

AT THE PICTURE SHOWS

Orpheum.
Extraordinary feature production by the Edison Co. in two reels for Friday and Saturday.

1. "The Three Musketeers," Part I. Edison. This sumptuously mounted production is taken from Alexander Dumas' famous story of the time of Louis XIII of France, showing the celebrated Three Musketeers and their dashing young comrade, D'Artagnan.

2. "The Three Musketeers," Part II. D'Artagnan, the famous young musketeer, is entrusted by the Queen's attendant, with whom he is in love, on a confidential mission. Though many perils he is successful. The whole story is full of adventure and is splendidly presented.

3. "When Two Hearts are Won," Kalem. Featuring Mr. Sidney Drew in the part he has made famous on two continents. Alcibiades Shamley marries Cassandra, a beautiful girl with a temper and a determination to have her own way with things in general, also she is devoted to a pet dog of diminutive proportions, called Cara. After the wedding the pup is prepared for the bridal tour with great ceremony, but the rules of the Pullman car company forbid dogs being carried on their coaches, so the Shamleys are put off the train. They can not get accommodations at the hotel because of the rule against dogs, but they manage to find a resting place in the railroad hotel by bribing the clerk. Here the pup makes trouble by chewing up the maid's hat. During these events Alcy has been getting telegrams from his wife's folks warning him against her violent temper, the last one being from Uncle David, which advises Alcy to give her some of her own medicine. So he takes Uncle David's advice and starts in to mix things up on the pretense that the pup has swallowed his collar button. By the time he has wrecked the place Cassandra is completely subdued and asks his forgiveness.

4. "There's a Woman in Town," Here is a good comedy by the American Pathé Co., with the scenes laid in the West. It is extremely well acted, fresh and amusing. A charming young lady arrives in town and all the cowboys fall in love with her. One cowboy steals a march on the others with the result that the rest propose marriage in a joint note. Just what the outcome is of this affair is too funny to be spoiled by telling beforehand.

5. "A Hippopotamus Hunt," Pathe. Showing a series of fascinating views of a good hunt.

6. "The Pastime." Only the best in motion pictures shown here. For Friday and Saturday.

"Spike Shannon's Last Fight," Es-sary. The chief interest in this film is a four round boxing bout, which seems not posed, but the real thing. A love story, and the fact that Spike entered the ring to get money to pay for an operation for his sick wife give it heart interest, but the mill is the thing. Spike wins and he leaves the ring never to enter it again. If you want a thrill witness the battle in the ring, and don't forget that this is one of the best attractions in months.

"A Gay Time in Washington," Lubin. Mrs. Clayton is delighted. Her George is to dine with President Taft. George goes off in high glee, and he and his pal proceed to do Washington as it should be done. But Taft isn't in Washington and Mrs. Clayton finds it out—"duped!" Oh, George.

"Charley Has a Manuscript to Sell," Eclair. Many amusing incidents follow in rapid succession through this picture. A rattling good comedy.

"Teddy's Three Duels," Pathe. There is a wealth of real comedy throughout this story and many ridiculous situations are revealed. Extra fine comedy.

"Soul-Mate is Discharged," Frederick Noble Told His Services Are No Longer Required. New York.—That Mrs. Grundy lays a relentless hand upon those who refuse to recognize her code of ethics was brought home sharply to young Frederick Noble, "protector" and soul-mate of Mrs. Walter L. Suydam, Jr., when his employers notified him that he was out of a job.

A few days ago the boy eloper had figured that by a little pinching and squeezing he could support the runaway wife of the Blue Point millionaire in comparative comfort. Today the props of his hopeful computations were knocked out from under him. The heads of the Boston manufacturing firm that employed him sent word that his services were no longer required. He received this ultimatum after he had admitted the elopement and that his love was so overpowering that he could not bring himself to break the affinity bonds that had drawn him and Mrs. Suydam together.

This second severe reminder of the existence of Mrs. Grundy followed a swiftly upon the heels of the first jolt received when Landlord Serviss of the Regina apartments notified the couple on Saturday that they would have to vacate their three-room flat.

After much pleading Mrs. Suydam prevailed upon Mr. Serviss to permit her to maintain the flat by herself. Fred would get a room somewhere in Brooklyn, possibly at his father's home. The tears and pleadings of the young woman prevailed and her boy-companion packed his little grip and hastened across the bridge.

There was a rumor that he had gone to stay and that the romance had come to an unhappy end. He disproved this gossip today when he turned up at the little apartment on West Twelfth street, his features long with gloom, to tell Mrs. Suydam the sad news to how he lost his job.

Sizing up their fortunes at the time of taking present invoice, young Noble and his affinity admitted that their love would be tested to the limit within the next few weeks.

"But," they announced, "we are going to stick it out."

Attempt to Save Cat Causes Death. Detroit.—An attempt to rescue a pet cat from a bucket of boiling catsup resulted in the death of John Baralla, three and one half year old son of Martel Baralla. The accident happened while Mrs. Baralla was pouring a quantity of hot catsup from the stove into a bucket on the floor. A kitten fell into the bucket and in trying to pull it out the child was scalded about the head and arms. Fatal convulsions developed.

wait 'til you get home. It's rich. Do not miss it!

