Seattle.—President James McCrea of the Pennsylvania railroad and Percival Roberts, Jr., a director of the road, sailed for Alaska.

Yakima Rum Sales Cause Arrest.
North Yakima, Wash.—John Gerriho, an Italian, was tonight fined for selling liquor on Sunday. Gerriho was caught at 615 West Yakima avenue, selling beer and wine.

Boy Drowned.
Caldwell, Idaho.—Louis Udick, 12 years of age, was drowned in sight of half a dozen companions in the Boise river just above the interurban bridge here.

Fire at Weiser.
Weiser, Idaho.—Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the building and most of the stock of the Mode millinery and dressmaking establishment, owned by Miss Baker, at 11 o'clock tonight.

Logs Crushed Owl Bowler's Life.
Libby, Mont.—Thomas Bowler, foreman for Wilder's sawmill, while unloading a load of logs was so badly crushed under rolling logs that he died. Mr. Bowler leaves a wife and two children.

Bath for Lincoln Prisoners.
Davenport, Wash.—A bathtub is being installed in the basement of the court house to replace a common tub, in which prisoners have received their baths when received at the jail. Each prisoner is given a bath before being taken in the jail.

Hot Metal in His Eye.
St. Johns, Wash.—Frank Bodine, who is fixing up a thrashing outfit here, met with a serious and painful accident. While soldering some of the hot metal flew into his right eye. The particles had to be removed by a physician.

Miner Shot.
Wallace.—Francis Xavier Fox, a miner at the Stewart mine, who also conducted a boarding house, lies at Providence hospital with a bullet in his breast and the bone of the right leg above the knee shattered by three bullets, while Jack Dillon, shift boss at the Stewart, occupies a cell in the county jail charged with murderous assault for which no cause can be assigned. Fox's condition is serious, but it is believed he will survive.

Girl to Climb Mountain.
Seattle.—It is reported from Seward, Alaska, that Miss Dora Keen of Philadelphia, a society girl who has won fame as a mountain climber, is equipping an expedition to attempt the ascent of Mount McKinley.

Gillnet Gives Up Body.
Astoria, Or.—The body of a man picked up in a gillnet near Sand Island today and was brought here this evening. The body has not been identified, but is supposed to be that of Alex Jackson or A. Carlson, fishermen, who were drowned a few days ago, when their fishing boat capsized on Peacock Spit.

Seek Madman in Coeur d'Alenes.
Wallace, Idaho.—Efforts on the part of the sheriff's office to locate an unknown madman, said to be roaming the woods in the vicinity of Prichard, have so far proved unavailing. Deputy Sheriff Charles Le Favre of Kellogg spent all of Sunday in the neighborhood in which he was supposed to be hiding without success.

Couple Hurt in Runaway.
Davenport, Wash.—In a runaway Thomas Orr, a Davenport blacksmith, and Miss Helen Jewell, soloist at the Casino theater, were thrown from their rig near the home of David Gunning, east of Davenport, and both occupants bruised. Orr was brought to the hospital by David Gunning. A calf, which jumped up in the road suddenly, caused the horses to swerve into a telephone pole.

Sanitary Premises at Yakima.
North Yakima, Wash.—Citizens who have failed to comply with frequent notices of the city health department with regard to sanitary toilets and disposal of garbage and manure are to be arrested soon and taken before the police judge for trial, according to announcement made today by the health department. Before wholesale arrests are made a test case will probably be tried.

Thief Robs Medford Home.
Medford, Or.—Slipping into the house by a back door while the family was sitting on the front porch, a burglar ransacked the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Rice, of 103 South Oakdale street carrying off $150 worth of watches, pipes, rings and silverware. A lot of silverware which was kept in a cabinet in the dining-room was overlooked. A baby, which had been left up stairs awakened and began crying and it is supposed that this scared the robber away.

Lake Steamer Sinks.
Klamath Falls, Or.—Word reached here that the little steamer Klamath, which is in the freight trade between this city and the Wood River valley, went to the bottom while at her moorings at Agency landing about 4 o'clock Saturday evening. This little boat is owned by Captain Parker and is used for towing barges with freight on the Upper Klamath lake. Part of her crew was sleeping on the boat when she went down. The stern went down in about 15 feet of water, while the prow is resting on the bank almost clear of the water.

