More men in the past generation have been injured through over-exercise than from under-exercise, writes Dr. William Lee Howard in Munsey's. "Like most things in the United States, physical training and exercise have been overdone."

"If you will take notice, you will observe how common it is for former athletes to succumb to some germ disease. It is not because they were athletes, but because, as athletes, they expended energy instead of making and storing it. I do not believe that any contestant in that heart-breaking stunt, the Marathon run, will ever have in him reserve force to withstand a good attack of disease germs. At an age when he needs force and cell endurance it will be found wanting. The heart has expended much of its intended reserve force. When called upon at forty-five years of age to put out latent energy it will not be able to do so; it is stretched and enlarged so much at its growing period that it has become soft and inelastic."

"The man who has led a sedentary and careless life, and who, when told he is getting too fat, at once jumps into some form of violent exercise, is injuring himself—throwing away all chance of making himself germ-proof. What such a man needs is slow, comparatively effortless exercise, such as walking, or moderate swimming. But it must be kept up systematically—as regularly as his sleep."

"The man who accumulates dollars by the bag and fat by the day usually wants to get rid of his fat in the same manner—by rush and hurry. Then something inside goes wrong, microbes enter his system, and his bags of dollars are useless."

FIRE FIGHTERS RUSHED FROM CITY TO GIBBON

afternoon it was stated that the fire above Gibbon was under control. Mr. Furnish thinks that after tonight the fire fighting force may be cut in half. However, he says that for several days it will be necessary to have men to patrol the fire as there is much fire left. No effort is being made to extinguish the fire but merely to control it. The greatest difficulty arises in feeding the fire fighters. Thus far they have had but one meal and Mr. Furnish sent a requisition for supplies today. The order was filled by Mr. Smythe, member of the state forestry board, who says the board will probably meet part of the expense of conducting the fight against the fire above Gibbon.

R. R. WILL LEASE LAND FOR CITY PARK

That the O. W. R. & N. company is willing to lease its strip of land between its tracks and Railroad street to the city for park purposes is evidenced by a letter received this morning by Secretary Keefe of the Commercial association from Superintendent Bollons in response to inquiries recently made by him. The letter, which is self-explanatory, follows:

"Referring to your letter of August 1, I hand you herewith a blue print showing in red the company's grounds in Pendleton and which I understand the city desires to park. We will be agreeable to the city parking the ground but I have no suggestion as to just how it should be done, and I believe this is a matter which should be left entirely in the hands of the citizens. The bunk and section houses shown on the print will be moved to locations very near to the east line of Aura street."

The proposition to park this strip of land was first taken up by the ladies of the Civic club and has recently been revived by Secretary Keefe. Immediately after the Round-Up he will start measures necessary to transfer that barn and dusty property into a garden spot that will not offend the aesthetic taste of every visitor in Pendleton.

WAR PHOTOGRAPHERS.

"The story of the war photographer is a history in itself," says Munsey's Magazine. "Prominent among the men who have made their reputations in this most hardy, hazardous field are James Ricatton, the dean of American photographers; James Hare, who is best known as 'Jimmy' Hare; William Dinwiddie, John F. Bass and Robert Lee Dunn.

"Ricaton, who is more than sixty years of age, returned not long ago from a foot trip through Africa. One of his most striking achievements is a series of views showing bursting shells photographed at close proximity during the thick of the Russian-Japanese war.

"Some of the best negatives secured by Dinwiddie and Bass, who went through almost all the recent wars, were taken in those perilous trenches which the Japs ran within half range of the Russian batteries and right under their bristling guns—trenches which time and again were swept with shrapnel and filled with the dead.

"Dunn was the man who scored many 'boots' in this same war by penetrating Korea, and despite every conceivable obstacle and hardship, hanging on the heels of the Japanese army all the way into Manchuria. "In order to reach Liao-Yang before the Russians evacuated that city, Hare ran away from the Japanese army, and with practically no food supplies, and no hope of securing them on route, he started cheerfully forth on an overland journey of at least four days' duration. He could have stuffed enough hard-tack and chocolate into his saddle-bags, but he needed the room for his films and photographic supplies. And he reached his objective-point, as any photographer is expected to do.

"Hare's latest exploit was the photographing of New York's sky-scrapers from a balloon, a mile above the city. Ballooning is by no means the most hazardous form of travel for the modern photographer; but ballooning along the seacoast is accounted extremely dangerous."

