ROUND-UP GOODS TO BE ON SALE SOON

Round-up hat bands, Round-up souvenirs, Round-up pennants and Round-up cushions will soon be placed on sale by official salesmen as the directors of the association at a meeting last night decided to advertise for bids for these concessions immediately in order that they may be made instrumental in circulating the fame of Pendleton's wild west show.

The other concessions, which will be for articles sold on the grounds, will not be let until later as there is no necessity of immediate action.

The grandstand and benches at Round-up Park were officially announced as completed at the meeting last night when Contractor Charles Cole, who has been superintending the construction work, handed in his resignation. A small number of men under the direction of W. A. Storie is still engaged in cleaning up and piling the surplus lumber but this will be only the work of a few days.

Permission was given to Fred Steiner, Mark Moorhouse, Fred Eare and T. D. Taylor, managers respectively of competitive events, exhibitions, non-competitive events and livestock, to commence at once the construction of paddocks and corrals for the stock which will take part in the three day show. These men will see that accommodations will be prepared for all the horses and steers that can be brought in for the exhibitions.

BRYAN NOT DICTATOR OF DEMOCRATIC PARTY

FOREMAN MORAN STABBED BY GREEKS DURING BLOODY RIOT

Jack Moran, O.-W. R. & N. section foreman at Cayuse, was probably fatally stabbed by Greek or Italian laborers during a mad and exciting riot in the Martin Anderson saloon in the Hotel Bowman building at 3:30 this afternoon.

While the unruly crowd was being driven from the saloon Section Foreman Moran, against whom the men are said to have had a grudge, was stabbed by one of the rioters. Several parties saw the blow which was struck on the left side, apparently close to the foreman's heart.

Breaking away from the crowd the assailant of Moran raced down Webb street and near the corner of Webb and Garden was captured. He was brought back in custody of Sheriff Taylor and Officer Stansbury. Meanwhile four other of the rioters had been arrested and placed in jail.

Jim Corral, Lee Davis and Hal Corby were among the witnesses to the stabbing and with others were taken over to identify the man who wielded the knife. The two former were among those who joined in the pursuit when the man ran around the corner and are positive that the officers have the right man.

A p. m. Section Foreman Moran is still alive and is at the St. Anthony's hospital. According to the attendants it is impossible to tell whether he will survive.

LETTERS CONTAIN SECRET OF TRAGEDY

MILTON WOMAN GIVES REASON FOR AWFUL DEED

Letters Were Directed to Members of the Harper Family—Intimacy Had Developed Into Serious Complications.

Locked securely in the vaults in the office of County Treasurer Bradley are four or five letters which contain the secret of the terrible tragedy enacted at Milton Wednesday morning in which Joe Harper and Mrs. Nannie Myrtle Kyle both died, the one a murdered man and the other a suicide. Despite every effort to keep the existence of these letters from the public, the secret has leaked out and the motive which impelled a woman to deliberately kill a man and then take her own life has become known.

In these letters, three of which were addressed to members of the Harper family, the woman had set down the reason for her deed and it was as originally surmised. The two victims of the tragedy had known each other for several months, an intimacy had developed which was attended by numerous clandestine meetings with the result that the woman was soon in a condition that made discovery of her relations only a matter of a short time. She had secured a divorce and it is believed that Harper had promised to do likewise but had failed to keep his promise. Unable to withstand the disgrace which must soon be hers, she had resolved upon ending both her own life and that of her betrayer.

LETTERS ARE VINDICTIVE

The letters were written on the night before the tragedy and all were the same. At least it is supposed that all were alike for the only two of which were read were identical. They were couched in a spirit of bitter vindictiveness and give evidence of a state of mind bordering on insanity.

The letters were found by County Commissioner H. M. Coskburn who, together with Coroner Ralph Folsom, Deputy District Attorney Pruitt and four of the Milton jurymen, broke open two of the letters and read the contents. So bitter was the wording that the seven men decided that it would be cruelty to deliver them to the persons to whom they were addressed and determined to maintain silence concerning the letters and the contents.

Such secrecy proved impossible, however, and last night the news leaked out in Milton. Both Coroner Folsom and Deputy District Attorney Pruitt admit the finding of the letters but refuse to discuss the contents beyond confirming the reports as to the motive of the crime.

TARIFF BOARD AFTER FACTS

Edward L. Shaw and Party Would Meet Woolgrowers and Learn Cost of Wool

INFORMATION FOR USE IN REVISING SCHEDULE K

Technical Experts Having Finished Work in Southwest, Are Now Meeting Northwestern Growers—Will Submit Report to Tariff Board in December—World Wide Investigation Is On—Shaw Is Experienced Man.

Now is the time for the woolgrowers of eastern Oregon to come to the front, show what it costs to raise wool in this country and by doing so aid the tariff board in arriving at what should be done with reference to schedule K.

As announced before in this paper Edward L. Shaw, technical expert representing tariff board, is here for the purpose of securing data regarding the cost of producing wool. Under Mr. Shaw are five men who hold positions as special agents. They are W. C. Coffey, F. R. Marshall, C. E. Hawver and H. P. Miller. Under the supervision of Mr. Shaw, these men are covering the entire wool producing sections of the west. They have been out since January 1 and expect to have their report ready for submission to the board by December 1. "We started our investigation in Texas in January," said Mr. Shaw, speaking to the East Oregonian last evening. "Since that time we have made investigations in the states southwest and we are now well along with the work in the northwest. While in the northwest we will investigate conditions in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, Montana and Colorado."

AFTER THE FACTS

"We are after the facts regarding the wool industry and are desirous of meeting sheepmen and of learning exactly what it costs them to produce wool. The questions we ask cover everything involved in the sheep business. The information of course is entirely confidential so growers may feel entirely free to talk with us. Thus far we have found them invariably willing to give all the information possible and I believe the figures given are accurate. We are able to distinguish quite well between the truth and falsehoods.

WOULD MEET GROWERS

While here Mr. Shaw is desirous of meeting every woolgrower having headquarters in Pendleton or who runs sheep in any other portion of eastern Oregon. Growers are invited to meet him at the Hotel Pendleton during his stay in the city. He will be here for several days.

"Oregon is one of the big wool producing states of the union and we are anxious to obtain a complete report concerning the conditions in this state. To do this we must have the cooperation of the growers. Already we have had the assistance of Dan P. Smythe, of the woolgrowers' association, and we wish to get in touch with all the woolgrowers possible."

While Mr. Shaw and his corps of experts are investigating the cost of wool in the west, the tariff board has other men obtaining similar information from other parts of the world. The information is to be used by the board when it submits its report to congress at the opening of the session in December.

A MAN OF EXPERIENCE

Before entering upon his present work, Mr. Shaw was for five years in charge of the sheep work in the department of agriculture and so is very familiar with the sheep industry of the country. He is a graduate of the Ohio state college and several of the men under him are also men from that same institution.

MILWAUKEE OFFICIALS TAKE INSPECTION TOUR

Seattle, June 16.—A. J. Earling, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway, accompanied by a number of eastern business men, arrived from Chicago yesterday on a tour of inspection over the Milwaukee's line. Mr. Earling traveling west from Chicago, studied the crop conditions closely in each state, and as the result of his observations and inquiries he said that the crop this year will be unusually large unless a setback occurs through unfavorable weather. "The yield in the Dakotas, Iowa and Minnesota," he remarked, "will be the largest in their history. As a consequence there will be a heavy demand for lumber and other forest products of the Puget Sound country. Within 60 to 90 days lumbermen will have more orders for rail shipment than at any times since 1909, and the general effect cannot be other than good on all lines of business."