"The Little Cripple," Kalem. A story of settlement work among the poor. An educational subject that will interest and enlighten all those who have at heart the well being of the unfortunate. This story represents parents objecting to sending their crippled child to a hospital for treatment, but being persuaded to do so are overjoyed at her recovery. The story is well told and the happiness of the family after its reunion is almost contagious. It seems to affect the whole audience. Everyone wants to share in it.

"Sir John Falstaff," Eclair. Action as shown in the film. Scene I—At the wedding of Miss Anna Page, Falstaff is attracted by the wealth of Mrs. Page and Mrs. Ford. II—He covets their fortunes and pretends to love both of them. III—He sends a letter to each lady. IV—They agree to punish him by encouraging his suit. V—He visits Mrs. Ford and is forced to hide in a laundry basket. VI—The basket is thrown in the river. VII—Before the inn. IX—The Ford home. X—Finale.

COSY.
Extra Fine Bill at the Cosy for Friday and Saturday.

That all question of what constitutes good entertainment is answered to the complete satisfaction of all who attended the Cosy motion picture show to witness the new bill this afternoon. First and foremost is the beautiful picture play.

"Won by Wireless," Thanhouser. Is a story of the "wireless" that is accurate and true where everything is real from the clicking of the key to the flashing of the transmitting coil.

Likely there has never been another Thanhouser story that carried so much thrill as this does from the time the wealthy broker and his daughter set foot on the schemer's yacht until the police boat arrives with rescuers the reel is a constant round of excitement. When the police tug, summoned by wireless by the plucky daughter, finally overtakes the runaway yacht, a sharp climax is reached and you will feel very happy over the outcome.

"Tony Would Be a Cowboy," Champ. A western comedy of the Tony Series, showing the most laughable pranks, facial expressions and actions of dime novel reading. This comedy is calculated to crack a laugh from an Egyptian mummy.

"The Gun," Bison. Sensational riding. Eluding the posse galloping madly on his trail the bandit seeks refuge in the cabin of Bates & Connelly. Connelly steps out side to wash his hands and Bates enters and is covered by the bandit's gun. Connelly looking through the window takes in the situation. Entering from behind him he grabs a shotgun and orders the bandit to throw up his hands. The latter complies. Bates then goes for the sheriff, who rides back and takes charge of the bandit. After all is over Connelly breaks open the gun and finds it empty. They then realize what a close call they had and the humor of the situation causes them to break into laughter.

"Charley Has a Manuscript to Sell," Eclair. Many amusing incidents follow in rapid succession through this picture. A rattling good comedy.

"Teddy's Three Duels," Pathe. There is a wealth of real comedy throughout this story and many ridiculous situations are revealed. Extra fine comedy.

E. N. Wheeler, one of the eastern representatives of the Orchard company of which Dr. Henry Coe is president, has returned from a campaign in Ohio and reports good work. He says many Ohio people will locate here during the fall and winter.

Otis Sprague one of the Maxwell Land and Irrigation company's eastern representatives will return to Indiana the first of the week.

The stock of the Project Durg company is arriving daily and is being put on display. Dr. Monkman says that he will have everything ready to open Saturday. This company will have one of the neatest stores in Umatilla county.

C. E. Wood and family have arrived from Boon, Iowa. They are the owners of a tract of land and come here for the purpose of improving same as well as looking after some of the other Iowa people's land.

H. R. Newport is spending most of his time superintending the work on the asylum contract recently obtained by the Newport Land and Construction company.

E. P. Deod has returned from Pendleton where he has been for the past ten days looking after business interests as well as taking in the Round-Ups.

Members of the board of directors of the Hermiston Commercial club will hold a luncheon at the Hotel Hermiston today for the purpose of discussing plans for fall work.

NO CLOTHING FOR 61 YEARS.
Mountaineer is Thoroughly Happy in Nature's Garb.
Savannah, Ga.—Word comes via the North Georgia mountains of a strange man named John Castellow, who has grown to be 61 years of age, hale, hearty and happy, without ever wearing a stitch of clothing and without ever using a single word but the monosyllable "Gee!" Says a traveler from Harris, describing the marvelous person:

"He lives four miles east of Windsor, in Bertie county, North Carolina, and his health is perfect. He has not missed a meal in fifty years."

"When I visited him he was entirely nude. He is the strongest man I ever saw. His body is normal and well shaped, but his strength is prodigious. He can break a double plowline as easily as if it were a cotton cord. He is gentle and has never been known to hurt a living soul intentionally. He cannot speak a word except the one monosyllable 'Gee,' which he uses in various intonations to express all his desires and emotions."

PERU ORDERS 7 SUBMARINES.
American Shipbuilders Get Contract Through "Dollar Diplomacy."
Washington, D. C.—Another victory for the policy of "dollar diplomacy" now being followed by the state department was made known when it was announced that the government of Peru had placed an order for seven submarine boats for her Navy with an American shipbuilding concern. In placing her order in the United States Peru has followed the lead of Argentina which country now has
