LONGEST CONCRETE BRIDGE IN WORLD AT SPOKANE

Spokane, Wash.--When the bridge to carry Monroe street across the Spokane river in the business district here is completed the latter part of October, the largest single span of concrete re-enforced in the world will be open to traffic. The central span is 281 feet, or 12 inches longer than the bridge over the Rocky river, under construction at Cleveland, O., and 58 feet longer than the Wissahickon structure at Philadelphia, which held the distinction of the longest span of its kind. The cost of the Spokane bridge will be about $550,000. In addition to the car tracks there is a team roadway and walks for pedestrians. A span of 285 feet has been adopted to carry the New York Barge canal over the gorge near Medina, N. Y., and the span of the proposed Hudson memorial bridge is to be 710 feet. With the exception of the Hudson bridge the other largest single span yet proposed is one of 328 feet to be built by the municipality of Rome. A bridge under construction in New Zealand will have a 320-foot span.

MANY LABORERS WANTED IN SPOKANE VICINITY

Spokane, Wash.--Employment agencies in Spokane report there is a demand for from $86 to 1,000 laborers in railroad and lumber camps and on farms in the districts tributary to this city. There are many apparently idle men in Spokane, but few express a desire to work, some waiting for an advance in wages, while others are arranging to go to the harvest fields. Many offers of $25 and $40 a month and board are listed on the bulletin boards at local agencies. Wages of $2.25 a day to Americans and $2 a day for foreigners are advertised by railroad companies with construction work under way. Sawmill laborers are wanted at $2.25 a day, while skidding teamsters and drivers are offered $2.50 a day. Wood cutters are offered $1.25 a cord. Free fare is advanced by railroads and construction companies. The approach of the harvest season and the promised early opening of work by local contractors on the Canadian Northern railroad in the province of British Columbia is said to be responsible for the scarcity of men in these lines.

JAPANESE JESUIT STARTS TO TAKE UP HIS WORK

Spokane, Wash.--Francis Masul, 24 years of age, a resident of Spokane since 1903, said to be the first Japanese in America to enter the Jesuit order of the Catholic church, has gone to Los Gatos, Cal., where he will affiliate with the society as a brother. Masul became converted in this city six years ago and has been an exemplary Christian. His parents are residents of Japan. His decision to enter the Society of Jesus is looked upon by Catholics to be of historical significance, recalling, as it does, that in the early part of the 17th century hundreds of Japanese converts to the Catholic faith were martyred. Since that time the Japanese followers of the church have worshiped secretly. Masul was accompanied to California by William O'Brien of Spokane, Daniel Meagher of Missoula, Mont., and John J. Keep of Boston, graduates of Gonzaga college, who will enter the Jesuit order to become priests. Fifteen years of studious application is required before ordination.

Burns Herself to Death.

Butte, Mont.--Mrs. Margaret Whitford, aged 27, her mind deranged by continued illness and an impending operation, dashed kerosene over her clothing Thursday evening and touched a match to her garments. The pain brought the young woman to a realization of her deed and she rushed into the apartments of her husband, J. H. Whitford, where he lay sleeping, and begged that he throw water upon her. Tonight she died as she begged her husband and children to kiss her to the last and breathing a prayer that she might live.

CHILDREN AT PRAYER.

So many earth-bound thoughts in moments past,
So many sordid trifles in each day
Have held me to their level, that at last
I can not pray.
But kneeling here in answer to my need
Are my sweet intercessors! All my cares
And skeptic thoughts roll from me as I plead--
"Lord, hear their prayers."
--Burgess Johnson in Success Magazine.

Excellent program for Tuesday's change:

1. "The Railroad Raiders of '62." Kalem. A true incident of the American civil war. Here is a picture of real men, making real war. Sustained action in every scene. A story that proves truth stranger than fiction.

2. "The Thoroughbred." Edison. Comedy drama. Here is a racing story told with all the vim and vigor of a picture of outdoor life. The cast is a special one and brings out the unusual story with certainty and discretion. Three race horses are in the picture and they play their parts with an enthusiasm that is remarkable.

