MEXICAN WOMEN WANT EASIER DIVORCE LAWS

Border Republic Will Out-Reno Reno If Proposal of 500 Suffragettes for Separation on Mere Request Is Adopted.

Mexico City—Reno's divorce mills will be regarded as second rate and their output insignificant when compared with the system of women would establish in Mexico for the purpose of untangling marital knots. Since the last week in June women's clubs, editorial writers, the clergy and others of an argumentative turn have been discussing the daring and radical petition of 500 women members of the club "Amigas del Pueblo," in which President De la Barra was asked to initiate a reform in the laws granting the right of divorce.

This is the same club whose members have been unusually active in their efforts to secure for women the right of suffrage.

Absolute Divorce Prohibited.

Under the laws of Mexico absolute divorce is prohibited. The law provides for a legal separation, but in no case may either remarry. In their petition the women characterize the law as unjust and go so far as to suggest that absolute divorce should be granted upon the mere request of either husband or wife.

That Mexico will provide a divorce law for her unhappily wed is improbable, but that a considerable portion of her population—men as well as women—should demand such a measure is not surprising.

Spirit of Radicalism.

It is indicative of the spirit of radicalism which prevails and may be regarded as a protest against the laxity with which the marital vows are kept by a large percentage of the people are Catholics and since the institution of divorce is repugnant to the church, it is a fair presumption that the request of the 500 women will not find popular approval.

Cases of separation are not common in Mexico, and it is probable that divorce suits would be uncommon even if divorce law were enacted, because of the religious belief held by most of the people, especially the women.

NOT THE ONLY ONE.

There Are Hundreds of Pendleton People Similarly Situated.

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Pendleton residents After you have read the following, quietly answer the question.

Mrs. E. J. Meiners, 501 Lewis street, Pendleton, Oregon, says: "About two years ago a cold settled on my kidneys and caused backache and pains through my loins. I felt lame and sore and any movement such as stooping or lifting was accompanied by sharp twinges. While I was suffering in this way, Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention and I procured a box at the Pendleton Drug Co. They gave me relief at once and I had not used them long before my trouble was entirely removed. I know that this remedy is one of great merit and consequently I do not hesitate to recommend it." (Statement given October 10, 1905.)

Time Is the Test.

Mrs. Meiners was interviewed on May 17, 1910 and she said: "I still hold Doan's Kidney Pills in high esteem and I am pleased to again say a good word for them. I have taken this preparation recently and it has done good work."
