during the summer months and their complaint will probably be lodged with the city council this evening.

AVIATOR FREY MEETS ACCIDENT IN MOUNTAINS

Viterbo, Italy, June 14.—The German aviator Frey, who started from Rome at an early hour yesterday morning on the last stage of the Paris to Turin air race met with disaster in the mountainous territory between Viterbo and the capital. The other contestants who got up as far as Rome had given up, but Frey could not be persuaded from making the attempt to reach Turin although warned that almost insurmountable difficulties lay in his way.

Only a few miles out of Rome he encountered a heavy fog and lost his course. Soon he drove into a terrific storm of rain and hail. He tried to rise above the clouds but his machine refused to respond. Suddenly it swooped downward and the aviator lost all control. It fell into a ravine and was wrecked. That Frey was not killed was due to the heavy helmet protecting his head and the marshy ground into which he plunged. Both his arms and one leg were broken while he was badly cut about the face.

When a Red Cross searching party from the San Martino station on Monte Cimone found him he had lost much blood and was almost unconscious, buried under the aeroplane. The aviator was able to tell of having been lost in the fog, although he could give no reason for the fall.

Frey's wife is now in Florence, where she hoped to be present at the landing of her husband. It is expected that she will come here tomorrow.

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE IS FIFTY-SIX TODAY

Washington, June 14.—Robert Marion La Follette, United States senator from Wisconsin and leader of the insurgents in the national upper house, found a bunch of flowers on his desk today, signifying that he had reached his fifty-sixth year. The greatest insurgent of them all, who is just now insuring against reciprocity and thus finds himself for the first time in many years ranged up with the "stand-patters," was born at Primrose, Wis., June 14, 1855. He began the practice of law in 1880 and five years later came to the national capital to represent his district in the house. He served through the forty-ninth, fiftieth and fifty-first congresses, and was then elected governor of Wisconsin three terms, but resigned in 1905 to return to Washington as a senator. In that capacity he has kept his name on the front pages of the newspapers of the entire country with considerable regularity, and there are a lot of people in Wisconsin and out of it, who believe he is the one man who could lead the republican party to victory next year.

AT THE PICTURE SHOWS

"Orpheum."
Pendleton's favorite picture theater. Good program for Tuesday's change:

1. "The Quarrel on the Cliff." This film is taken by the Edison Co. in Cuba. It deals with the old eternal triangle but is worked out along novel lines. This film abounds in beautiful scenes and the rescue from the blank wall of the cliff is one of the most interesting and sensational sights that have been thrown on the screen for some time.

2. "The Bankrupt." Gaumont. A good drama. The story is clear, acted quietly and naturally.

3. "Discharging the Cook." Selig. This is a slap stick comedy in which a bull pup and a quantity of dynamite play important parts.

4. "Dear, Kind Hubby." Selig. This is a short, snappy comedy, illustrating how a business man goes about cooking a dinner. After several attempts he telephones for a cook and joy again reigns supreme.

5. "Sailor Jack's Reformation." Kalem. A story of the Salvation army. In point of moral and dramatic worth this is one of the best stories ever told. Miss Gene Gauntier as Capt. Agnes.

The Pastime.
The house of quality. A big special for Tuesday's change. A picture that every one is interested in, the "Life of Count Leo Tolstoy." Pathe. An interesting and intimate view of the most loved man Russia ever produced. Better than a biography. A closer insight into the character and everyday habits of this great man, his family, his home, his philanthropy and his recreation may be obtained from this film than by any other means. Learn thus to know one of the world's greatest figures.

"The Angel of the Slums." Lubin. This well told story has for its heroine a young woman settlement worker. She saves a thief and induces him to become a man. The views of slum life are characteristic and are interesting to audiences unfamiliar with such scenes. In a way, too, the film shows the kind of work the social settlements do. It is not too much to call the picture educational.

"American Beauties." A perfectly glorious picture of roses and pretty women. The most artistic film ever released.

"On the Desert's Edge." Essanay. Graphic scenes in and about the great Mojave desert make this film notable. This is a sensational western drama with many thrills. The bad man gives it a heart touch.

"The Samurai's Eplation." Pathe. A Japanese film d'art. Played by the leading actors from the Royal theater of Tokio. This picture shows the greatest struggle ever shown on a screen. How an unarmed youth overcame a Samouraï armed with a sword.

