F BIG CHIEF BATTLE-AXE F

(COMIC INDIAN NOVELTY)

Sung with Great Success by

Low Dockstader in Dockstader's Minstrels.

Ever since the day of "Hiawatha" a song dealing with the Red Skins in some phase or other has always been welcomed by the great popular-music buying population of our country. There have been Indian love songs, Indian war songs and Indian cow-boy songs, but it remained for Walter Jacobs, the New England publisher, to give the stage and public the first Indian comedy song. Of course, the real live Indian was long ago extinct in Massachusetts, so Mr. Jacobs in casting about for the model of his prospective Indian song had to be content with the nearest article which lay to hand—the old familiar wooden cigar-store Indian. Without spoiling your laugh before you get the song in next Saturday's East Oregonian we will simply say that it has proved to be one of the biggest comedy hits Low Dockstader, the famous minstrel comedian, ever sang.

WOMEN FOOTPADS WORK IN TACOMA

Dressed in Masculine Attire They Hold Up Two Men on Street.
Tacoma, Wash.—Wearing masks, dressed as men and armed with nickel-plated revolvers, two women shortly after midnight held up W. E. O'Connor and Frank Mead, Milwaukee railroad employes. O'Connor turned and bolted, but one of the women had her revolver pressed against Mead's chest and he was afraid to move a muscle.
The other woman stepped behind him and went through his pockets, obtaining a small amount of money. This makes the second holdup by women here this week.
O'Connor and Mead were walking along Dellin street when two medium sized figures clad in men's clothing and with faces hidden in black masks stepped from behind a billboard and covered them with their revolvers.

After being searched, Mead ran down Dellin street, where he met O'Connor and Police Sergeant John Strickland. Strickland went with him to the scene of the holdup and found silver coins lying on the sidewalk. In the mud between the sidewalk and a billboard were found two sets of footprints, one made by a pair of No. 3 shoes and the other made by o. 3 1-2. The holdups escaped.

In trying to rid herself of the money Mrs. Burnley suggested that the funds be turned over to the general convention of the church or to local trustees for the general convention. The master recommends that the properties, which have become dilapidated, be placed in repair, that a memorial be established, and that the funds be placed in the hands of local trustees, so that the income can be used for service, and missionary and charitable work. He says that it is not advisable that the funds be received by the general convention, as they may be directed to other jurisdictions than that in which the donations were made.

Interested parties recommended that the trustees be Charles J. Shoemaker of 2099 Arch street, Philadelphia; Ezra Hyde Allen, 75 East

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J.