SLAKE-BITTEN DOG'S PLEA

Hunts Till He Finds Right Man to Expel Poison.
Lewiston, Pa.—"Bill," a fox-hound owned by Conductor William Gilbert, of Lewistown Junction, knows about what he whom he needs most in a life-and-death emergency. It seems, returning from a hike over the hills, Bill held up before his master a fore-paw, Gilbert, thinking the dog had been stung by bees, bathed the swollen member in turpentine.

The dog seemed to know that both diagnosis and remedy were wrong, for he trotted off about as fast as he could on three legs till he came to Dr. I. M. Bush, veterinarian, of this place found him in front of the post-office, rubbed against him and held up the injured paw.

"Great Scott!" exclaimed Dr. Bush, who had never seen the dog to know him. The poor brute has been bitten by a copperhead or some other poisonous snake.

The doctor started for a real remedy, and Bill, thinking himself deserted, hunted up Dr. A. S. Harshbarger, and was showing him the wounded paw, when Dr. Bush arrived with a pint of whisky and other remedies, with which he dosed the dog. Bill is home again, very sick, but bids fair to get well, when the contending poisons in his system have worked out their antidotal mission.

CONLIN PICKS LOCK OF JAIL WITH FORK

Morrow County Alleged Forger is Gone When Officers Open Cell.
Heppner, Ore.—Walter Conlin picked the lock of the Morrow county jail in Heppner. Conlin had been arrested on the charge of forging a check in May on Thomson Brothers, grocers. On entering the jail Sunday morning the officers found an open door and no prisoner. Conlin had skillfully picked the lock of the outer corridor with a fork, out of which he was able to make a key.

The Call of the Wild

They're off on the Chautauqua circuit, but who is that left at the post? Alas, it is Champ Clark, overwhelmed with the extra session. As the winners come under the wire and carry off the gate receipts words fall—poor Champ!

Does it Work Both Ways.

The Orpheum.
Excellent program for Tuesday's change.

1. "The Honor of the Flag." Melles. A story of Uncle Sam's troops in Texas during the recent disturbances. The army is encamped not far from the home of the heroine of the story and soldiers ride to the rescue when it is attacked by a band of Mexican ruffians who claim to be insurgents. The story is well laid out and is exciting.

2. "The Hidden Mine." Essanay. Fate seems unusually cruel at times when trying to drive us into better fortunes. So it was with William Hart, a prospector in the west, who with his wife and child sought vainly for gold day after day, while hope waned and starvation faced them. One night he is deceived from the cabin and Indians set fire to it. Mrs. Hart and her baby barely escape with their lives when Hart comes and finds them shivering beside the ruins of their home in their night robes. He begins stirring about the ashes for metal ware which has not been destroyed and finds a small nugget of gold and a valuable streak of pay dirt.

3. "The Jollier." Kalem. A lively comedy giving the adventures of a youth who sought to get through the world by jollying people. Laugh and the world laughs with you. See this picture and laugh with the world.

4. "The Oppressor." Kosmik. A drama from the life of a prince of Moravia. He is deaf on the right side and blind on the left. Appeals which to him are distasteful are attended to by his deaf side and sights which are miserable are shown on his left. His daughter, her lover and two of his ministers however, help the applicants. When he learns of their charity they are condemned to punishment. The ministers are beheaded and the daughter and her lover are sent to prison. The prince is haunted daily by spirits of his victims and finally falls dead. This brings about the release of the princess and her faithful lover. They are married and a peaceful and happy reign begins.

5. "Jimmy, the Fox." Gaumont. Is sitting at the waterside and just behind him a fishwife is roundly abusing a gendarme. The youngster is thoroughly enjoying the official's roasting but when turned to by that person to give evidence as a witness, the little fellow affects total deafness. He is tried in many ways by the gendarme, who fails to trap the artful lad. Finally, the boy is taken to his mother and Jimmie then confesses to her how he has deceived the official—who goes defeated.

The Pastime

Program for Tuesday's Change includes a snappy comedy, a genuine western and a high class drama.

