TRIUMPHAL PROCESSION CHEERED BY ENTHUSIASTIC MULTITUDE

ROYAL PARADE IS GORGEOUS

Today's Ceremonies in Coronation Program are of Military Magnificence

THREATENING RAIN CAUSES SMALLER CROWD

Stand Owners Selling Seats for What They Can Get and Many Are Unfilled—King and Queen Are Entertained at Luncheon by Lord Mayor of London.

London, June 23.—To thundering cheers of the multitude, George V. and Queen Mary today made royal progress through the streets of the central and southern portions of the city. This was their first appearance since the crowning. Later they were entertained at a big luncheon by the lord mayor of London. The procession was a mile long and included detachments from every English regiment of the navy.

Royal Salute Fired. As the procession left Buckingham Palace the Royal Horse artillery at St. James Park fired the royal salute. The royal couple were accompanied by the Prince of Wales. From a military standpoint the progress was magnificent but not as much enthusiasm was aroused as could be expected. The lowering skies and threatening rain caused the throng to be smaller than anticipated and the stand owners were selling seats for what they could get and stands in some parts were not filled. The streets and sidewalks were crowded.

Strenuous Week for King. London, June 23.—Today's ceremonies in the coronation program are only a little less important than those of yesterday, for they consist of the triumphal procession through the streets of London, after the coronation. For the next week King George and Queen Mary will have a strenuous time. The overseas premiers and other overseas dignitaries, with their wives and friends were entertained at Portsmouth town hall today and the men of the British and foreign fleets will be given a garden party at Victoria park this evening. Tomorrow King George will review the home and foreign fleets, when the United States battleship Delaware will take the laurel for its size and equipment.

Sunday there will be special services in all of the churches, Monday there will be the admiralty ball and a gala performance at the opera; Tuesday George and Mary will give a garden party at Buckingham palace which will be attended by distinguished visitors from abroad; Wednesday there is planned a royal visit to the agricultural show at Norwich; Thursday the king and queen will visit the Guildhall; Friday King George will give a fête to 100,000 children of the empire and in the evening, with Queen Mary, dine with Premier and Mrs. Asquith, while Saturday will see a beginning of the end of the coronation festivities by the removal of the court to Windsor Castle.

Americans visiting Berlin this summer are flocking to the recently opened restaurant in the Zoological Garden, which is the greatest eating house in the world. Ten thousand people can dine at the same time beneath its roof, while the open air terraces designed for use at this season accommodate another 10,000. There are 1000 waiters and a kitchen staff of 500.

Airmen have no patron saint, yet it is proposed in France that Ascension Day should be chosen as their fete patronale. It sounds like a joke to make the choice by virtue of a pun, but it is really quite in accordance with medieval precedents. Already masons and bricklayers count Ascension day as their fete patronale for precisely the same reason. In order to build houses they ascend ladders. What is perhaps more curious is that miners and quarrymen also claim it as their own. Generally of course a saint's story of earthly vocation has made him patron of a particular trade or class. St. Joseph is naturally the patron of carpenters. St. Ives, a lawyer that of lawyers. On this principle, Elijah, who ascended in a fiery chariot, would seem the natural patron of airmen.

The eternal servant problem seems to be nearing a solution in Berlin, and it is a very simple one, namely the substitution of men for women. Of recent years a vast increase in the immigration from the country to the city has taken place, with the result that a capable man servant can now be hired for between $8 and $10 a month with board. The new servant is said to be infinitely superior to the old, besides lending a social glory to the household, as hitherto men servants have been employed almost solely by noble and aristocratic or very wealthy families. Experience shows that they can do as well or better than the women.

Fashions are more revolutionary this year than they have been for many seasons. The really small hat is now an accomplished fact, women are becoming accustomed to the widened skirt and the ermine sleeve is accepted as a pretty novelty; but the new hairdressing is considered the last straw. It is being shown by fashionable London hair dressers, but as yet few women have ventured to wear it in public. The hair is drawn straight back from the forehead and sides and finished in little flat coil at the back. All such frivolities as curls, puffs or even waves are banished, the hair being drawn quite smooth and flat. It has a very curious effect after the full coiffures, and it is not in the least likely that it will become popular, as few women possess the beautiful forehead and features it requires.

King and Queen in Royal Progress. London, June 23.—"All the King's horses and all the King's men," to say nothing of the King himself and the queen, passed in procession today before the most tremendous crowd ever assembled in London. The "royal progress" was one continuous ovation and must have made King George believe, for a moment, that he was really the master, and not the subject, of those who cheered him so lustily.