FOR SPECULATORS.

"What chance has a 'lamb' in the stock market? He hasn't much, according to Edward Sherwood Meade, who is conducting the financial department in Lippincott's Magazine. In the September issue Dr. Meade explains the ins and outs of stock speculation, and just why those who speculate on margin are almost certain to lose.

"A broker once told me that there was one rule which he would give, if he dared, to his customers to guide them in selecting stocks for trading purposes: "Take a piece of chewing-gum. Reduce it to an adhesive condition, mould it into a form convenient for throwing. Throw it at the board. Buy or sell the stock indicated by the spot on the board to which it adheres. Go to Europe for three months." By following this advice, he said, the customer would have a chance—not much of a chance, it is but some chance. If, however, he reads the financial page of the newspaper, and listens to the gossip in the brokers' offices, he has not even the gamblers' chance, since he will be doing exactly what the powers back of the market want him to do in order that they may as quickly as possible get his principal before it is exhausted by the constant nibbling of the broker.

"A well to do man showed his ingenuite bride a check for $1800. 'Do you see this check now with this I'm going to buy sugar. Sugar is going up, and I'll give you the profits. Sugar went down and he lost the $1800. The lady asked for an accounting. 'My dear, sugar went down. The money is lost.' 'And you haven't even any sugar?' she asked plaintively. 'Not even any sugar?'"

"It will be well for the American people if the present dullness in brokerage circles in so far as this dullness represents increasing knowledge of the pitfalls of margin speculation, shall continue. As a means of making money it is useless. As a means to loss and ruin it has no rivals. With the large number of sound investments constantly offered by banking houses to the public, on terms which offer a reasonable chance of increasing value, together with security of principal and income it should no longer be necessary for men and women to put their savings into margins."

SPY LAW NOT EFFECTIVE.

Washington.—Despite the recent passage of a law making spying on the United States military reservations a criminal offense with heavy punishment in time of peace, it is still easy for foreign governments to obtain information about the defenses of the United States, in the opinion of officers of the General Staff of the army at the War Department.

Though visitors are not permitted to take cameras into fortified places maintained by the United States, the officers declare it is an easy matter for any man, familiar with coast defenses, to visit a fort and without taking a written note, to gather enough material in half an hour to enable him to chart completely the position of the guns, their number, size, range and effectiveness. There is no way of making this impossible without sealing up all the forts which is of course obviously impossible.

Despite this, however, there have been many instances of deliberate attempts at spying which seem to justify the passage of the recent law. One example occurred in New York, where a man arrested for a minor offense was found to have a trunk filled with military maps and information which convinced army officers he was in the pay of a foreign government.

Less than a year ago, an enlisted man in the Philippines, who was used as the official photographer for the army in the Islands, was offered $25,000 for a set of photographs of the defenses of Corregidor Island. The defenses at this place are the most modern and the most elaborate of any ever constructed by this country, and especial precautions have been taken to keep the details secret. The enlisted man pretended to accept the offer, and thus led the would-be purchasers of American military secrets into a trap. They were caught but by habeas corpus proceedings, as the incident occurred before the new law was enacted, were able to escape.

A waiter in Seattle, not long ago, was found to be a foreign officer in disguise, while an American ambassador in a foreign country notified the State Department a few months ago that a certain captain of a foreign army had been detailed to spend three years in the United States, making secret studies of our defenses.

The most startling instance was when an Englishman picked up a small package on the streets of Calcutta, and discovered that it contained blueprints showing every detail of the fortifications at Corregidor. No clue was ever found to the identity of the man who had lost them, and the War Department is still in complete ignorance as to how the prints were obtained.

RAILWAYS CUT FORCE $1,870.

They Save $94,000,000 a Year by Recent Reduction of Workers.

Chicago.—Following a plan of retrenchment, railroads of the country in the last year have laid off $1,870 men, effecting a net annual saving in operating expenses of $94,000,000, according to a report made public today.

This method of economy in operation has been adopted by 60 per cent of all the railroads and is rapidly spreading to the remaining lines.

The decrease in expenditures and maintenance is said to be the result of the action of the interstate commerce commission, which refused to allow the roads to put into effect a general increase of freight rates. The largest reductions in the forces are found among the trackmen, shopmen and miscellaneous employes.

The report containing these figures may, it is said, have an important bearing on the widespread unrest existing in the ranks of the shopmen on the Harriman lines.
