WHEN SHADOWS FALL.

The mists are hovering like a pall,
 And into shadows spun,
 Yet roses on the garden wall,
 Are dreaming of the sun.

And through the shadows, dull and gray,
 Will hover when we're old,
 Each yellow sun will bring its day
 Of springtime green and gold.

And when the shadows fall, we know,
 The dreamers long silent again,
 Will come from out the Long Ago,
 To meet us there again.

A SIGNIFICANT VISIT.

The visit to this city of the experts representing the tariff board is an encouraging incident and one that shows the progress the country is making in the matter of revising tariff schedules.

This is the first time the government, before enacting a change in the tariff on wool, has ever sent men out to ascertain the cost of producing wool. Heretofore the changes have always been made on a political basis and those who have drafted the schedules have never had full knowledge of conditions. This time, if the revision of schedule K is withheld until winter when Prof. Shaw will have his report in readiness, the tariff makers will be able to act with accurate knowledge of how the woolgrowers are faring.

The statistics relative to the wool industry during the past year should furnish a powerful argument for a permanent tariff commission authorized to enact changes in tariff schedules on a business basis—gradually and with due notice to the growers. Few woolgrowers in eastern Oregon have made any money during the past 12 months and many have lost money simply because of the uncertainty with regards to the tariff.

It seems now there will be no change in schedule K this season yet at one time there was a possibility of a radical change and the buyers took advantage of the fact to beat down the price of wool. The sheepbuyers took advantage of the low price of wool and the scarcity of range to beat down the price of sheep. So the poor woolgrowers caught it "going and coming" and their troubles were due—not to a democratic congress—but to the fact that this country has always followed the policy of fixing tariff schedules in accordance with political exigencies and not along business lines.

This time, if schedule K is not revised until the experts report, Uncle Sam will not change the tariff on wool until he has first visited the woolgrowers and learned how much money they are making. It is pretty safe to say too that if the tariff board has its way the schedule will be reduced gradually so as not to throw the woolgrowers into bankruptcy.

Assuredly the woolgrowers of eastern Oregon will welcome Prof. Shaw and his men and will be glad to give him all the information in their power. It is information they are after and they want to obtain it at first hand from the men in the business. If they don't find you, Mr. Woolgrower, go find them. They are looking for you and this is the first time you have been so honored in this connection.

THE AGENCY SCHOOL.

An event of interest occurred at the Umatilla agency school last evening when closing exercises for the year were held. Aside from exercising a partial guardianship over the adult Indians the government also assumes the duty of educating the children of the redmen. There are many who think the educational work is the most practical work the government does since it aims to fit the Indians to care for their own welfare. This is particularly true now that the Indian schools are devoting much time to technical instruction and are dropping some of the cultural subjects formerly taught. When the government instructors first began their educational work among the Indians they gave the youngsters a class of instruction that is now regarded as of little practical value even to white children. But fortunately those in charge of affairs have seen the folly of trying to fit the Indian youths for lives of scholarly leisure instead of for practical work and so changes have been made.

Good luck to the husky young pupils of Major Swartzlander's school. May the instruction they obtain be of use to them and fit them for the fundamental duty of citizenship which is the earning of an honest living.

REGARDING THE CUTOFF.

According to the East Oregonian's correspondent at Hermiston the O.-W. R. & N. surveyors are now running a line for the big Coyote cutoff and the route leads from Coyote station to a point this side of Echo. It is also rumored that a cutoff on the Spokane line may be made from Cold Springs across the project through Hermiston. Whether or not this report is well founded remains to be seen and the same is true with reference to the eastern terminus of the cutoff. Thus far the railroad officials have refrained from any public announcement of their plans and it is the general supposition that the route has not yet been fully determined upon.

The royalists in Portugal are now busy with a revolution to overthrow the republic and in Mexico the former adherents of Diaz are denouncing Madero as a Modern Caesar and with favoring despotism and anarchy. Those who are "out" are forever after those who are "in."

Judging from their program the physicians of the county had a jolly time at their gathering as the guests of Dr. C. J. Smith. Apparently the physician's principal troubles arise from his auto but "outside of that everything is alright."

