SPOKANE MEN BUY UMATILLA LANDS

(Special Correspondence.)
Hermiston, Ore., Sept. 20.—The real estate and business men of Spokane are becoming greatly interested in the lands on the Umatilla government project. This is demonstrated by the fact that every week brings several people of that city to Hermiston, and nearly every one seems to be greatly surprised at the development that has taken place.

Among the prominent visitors who have been here lately from Spokane are Mr. Hughes, president of the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Spokane.

Mr. Hughes states that he is greatly surprised and pleased to note the development of the Umatilla project. Among those of Spokane who have already purchased lands under the project are: C. A. Bergman, 40 acres; F. L. Barland, who is connected with the Spokanan Review, 10 acres; T. R. Joyce, proprietor of the Soap Land sanitarium, 80 acres; E. R. Ward, real estate man of Spokane, 20 acres; Charles Downer, 80 acres, four miles north of town; A. C. Remle, of the Curtis Remle company, 40 acres of orchard land close to town and S. Bassett, attorney, 100 acres.

Most of these sales have been made by the company of which Mr. William H. Skinner of Hermiston is the head. Mr. Skinner was one of the first men to come and settle on the lands which are now under the government project. He came before the government put in the project system and now has some of the finest land under the project, all being irrigated by the project system.

WINTER SHORT COURSE.

O. A. C. Registrar Issues Statement Regarding Work Planned for Farmers.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., Sept. 20.—The winter short course at the Oregon Agricultural College, which begins Jan. 3, is announced in a leaflet just issued by H. M. Tennant, the registrar.

"Upon the farms and in the homes of this state are thousands of young people who are to become the farmers, gardeners, stockmen, orchardists, housekeepers and home-makers of the future," says Mr. Tennant. "To keep pace with the rapid development in the science, art, and practice of agriculture and home-making, and thus be enabled to attain the highest possible success in these fields of endeavor, one should obtain as much special training as possible. Many of these young people, however, are so situated that it is impossible for them to attend any of the regular four-year courses in these subjects.

"There are also many mature farmers and housewives well past the usual school age who desire to acquaint themselves more fully with the most recent development in their respective lines of labor. To meet the demands of such persons, both young and old, the college each year devotes much time and attention to the development of special winter courses, which are so planned as to give in the shortest possible time the greatest amount of practical working knowledge."

FIGHTS SHARKS FIVE HOURS.

Seaman Picked Up 200 Miles From Land, Covered With Wounds.

Galveston.—The British steamship Nollecent, Captain R. Young, brings a thrilling story of the rescue of a Danish seaman, Andy Anderson, who was found afloat 200 miles from land off St. Vincent after a five hours' fight with sharks and other fish.

Anderson was a fireman on the British steamship Milton, bound for St. Vincent. About 4 o'clock in the morning when just going on watch a lurch of the vessel threw him into the sea and the ship went on. He carried his knife with him and hitting the water shed his clothes and prepared to keep afloat as long as possible.

He was not long in the water until he was attacked by fish and every few minutes he had to fight sharks, but he kept above water for five hours (ill the lookout on the Nollecent sighted him.

Anderson is a muscular man, 32 years old and an expert swimmer, being able to swim with both feet tied and one arm pinioned or with both hands tied and both feet bound. He said he found no trouble keeping afloat, but fighting the fish was another game. He was covered with wounds.

PASTOR ASKS FOR CURSES.

Cincinnati Minister Says He Goes to Theatres for Pleasure.

Cincinnati, O.—"I go to theatres—now curse me if you want to. I will even go further than that—I go where I please, into saloons and amusement places—so curse me if you wish. My trips to saloons and amusement places have been in an effort to clean up these places. My trips to the theatre have been for my own entertainment and I have had it."

This is the statement made by the Reverend Doctor Benjamin Hypes, pastor of the Riverside Methodist church, in giving his congregation a good turning over because they objected to some of the places he went to.

"The most evil thing in the world is the street trader of character," he said. "Thank God I have spent my last day in this church and am going to ask for another assignment in Cincinnati."

Check a cough or cold in the lungs before it develops a serious case. BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP is an effective remedy for all soreness or congestion in the lungs or air passages. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by A. C. Koeppen & Bros.

CARDUI WORKED LIKE A CHARM

After Operation Failed to Help, Cardui Worked Like a Charm.

Jonesville, S. C.—"I suffered with womanly trouble," writes Mrs. J. S. Kendrick, in a letter from this place, "and at times, I could not bear to stand on my feet. The doctor said I would never be any better, and that I would have to have an operation, or I would have a cancer.