3. "For the Squaw." Pathe. One of the best Indian pictures ever produced. The photography is excellent. The scenes are in the spring when the brooks are in flood, to add to attractiveness of the pictorial portion.

4. "The Foster Father." Pathe. Two robbers are making a hasty retreat across the roofs of some houses, followed by the police. One is captured, but the other slipping down the fire escape, enters a room. Here he finds a dead mother and little baby and quickly seizing this chance, he clasps the baby in his arms and when the officer comes they find what they suppose to be a broken hearted father and husband at the side of his dead wife.

Deceived with appearances, they let him go and he with the child goes to the west, where he strikes it rich in the gold fields and becomes a prosperous and respected citizen. Years later his old pal is released from prison and hearing of the whereabouts of his old friend, seeks him out and threatens to expose him to his daughter if he is not given hush money. Rather than this the reformed man would give away all he has and is about to pay his old comrade money when the curtains are thrust aside and his daughter enters, having heard the entire conversation. Realizing her foster father's black past she still forgives him and refuses to let him pay money, thus ridding them both once and for all of all connection with the past, which they have left so far behind them.

The Cosy.
A program of interesting, well balanced qualities for Monday and Tuesday.

"The Awakening of Galatea." Powers. A sculptor having carved a beautiful statue from stone is so delighted with his work that he refuses to sell it. One day he is surprised to hear a voice calling his name and drawing back the curtain that hid the statue he finds it has come to life. He is madly in love with the beautiful girl but she does not understand the world, and ere he is aware she changes back to a statue. A pretty story with fine settings.

"Over the Shading Edge." Reliance. One of the strongest dramatic stories ever produced by this company. A girl reporter unearths a case of bribery and graft in which her lover is the principal factor. It was her duty to disclose the graft and her lover goes to prison. The closing scene is deeply emotional where she and her lover part, she promising to wait till he comes out of prison. "Civilization." Powers. An eastern girl goes west to become a teacher in an Indian school. She transforms a young brave into a college man and he falls in love with her, forgetting his Indian sweetheart. Too late he realized that the white girl was not for him and having lost his true Indian lover, he realizes the strange and tragic results of civilization. Splendidly acted, with well selected out of door scenes.

"His Dumb Wife." Solax. A good laughable comedy, told in the amusing Solax way. Fritz having married a dumb girl, grieves because she cannot speak a word of love to him, so he consults a specialist and has his wife made to talk. "Alas! Poor Fritz, she made up for lost time and talked too much, till in despair he has himself made deaf, and while his wife scolds and raves he sits with a smile on his face, oblivious to it all.

The Pastime.

The house of quality. A big feature program goes on Tuesday.

"Range Pals." Sellig. Written and produced by Francis Boggs. A true story of old Arizona in the eighties. Cast: Steve, a cattleman, Hobart Bosworth; Dave, his devoted friend, W. T. Santschi; Pedro, a Mexican dancer, Herbert Rawlinson; Charlie, Cheeney, a faro dealer, Frank Clark; Buck Wells, head of vigilance committee, Frank Richardson; Danny, an Indian boy devoted to Steve, Betty Hart; Mrs. Murdock, Steve's mother, Anna Dodge. Cattleman, music hall habits, vigilantes, etc.

Like the story of Damon and Pythias of old, there existed between these two men a friendship absolutely devoid of selfishness.

"The Delayed Proposal." Biograph. Here is a film showing how a country bumpkin undertook to win a gay sourette. Clad in his store clothes, the young man studies a book entitled "How to Propose." The necessity for this educational process delays the proposal too long. The city lover appears and poor Zeke has exerted his efforts for nothing. This is a good comedy and the characterization is above the average.

"Bearded Youth." Biograph. Youth is not generally a handicap, but it proved so with this young doctor. In order to win his sweetheart's consent to marry him he must have a practice. He wins out.

"Over the Cliff." American Pathe. Here is a tragedy which concerns a mountebank, his wife, a woman who alienated his affections and won him away from his wife.

"The Iron Master." Edison. The famous French society drama. The character of the young woman is admirably developed and the Ironmaster is a man almost anyone might be proud of.