The Cosy.
Entire feature program for Wednesday and Thursday:

"Hamlet." Great Northern. Lovers of the classic drama have a treat in store when viewing this great Shakespeare masterpiece. The immortal story of "Hamlet, the Prince of Denmark" is known to every reader of English literature and it is the highest ambition of every actor to enact the title role. For this film the Great Northern company enlisted the services of the Royal Theater company of Copenhagen, which is equivalent to saying that Sothorn, Marlow, Mantell and the late Mansfield acted the leading parts. The play was staged at the ancient castle of Crownberg, where the tragedy was supposed to have taken place, amid the most gorgeous scenery. The king of Denmark was a spectator of the proceedings and aided the company in every way to make the film a masterpiece of realism. The text is closely followed and the story is clear and plainly understood. Exquisitely toned and tinted and superbly acted.

"Cross the Mexican Line." Solax. A feature Solax film full of thrills and patriotism. An American captain teaches a Mexican girl the use of the telegraph, which later proved his salvation. The Mexicans, angered at the Americans, came to the captain's rooms, tore down the Stars and Stripes and tramped on it, and carried the captain across the line to Mexico, where he was condemned to death. But the girl climbed a pole, cut the wires and telegraphed the American army. The wild dash of the American cavalry across the Rio Grande, the battle with the Mexican soldiers, and the thrilling rescue of the captain just as he is to be shot, is intensely thrilling. The pretty love story adds interest to the piece. Beautifully colored film throughout.

"An Indian's Mistake." Bison. A white girl amuses herself by flirting with an Indian and his wife leaves him and returns to her tribe who refuse to take her back. She is about to leap over a cliff when her husband, after a desperate fight with her father, finds her. His explanation fills her with joy and all ends happily.

"After Twenty Years." Nestor. A story so full of heart interest that it will never be forgotten. A man is robbed and beaten and his mind becomes a blank. After 20 years his son paints his picture which the mother recognizes as that of her husband. His mind is restored in a wonderful manner. A picture of a great struggle, finely colored.

Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias, Astoria, Ore., June 20-21, 1911.
For the above occasion, the O-W. R. & N. Co. will sell low round trip tickets from all points including branches at Special Low Round Trip fares.

PORTLAND PAVEMENTS ARE ENDORSED

By a Prominent Horseman and Citizen of Spokane, Referring to Bitulithic.

Mr. T. S. Griffith of Spokane, Wash., spent last week in Portland. Mr. Griffith has some acquaintanceship there, and the appended letter which he wrote to his home paper, the Spokesman-Review, concerning pavements in Portland, will be of interest to the people of Pendleton. It is pleasing to note that the action of our city council in the selection of street pavements is endorsed by a man of Mr. Griffith's wide experience.

"To the Editor of the Spokesman-Review: While in Portland during the last few days I have noticed the city is tearing up asphalt that has only been down a few years, in order to put on a new coat, the asphalt having become in a deplorable condition, and knowing that Spokane is still using asphalt pavement and specifying more of it, it occurs to me to wonder why we do not benefit by their cities' experience.

"I have been over many miles of pavements similar to asphalt, called 'bitulithic,' which seems to be made of crushed stone and presents a rougher surface than asphalt, and yet is more durable and does not crack. I went over Fifth street in Portland, paved with this material from the Union depot to Jefferson street, a distance of about three quarters of a mile, and notwithstanding that this pavement has been down eight years it is in first class condition without any cracks or flaws of any appreciable wear.

"I think your readers will be interested to know that there is a pavement laid in Portland that has the qualities referred to that is better for horse than asphalt, in that it gives a better foothold and yet is not rigid like concrete or brick, which of course is injurious to horses, and with all is not a noisy pavement like concrete and in every way desirable for residence streets.

"I am therefore taking the liberty of writing you as above and hope that some time in the future we will have a similar high grade pavement adopted in our city.

"THOMAS S. GRIFFITH.
"Spokane, April 24."

Mr. Griffith is Spokane's leading wholesale grocer and its most prominent citizen. He is one of the most enthusiastic horsemen of the state and has large dairy interests. He is prominent in the civic affairs of Spokane and his opinion on all matters of a public character is valued accordingly.