I went to the hospital, and they operated on me, but I got no better. They said medicines would do me no good, and I thought I would have to die.

At last I tried Cardui, and began to improve, so I continued using it. Now, I am well, and can do my own work. I don't feel any pain.

Cardui worked like a charm."

There must be merit in this purely vegetable, tonic remedy, for woman—Cardui—for it has been in successful use for more than 50 years, for the treatment of womanly weakness and disease.

Please try it, for your troubles.

PRINCESS LOUISE TAKES DRINK WITH CABBY.

Daughter of Leopold Rewards "Cocher" Who Restored Documents.

Paris.—Veritable characters, the Paris cabbies, though sometimes respectful, are often inclined to be a little too familiar. Here is an example which will interest you:

M. G. De Maziere wished to visit a sick friend in the Avenue Hoche, but when he told the "cocher" to drive him there, the man shook his head and replied that it was only a waste of time as "there was no one in Paris."

"I tell you there's no one left at the top of the Avenue Hoche," he repeated. "All the houses are closed in this hot weather."

M. Maziere insisted and they went to the Avenue Hoche. But the driver was right. The sick man had got better and was off to the seaside. The cabbie smiled as M. Maziere got back into the cab and then he remarked:

"Why don't you go for a drive in the Bois De Boulogne?"

"There's no one there either but it is not as hot as in the avenue."

Without waiting for an answer he drove to the Bois and while on their way a victoria passed them. Instantly he leaped to his feet and shouting, "It's she, it's she," whipped his horse to a gallop with the evident intention of overtaking the carriage in which a distinguished looking woman elegantly gowned was seated.

"What do you mean?" asked his passenger, angrily. "Have you lost your senses?"

Attracted by the outcries the woman turned. She smiled amably and said:

"Bon jour, Germain."

"Bon jour, Mademoiselle," replied the "cocher" and the two engaged in a long and familiar conversation of which M. Maziere understood not a word. As they parted the woman still smiling said:

"And you understand, Germain; one more thanks."

The cocher gave her a profound salute, held in his horse until the victoria had got well ahead and then turning to his fare said:

"She's not proud if she is a highness, and she's got millions. You saw her, eh?"

"I should think I did. And what does it all mean?"

"Why, that's the Princess Louise of Belgium. One day she left a packet of papers in my cab. They were connected with a lawsuit, and had written on them the 'procureur royal.' I took them back to her and she was generous in her reward. Moreover, she gave me a drink; and you can believe me if you like, but she drank with me. Ever since, when we meet, as you see, we always stop and have a chat."

No Need to Stop Work.

When your doctor orders you to stop work, it staggers you. "I can't," you say. You know you are weak, run down and falling in health, day by day, but you must work as long as you can stand. What you need is Electric Bitters to give tone, strength and vigor to your system, to prevent breakdown and build you up. Don't be weak, sickly or ailing when Electric Bitters will benefit you from the first dose. Thousands bless them for their glorious health and strength. Try them. Every bottle is guaranteed to satisfy. Only 50c at Koeppens.

IN POUND.

The following described animal has been taken up by the Marshal of the city of Pendleton, Iowa:

One three-year-old black Jersey heifer, branded N on right leg; JP on right stifle and swallow fork in left ear.

If said animal is not claimed by the owners or those entitled to possession of them, costs and expenses against them paid and they taken away within ten days from the date hereof, then at 2 o'clock p. m. of the 23rd day of Sept., 1911, the said animal will be sold to the highest bidder at public auction, for cash, at the City Pound in the Oregon Feed Yard, in said city of Pendleton, the proceeds of such sale to be applied to the payment of such costs and expenses of making sale.

Dated this 18th day of Sept., 1911.
TOM GURDANE,
City Marshal.

Horse Falls on Starbuck Man.
Walla Walla, Wash.—Roy Horden, a blacksmith, was brought to this city from Starbuck, Wash., where a horse fell on him while he was trying to shoe it, severely injuring his head and bruising his body. He was taken to the St. Mary's hospital.

Human Bones in Ashes.
Wallace, Idaho.—The list of victims of last fall's forest fires in this district was added to when a pile of bones, a blackened watch and a few other valuables were discovered near Herriek, Idaho. The number of dead is now 76.

Flames in Davenport Home.
Davenport, Wash.—Fire set to a bundle of papers in the parlor stove worked through the flue to the wall.

Catarrh Sufferers

If You Don't Know About Hyomei Try it at Tallman & Co.'s Risk.

Nearly every reader of the East Oregonian has read about HYOMEI, but many of them continue to suffer from catarrh just because they do not exactly understand just what Hyomei is.

