AT THE OREGON THEATRE

"The Sunny Side of Broadway."
 What promises to be one of the best attractions to visit our city this season will be that nifty song show, "The Sunny Side of Broadway," which will appear at the Oregon theatre Sept. 22nd, headed by that clever comedian, Max Bloom, with an all-star supporting company of principals and the youngest and gingeriest bevy of show girls that have ever played this city. The comedy should be an immediate hit from start to finish. Manager Boyle Woolfolk has spent a small fortune in mounting the production and dressing the performers. The wardrobe of this company will be a revelation to local theatre goers. Women especially will see gowns that will cause many a heart to flutter. Madam Bloodgood of New York designed the costumes for this play as well as for many of the big companies that will be sent on tour this season. Among the many song hits that are interspersed throughout the play are "Oh Mr. Moon, You're Full Tonight," "When It's Raining," "Love is Very Foolish," "I'm a Devil," "Beware of the Garden of Love," "My New Motor Boat," "Selling Papers," "Every Town Has a Broadway," and the talk of the country, "The Paza Plant." This song, which bids fair to be one of the season's successes, shows a tree that instead of fruit bears miscellaneous collections of everything from an old shoe to an air ship. The song is introduced by Max Bloom, assisted by his bevy of dancing Ponies. Curtain will rise at 9 o'clock sharp.

for delivery to her creditors, Mrs. Douglas Cone, heir to the old home place of the great Joseph Spencever Cone ranch that once embraced 100,000 acres, will keep the famous old homestead in the family.
 When the money reached town it was transferred to wagons and hauled through the streets under heavy guard to the bank vaults. The transfer was accomplished so quickly that few realized anything unusual was happening.
 The identity of her new creditors has not been disclosed. Mrs. Cone's effort to raise the money to redeem her stock has been watched with keen interest and sympathy by the entire Tehama county, especially by old settlers.

DESERITS TEEPEE FOR SHOW.

Wild West "Broncho Buster" Formerly Papoose Near Red Wing.
 Red Wing, Minn.—To desert the tepee, the paddle and the canoe on the banks of the Mississippi, on Prairie Island, to lead the life of a cowboy on the plains of old Santeet in Nebraska, and the far west and become the recognized champion broncho buster of the world and appear in the brilliant headlines of Wild West shows, is the unusual career of Harry Lucas, who, as a papoose, was carried in a shawl on the backs of old Aunt Susan and Indian Mary about the streets of Red Wing.

He visited Red Wing on a flying trip from Duluth to Prairie Du Chien, where he will join a Wild West show and give his performance.
 He did not mingle with the Sioux Indians on the island. He was here on a business mission. He was looking after his interest in the allotments allowed by the government under the 1885 act of congress to the Sioux band.

As a son of Samuel Lucas, one of the original Red Wing band of Indians, the sum of $502.95 was due him. The final settlement has not been made, but the broncho buster thought it best to seek legal advice in order that his claim would not be overlooked.