The route of the brilliant procession was through the West End, the City of London and South London. At least half a million people occupied seats in stands for which they had paid from $15 to $75 each. Millions of others lined the streets, the house-tops and every available point of vantage. HAVEMEYER WANTED TO MAKE SMITH OFFICIAL

CUTLER TALKS BEFORE SUGAR COMMITTEE TODAY

General Manager of Corporation Said Consolidation Was for Economy—Mormon Leader As Trustee Holds 49,815 Shares.

Washington, June 23.—Thomas Cutler before the Hardwick committee today testified that it had been the intention of the late Henry Havemeyer to make Joseph Smith, head of the Mormon church, president of the Utah-Idaho Sugar company. Cutler is vice president and general manager of the corporation in which it is consolidated all the Mormon church interest amounting to $13,000,000. Half the company's stock was taken by Havemeyer. Cutler said the consolidation was for economy and Smith as trustee holds 49,815 shares. The company owns 39,000 acres of sugar beet land.

Cutler said that Havemeyer first opposed the consolidation. He said he did not know whether the church owns the Union Pacific stock, but understood that Smith was a director in the company. He explained that the company sold 13 per cent of its output in Utah and six per cent in Idaho.

MUST MAKE GOOD SHOWING OR QUIT

On next Tuesday, June 27,—company L, third infantry, O. N. G. of this city, will be out for quarterly inspection and within the ranks of the company preparations are now being made for the event.

According to Captain M. S. Kern, who is commanding officer of the company pending the election of a successor to Captain Ferguson, it is important the company make a good showing. Should a bad report go to the adjutant general's office this time it will probably mean the mustering out of the company. Captain Kern is also anxious to see a permanent captain selected for the company so that he may be relieved of his present responsibility.

At the inspection Tuesday Captain Kern will present 12 members of the company with medals for proficiency on the rifle range.

ESCUADERO TO SUBDUCE REBELS

Mexican Government Plans to Stamp Out Revolt in Lower California

TROOPS TRANSFERRED TO SOUTHERN PACIFIC

Fifteen Hundred Federals Will Take Train at Juarez and Be Transported to San Diego—Madero Troops Restore Order in Mexico City.

El Paso, June 23.—Under orders to absolutely stamp out all revolt in Lower California, General Escudero today is transferring 1500 federal troops to the Southern Pacific trains at Juarez for transport towards San Diego across the American territory. It is possible that some troops may reenter Mexico before the coast is reached, as Escudero is to have a right to change his plans so his movements won't be known to the Magonists. Fearing that attempts to dynamite the train might be made, Colonel Steever, U. S. A., is sending a detachment of American soldiers to guard each train.

Restore Order at Capital. Mexico City, June 23.—The arrival of 500 of Madero's troops at Jalapa today restored order following yesterday's outbreaks in which it is reported 15 were killed and fifty three wounded. Four were killed and 22 wounded in a similar uprising last night at Mexicala. Maderistas troops who gathered at Puebla with the intention of disbanding today refused to surrender their arms and are camped outside the city vowing vengeance against the federals.

Revolt May Be Over. San Diego, Cal., June 23.—Together with General Mosby more than 90 of his rebel soldiers are held at Fort Rosecrans awaiting extradition on the charge of murder brought against them by the Mexican government. It is believed that the revolt in Lower California is dead. For the first time since May, the Mexican flag flies over Tia Juana, which is now occupied by the federal troops under Governor Vega. The number of dead is unascertained. Both sides claim that the other side lost from 30 to 50.

PULLMAN SOLVES WEED PROBLEM

Pullman, Wash., June 23.—J. W. Campbell, a sheepman of Willow creek, spent last night in Pullman with 1190 sheep which he is taking to their summer pasture in the mountains near Troy, Idaho. He was given permission to camp in the city park last night and the sheep did more toward cleaning the park of weeds, grass and other growths than the commercial club and citizens have been able to do in several afternoons of united and hard work.

Mr. Campbell declares that sheep are the solution of the "Jim Hill" mustard problem. He says that the sheep love this weed and will eat it to the ground it put upon it when the weed is young and tender, but if turned into it when it is large, heavy and tough they will eat the leaves, seed pods, bloom and everything but the bare, tough stalks. He says that he was given the contract to clear a large piece of the right of way of the O. W. R. & N. in western Whitman county, where a section foreman had worked for weeks with a large crew, and that in a week there was not a stock of "Jim Hill" mustard growing on the right of way. He says that in places in western Whitman, Adams and Franklin counties this mustard is so high and thick that a dog can not get through it, but the sheep are cleaning it up root and branch.

JEWELER REID MAY RECOVER FROM INJURIES

Los Angeles, June 23.—But slight hope for the recovery of Jeweler Reid is held out today. The skull is fractured. After 24 hours' search, the police admit that they may never capture the thief who secured $20,000 worth of gems after beating Reid in the store.