To these sufferers Tallman & Co. says you don't have to know anything about HYOMEI except that you breathe it and that it does not contain cocaine or opium or any harmful drug.

You can find out all about HYOMEI without taking any chances whatever. Just get an outfit today, read the simple instructions, give it a fair trial and then if you are not willing to say that it is the best remedy for catarrh you have ever used Tallman & Co. will gladly return your money.

A complete HYOMEI outfit costs but $1.00. Extra bottles 50 cents.

paper and before the occupants were aware of the blaze the interior of the house, owned and occupied by Dan Delin, a tailor, was enveloped. Prompt work by the fire department saved the walls, but all the furniture except a bed and sewing machine was destroyed at a loss of $400.

Mohler Man Flies Aeroplane.
Mohler, Wash.—Reuben Bowers gave an exhibition of his aeroplane. He made several successful flights and then met with an accident. He was flying about twenty feet above the ground when he lost control of the aeroplane and fell. Mr. Bowers escaped with slight injury, but the aeroplane was wrecked.

One Injured in Auto Accident.
Milton, Ore.—While enroute from Pendleton to Walla Walla an automobile belonging to W. S. Offner of Walla Walla turned turtle at a sharp turn in the road, throwing the occupants to the ground. All escaped injury except Mrs. Joe Moore, sister of Mrs. Offner. She was brought to Milton and found suffering from a wrenched back.

Huge Bear Seen in Seattle.

Seattle.—A huge black bear, which West sliders say "looks as big as a taxi cab" has been ravaging the improvised refrigerators and living high on 40-cent butter and certified milk at the homes near Thirty-fifth avenue southwest and Webster street. A number of embattled West sliders organized a hunting party yesterday and scoured the forest between Fauntleroy park and the Dawamish river without success. The bear hunters sallied forth again today with the same result.

Find Two Great Glaciers.

Edmonton, Alberta.—After two months spent in the Rockies, Dr. W. Collie and A. L. Mumm of London returned to Edmonton. Their explorations led them into hitherto untraveled regions northwest of Mount Robinson. They found two great glaciers, as large or larger than any known to exist in the Rockies, and sighted a peak apparently higher than Mount Robinson.

Many sufferers from nasal catarrh say they got splendid results by using an atomizer. For their benefit we prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Except that it is liquid it is in all respects like the healing, helpful pain-allaying Cream Balm that the public has been familiar with for years. No cocaine nor other dangerous drug in it. The soothing spray is a remedy that relieves at once. All druggists, 75c, including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

PRINCESS IS STILL FREE.

Kaiser Wilhelm's Only Daughter Not Yet Betrothed.
Berlin.—It seems rather hard to get the Kaiser's only daughter, Princess Louise, suitably engaged, and it almost seems as if there is no proper prince left but the young Prince of Wales, whom Princess Louise herself at present refuses to consider at all, maintaining that he is nothing but "a nice kid, but too much of a mother's boy."

Recently Princess Louise was reported to be as good as engaged to the heir to the throne of Mecklenburg-Sterlitz. The story was started by a Munich artist who was employed by the grand duke to make plans for new decorations for the palace at Sterlitz; but the official press promptly denied it. That match would not be a very suitable one, for Prince Adolph Frederick is ten years the princess' senior.

It would not be impossible for the princess to marry someone who never can succeed to a throne, although only one Hohenzollern princess has ever done so. (Prince Anton Radzwill married a Hohenzollern, although he had no throne.)

The family rule of the Hohenzollerns runs: "No daughter of a Hohenzollern shall contract an alliance which shall appear likely to discredit the house or do injury to the kingdom." This simply bars misalliances such as Princess Analle, the sister of Frederick the Great, desired to contract with Baron Trenck. Of Emperor William's own marriage Bismark

CORVALLIS HIGH TO TEACH BUSINESS

Cove Graduate of O. A. C. Appointed to Install New Department This Week.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore.—The new department of business instruction in the Corvallis high school is to be installed by Miss Violet Hancock of Cove, Union county, a graduate of the commerce department at O. A. C., in the class of '09. Miss Hancock has, since graduation held the position of secretary to the department of horticulture, a responsible position which she leaves this week to commence her instructional work. She will be succeeded by Miss Katharine M. Allen of Albany.

A Dreadful Sight

to H. J. Barnum of Freewill, N. Y., was the fever sore that had plagued his life for years in spite of many remedies he tried. At last he used Buckle's Arnica Salve and wrote: "It has entirely healed with scarcely a scar left." Heals, burns, boils, eczema, cuts, bruises, swellings, corns and piles like magic. Only 25c at Koeppens.