"Max Comes Home." A clever comedy.
"Winter Sports at Lucerne." Interesting view of winter life.
Seven subjects for this show.

LIKE HELEN, SHE STARTS WAR BETWEEN GREEKS

Savannah, Ga.--What promised to be a feud between the Greeks and Syrians of Savannah developed because of the marriage of Charles George, a Greek, to pretty 18-year-old Essie Rahal, a Syrian.

Just as soon as the girl's family discovered that Justice of the Peace Van Glessen had married the couple they took the bride and groom and they did not want and would not have the Greek in their family.

George returned to the magistrate who had tied the knot and secured peace warrants for Mr. and Mrs. Rahal and their son. While an officer had the trio in the magistrate's office arranging bond the Greek groom was busy assisting the bride to escape from her home.

When the Rahal family got back to the house they found that Essie had gone. She is with him and says she will remain at her husband's home over his fruit stand. In the meantime the Greeks and Syrians are divided into camps.

GIRL RUNAWAYS ARE SOUGHT BY SHERIFF

Goldie Nichols and Anna Bussy, of Forest Grove, Ore.--Sheriff Hancock, of Washington county, is searching for two girls of this place, who left home Tuesday evening and have not been seen by their relatives since then--Goldie Nichols, aged 15, the daughter of James Nichols and Anna Bussy, 16 years old, daughter of Thomas Bussy, who came here about one year ago.

Search has been made by the families of the two girls, but no trace of them has been found except the report that they were seen between Gaston and Dilley, and Sheriff Hancock is following that clue. It is believed the girls were enticed from home by some one who had designs on them and the result is that the entire neighborhood is aroused and aiding in the search.

TELLS WORSHIPPERS TO PRAY MORE--ROLL LESS

Pittsburg.--Rebuking members of the cult, "for the way they acted," Rev. S. D. Kenne, of St. Louis, was the principal speaker last night at the Pentecostal convention of the "Gift or Tongues" sect being held under tents at Homestead Park. The remarks of the minister came, when during an address, he saw some of the worshippers rolling in the sawdust and others under the seats, all shouting and crying for the manifestation of the "gift of tongues." Rev. Kenne told them to do more praying.

WILLIS IS A WISER MAN.

Washington, D. C.--Representative Frank B. Willis of Ada, Ohio, is a wiser if not a better man than he was, but is short a mohair coat and the western hemisphere of a pair of $8 trousers.

Mr. Willis is large, broadshouldered, heavy-chested and athletic, with a thick head of raven black hair and a fine boyish face. Some time ago, when the statehood bills were up, he surprised the house with a very able and scholarly speech. He bowed over every democrat that tried to bring him down, much to the delight of Minority Leader Mann and other faithful republicans.

About the middle of the afternoon Mr. Willis startled the house by jumping out of his seat and yelling "Fire!" A box of matches in the right coat pocket had caught fire and were burning at a lively rate. Representative Kahn of California, recalling the fact that one can smother a fire, shed his coat and rushed over to wrap Mr. Willis up.

But by slapping, kicking, jumping and doing the buck and wing dance in the aisle the Ohioan extinguished the fire.

After the flames were out and Mr. Willis took stock it was found that one side of his coat and pocket of his trousers were gone. Mr. Kahn sidled up to Mr. Willis, using his coat as a screen to keep anybody in the gallery from seeing just what had happened, and escorted him out.

"Those must have been insurgent matches," said Uncle Joe Cannon as Mr. Kahn led Mr. Willis out. "They flare up at most unexpected times."

ATHENA FARMERS WANT ROAD OPENED

(Special Correspondence.)

Athens, Ore., July 18.--The county court and the bridge contractors who are building a bridge across Wild Horse creek just south of Athens, are coming in for their part of the "roasts" at the hands of the farmers of this section who are now ready to move their harvesting machinery and begin hauling wheat.

The road, which is used a great deal, has been closed now for more than six weeks, it is said, while for the past several days there has been nothing done toward completing it. If something is not done soon it is not unlikely that some kind of temporary bridge will be constructed by the people so that the road can be used.