"The Crusaders" Edison Here is a film which embodies the romance which surrounds the Crusaders. With it is interwoven a tender love story, for each Crusader as he left England carried with him some token presented by her he loved. The film is picturesque and brings back the age of chivalry. We see the onset in the Holy Land the wounding of the lover and his rival's interception of the message sent home. Eleanor waits, but the rival only returns with news of her lover's death. At last she consents to marry him but on the wedding day the slave arrives, bringing her knot of ribbon and the message that her lover lives. This story is spirited and well acted.

"The Kiss of Mary Jane." Melles. A stirring western drama with sentiment and heart interest involved. Mary Jane kisses a horse thief about to be lynched, which so electrifies him that he escapes to become a better man.

"The Reporter." Selig. This farce is full of amusing situations. It might pass man on a reporter's bad dream. The star man on the paper is sent by his editor to write up how it feels to be a burglar. The result is very funny.

"Scenes in Our Navy." Selig. Showing an assemblage of the great Dogs of War, preparatory and in spectacular maneuvers, a subject that should be of absorbing interest to any American citizen whose heart pulsates with the resounding strains of "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

"The Snare of the City." Essanay. A vivid and heart-touching drama showing the snare and pitfalls for the country girl who seeks to make a living in the city. Simple, natural acting makes this story of farm house and city life a very commendable film.

The Cosy

Five Reels for Wednesday and Thursday. A peep into the mysteries of forbidden Thibet, seen for the first time by a white man.

"Dr. Nicola in Thibet." Great Northern. A magnificent feature subject, this season's biggest hit, awarded first prize, gold medal and prize of honor at the exhibition at Hamburg. Two reels of beautifully colored film, showing Dr. Nicola's extraordinary adventures and miraculous escapes in "Forbidden Thibet." Disguised as a Chinese and possessed of a wonderful Chinese name he gains admission to temples and convents never before entered by a white man.

HERMAN PETERS, Prop.

and learned secrets of almost supernatural nature. He was found out, however, and sentenced to be hanged on a precipice as a spy. His wonderful escape, pursued by a yelling horde of Thibetans, is the close of a sensational story.

"The Sheriff's Captive." American. Dan Hawkins, a rancher, shoots a man and rides away. Dan leaves a note for his daughter, telling her the man he killed had run away with Dan's wife 15 years ago. The sheriff follows Dan and captures him and while he is asleep the girl unlocks her father and lets him escape. She tells the sheriff to take her instead. The sheriff "took her" for his wife later on.

"The Ultimate Sacrifice." Rex. A story of human passions dramatically told. The girl was a coquette and made men love her just for fun. She made a conquest of a young man only to spurn him. He left in anger and then she found out she really loved him and years of repentance and loneliness was the price she must pay for her folly.

"The Summit of Mt. Blanc." Itala. Scenic film taken at great difficulty showing the beauties of this world-famous peak.

"Foolshead Jealous." Itala. The comedian, Foolshead, goes through some more of his comical stunts and curious adventures. Very amusing.

DIJON HAS FAMOUS SWORD.
Blade Worn by Jean of Arc in Museum.
Paris.—Biographers of Jeanne d'Arc, including Anatole France and

Andrew Lang, have never been able to discover any authentic relics of the Maid of Orleans. The executioner threw her ashes into the Seine and the cottage at Domremy has not so much as a wooden shoe which can be proved to have belonged to the Liberator of France. There is, however, in the museum of Dijon a sword kept in the hall with the tombs of Philip the Bold and Jean-Sans-Peur, for which the custodian, M. E. Metman, has documents proving that it once belonged to Jeanne d'Arc.

On one face of the hilt is engraved a figure of the maid in peasant costume kneeling before a cross, with the name Charles VII. On the other is the word "Vaucoeurs." On both are the arms of France and those of the city of Orleans. The date, 1419, is found in five places on hilt and blade.

M. Metman's manuscripts show that the sword was manufactured at Toledo and was autographed by the swordmaker, Lupis Aguado, and that it was specially made as a present to the maid from the King of France. The blade is much smaller than any of the period. When Jeanne was captured at Compiègne the sword was taken from her by Jean de Luxembourg and sold for 10,000 francs to the Bishop Cauchon, who offered it to his suzerain, Philip the Good.

Nat-urally Not.