It is not at all surprising that only two depositors have thus far made use of the postal savings bank. How could anyone save money during the rose-festival?

The street sweeper still follows his usual hours but "hope springs eternal in the human breast."

Sheriff Taylor would have caught that Ardenwald murderer before this.

Weston will hold a Strawberry Day July 1 and it is reported sugar and cream will be provided with the big red berries from the mountain.

AN EASY WAY OUT.

Ambassador Jusserand, at one of his superb dinners at the French embassy in Washington, said of diplomacy: "Diplomacy may be defined as a way out—an easy, pleasant, honorable way out."

"A young royalist duke, from a story current about him is well versed in diplomacy."

"This young man visited a millionaire in Cannes during the Riviera season, and his host's daughter was thrown at his head—so much so, in fact, that when he came to leave Cannes his hostess took him aside and declared gravely:

"It's reported all over that you are to marry Claire. I don't know what to say to people."

"The duke smiled easily.

"Oh, just tell them," he said "that Claire refused me."—Washington Star.

A gentleman has just rescued a little fellow who had fallen into the river.

"I'm awfully glad you got me out," said the youngster. "Mother would have given me a hokin' if I had got drowned."

THE CAMP-FIRE.

When we've finished washing the plates of tin,
 When the darkness falls and the gang comes in,
 That's the time when the tales and the talk begin
 In the circle about the fire.
 They talk of the way the day was spent,
 Of the things we did and the roads we went,
 Of pleasant ventures that brought content,
 And sated the heart's desire.

The pipes are lighted. The fellows Or sprawl about as the shadows fall. And there is freedom of thought and wit.

Till the light of the embers dims. And then comes singing—from foolish tunes
 Of "pretty maidens" and "kindly moons"
 To old, old songs like your mother croons—
 Soft lullabies—or hymns.

The night breezes rustle the leaves above,
 And we talk of the things we are fondest of—
 The men we like and the girls we love.
 Who make life worth the fight—
 Till the ash grays over the glowing coals
 And the spirit of drowsiness controls.
 And each man into his blanket rolls,
 With the sleepy word, "Good Night!"

—Berton Braley in the Saturday Evening Post.

NO PLACE FOR HIM.

"Call in our lawyer," said the president of the corporation.
 "Yes, sir," replied the vice president. "Has anything of importance happened?"

"No I merely want to find out just how far we can go without being in danger of becoming liable to arrest."

"But it seems to me, if I may say so, we are going about as far as our conscience should let us."

"Conscience? Oh, say, you'd better quit big business and go run a Sunday school somewhere."—Chicago Record-Herald.

WHEN SPEECH IS SILVER.

"Three dollars a minute," said the youth who had asked the long distance telephone rate between him and the lady fair.

"Yes, sir," said the telephone clerk. "I guess I'm not on speaking terms with her," sighed the youth, sadly counting out $2.50 in his purse.—Detroit Saturday Night.

At the beginning of Lent a small Austin miss was asked what she was going to deny herself during the Lenten season.

"Well," she replied "I can't give up candy, 'cause Lent's too long and candy's too good. I guess I'll give up cabbage—I don't like cabbage, anyway."

"Nettle," said her mother, "don't you want a hard-boiled egg for lunch?"

"I'd like to have one, mamma," replied Nettle, "if you've got time to undress it for me."

S.S.S. REMOVES ALL HUMORS FROM THE BLOOD

The cause of all skin diseases can be traced to some humor in the blood, and therefore the cure of any skin trouble can come only through a thorough cleansing of this vital fluid. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., relieve some of the itching and discomfort, help to reduce inflammation, or aid in keeping the cuticle clean, but such treatment does not reach the blood, and of course can have no real curative effect. S.S.S. cures Skin Diseases of every kind because it purifies the blood. It is an internal remedy for an internal trouble, and works on the only reasonable and certain method of cure. S.S.S. removes all acids and humors from the circulation and leaves the blood stream rich, healthy and nourishing in order that it may supply the cuticle with the necessary properties to restore it to its smooth, normal condition. Then a cure results because the old exciting cause has been disposed of. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice sent free to all who write. S.S.S. is sold at drug stores.
