WOMAN SLAYS NEIGHBOR

Tragedy Result of Long Standing Neighborhood Row.
 Waycross, Ga.—Following a neighborhood quarrel which had been running on for some time, Mrs. R. L. Robbins killed Belle Smith here opposite the latter's home, in Gilchrist park. The bullet entered the body of the woman between the shoulders and she died instantly.
 Mrs. Robbins was placed under arrest and is now in the county jail.
 There were several eyewitnesses to the affair. The two women are said to have had trouble several times lately over minor neighborhood matters.
 Recently, Mrs. Robbins had the Smith woman arrested on a charge of breaking the peace. The case resulted in a fine for the accused and the release of the Smith woman.

BEER KEG ADORN'S CHURCH'S FLAG POLE

HITCHCOCK AGAIN IS REPORTED ENGAGED

Bachelor Member of Taft's Cabinet Blushingly Denies Betrothal to Miss Dorothy Williams.
 Washington, D. C.—Society is still busy trying to marry off Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock. It is now generally reported that the bachelor member of President Taft's cabinet will marry Miss Dorothy Williams, beautiful, wealthy and a sister of Mrs. Joseph Leiter.
 Although Mr. Hitchcock has been reported engaged just an even dozen times during the past eighteen months, once more today, he blushingly declared he was still fancy free and unengaged. Society folk—that is those women leaders who generally "know"—continue to assert that Mr. Hitchcock at last has been captured and the formal announcement of betrothal will come soon.
Turns as Red as a Rose.
 The postmaster general, who is of a retiring, really timid disposition when broached on affairs of love, became as red as an American Beauty rose when questioned about this latest engagement gossip. Then he gathered courage and made the sweeping assertion that all previous engagements were also wrong, and so far as he could see there was no justification for any of the stories.
Miss Williams Also Blushes.
 Miss Williams was equally reticent concerning the reported engagement. She also blushed, but as much as the bachelor cabinet member.
 "Mr. Hitchcock is an awfully nice man, but—"
 And then she blushed some more.

CABINET MEETING HELD OVER TON OF ICE

Washington, D. C.—When the cabinet came straggling into the executive offices they found the temperature of the cabinet room. In spite of all that anxious doorkeepers and electric fans could do to keep it down, well up in the nineties. They sat in uncomfortable leather chairs, perspiring freely and making more or less vehement remarks about the weather. When the president entered, he found so much "heat" that he immediately issued an executive mandate that the session be held in his private office. This office is cooled by breezes from a ton of ice stored beneath it. The refrigerating apparatus keeps the thermometer around the 69 mark and makes it easier for the president than for congress to contemplate the probable date of adjournment.

WASHINGTON IS STYLED GREATEST ENGLISHMAN

Editor Stead of London, Pays High Tribute to Revolutionary Leader.
 London.—W. T. Stead, editor and author, in a speech before a meeting at Browning Hall for the veterans of the civil war, said that to no man did the British empire owe a greater debt than to George Washington, "the greatest Englishman of the eighteenth century."
 Washington, he said, had indirectly taught Great Britain how to maintain and extend the British empire. "For these and other reasons," added Mr. Stead, "I hope the signing of the Anglo-American arbitration treaty will be the signal for raising a subscription throughout the British empire for the occasion of a noble statue to George Washington, the unvailing or which in Westminster, would be the most dramatic method of celebrating the completion of a hundred years' peace between the British and American peoples."

eral men, who searched the railroad yards, a block distant, where they found Miss Spicer with face bruised and clothing torn crawling along the tracks and unable to speak. Her assailant escaped. Miss Spicer, when she regained consciousness, said the man threatened her with death if she screamed. She is in a serious condition. The entire police force is searching for the assailant.
