

AT THE PICTURE SHOWS

Orpheum.
Program of interest for Friday and Saturday.

1. "The Prince and the Pumps." Vitagraph. A bright, dazling comedy, wherein a young fellow steals a young lady's pump, and has a hard time to find the owner. History repeats itself. The "Prince Charming" of our dear old fairyland days reappears and lives in this twentieth century. It is funny and amusing—we might say a blessing—that human nature retains its ideals and life its fancies.

2. "The Call of the Wilderness." Melles. A wealthy young Londoner, tired of city life, journeyed to Colorado, married a pretty Indian girl and had settled down to a peaceful western life when word reached him to return at once to London to claim an estate. He went alone, and tried the society life, but the yearning for the woods was too great. He heard the call of his little bride and returned, but too late. A broken heart had been given eternal rest.

3. "Jimmie's Trick." Gaumont. The famous boy actor amuses the guests at his parents' home by feats of conjuring that mystify and amuse them greatly.

4. "An Oasis in the Sahara desert and the Village of Gabes, Tunisia." Gabes is an important village of Sud. Tunisia, in the Gulf of Gabes. It possesses a very good harbor and makes an important export of dates, the chief production of the oasis. This film shows the country, the plant, the Nomad Bedouins, their life and customs and how the dates are gathered.

"The Promoter." Kalem. A Plunge in high finance. A comedy in real life. Bertie and his boarding house friends furnish most of the fun in this breezy comedy. In it grim truth is seen peeping over humor's shoulder now and then.

remarkable interesting drama, rich in fine detail, splendidly played. It tells of the struggle of a young playwright against adversity and of his ultimate success. After having his manuscript rejected by different managers until he is in despair and falls in a faint on the street. It is then he is rescued by a young lady and her mother, who give him a room in their home. The daughter and the playwright fall in love and a few days later they read a personal in the paper advertising for Frank Richmond, author of "The Golden Age," whose play is to be produced. This story has a heart tug that pleases.

"The Cheyenne's Bride." American drama. There is an exciting race in this picture which will give many a thrill before it ends. There is enmity between the Sioux and the Cheyenne tribes and when a Cheyenne woman a Sioux maiden he is promptly taken prisoner and condemned to death, but he girl saves him. The girl's incensed father binds her on a horse and provides a horse for the Sioux brave and the Cheyenne. The race to save the girl is exciting.

"Mrs. Johns' Harem Skirt." Melles. Texas John and his wife were elected to the city she went shopping and wore back a "Harem Skirt." At home he remained and treated the boys. The mixup that took place on their meeting forms a clever comedy.

"The Local Bully." Melles. "Roaring B.B." was the terror of Black Bear Gulch, and everyone held him in fear until John Grey came to town and took the bully down a peg or two. It was a case of a westerner's brute strength overcome by an easterner's wit.

"Village Gossip." A strong portrayal of life as it is.

SCHLEY VINDICATED IN MAKING THE "LOOP"

Captain Under Cervera Says Brooklyn Prevented the Escape of the Spanish Ships.

New York.—The controversy following the battle of Santiago, which developed into a court of inquiry to consider charges that practically amounted to an accusation of cowardice against Admiral Schley, has been reopened by the publication of a history of the Spanish-American war from the pen of Admiral F. E. Chadwick, commander of the flagship New York under Admiral William T. Sampson, chief of staff at the time of the battle.

To settle the matter of charges of "reprehensible conduct," and other misdemeanors made against Commodore Schley, the court of inquiry was appointed, with Admiral Dewey at its head.

All during the inquiry the "loop" of the Brooklyn during the fight was made the most of by the naval cabal in Washington opposed to Commodore Schley, in an effort to show that at his command, his flagship, the Brooklyn, turned to run away and then thought better of it when in safer waters and the tide of battle had turned against the Spanish fleet.

The other charges, largely technical, were never seriously regarded by the public, but Rear Admiral Denham and Ramsay found a report unfavorable to Schley, which contained the following:

"The turn of the Brooklyn to starboard was made to avoid getting into dangerous proximity to the Spanish vessel. The turn was made toward the Texas and caused that vessel to stop and back its engines to avoid possible collision."

Now comes Admiral Chadwick, who was Commodore Sampson's chief aide, and by the documents drives home the impression that the "loop" by the Brooklyn, instead of being a discreditable fact, was, in fact, a brilliant and praiseworthy military maneuver, for which Commodore Schley and Captain Cook should have been given great praise.

AT THE OREGON THEATRE ATHENA LAND SOLD FOR FANCY PRICE

What the Walla Walla Union of Thursday, September 21, says of one of the best musical offerings of the season. This is good news to local theater goers, for this delightful musical comedy is booked for the Oregon theater Sunday night, October 1.

In "The Flower of the Ranch," Le Comte & Fleisher have sent out their best musical show of the year, as far as Walla Walla knows. The play last night was good, very good, and the audience was well pleased, and a good advertisement for tonight's performance.

The music of the play is nothing out of the ordinary, but it is catchy straight through, and it balances well. There are no particularly strong songs, but they are all good. "Just Say You Care," "In the Days of '45," "Watching the Blue Smoke Curl," "Worried," "Wishes," "The Pajama and the Nightie," were all excellent, and took well with the audience.

It is a western play, but it is a good one. It hinges about "Flower," a detectable little person otherwise known as Betty Caldwell, who is as clever as need be. "Jack Farnum" by Tom Arnold, is also good; and James Baber as "Bob Brandon," the sheriff, was well cast, singing his lone song in good style.

The choruses are without doubt the best that have been in Walla Walla this season, better than have been here in many moons. As far as beauty goes, the girls, big and little, were there. Their costumes were new and fresh their work snappy and fast; and the success of the show is due in no small measure to their work. Their singing is not to be forgotten in that summing up, either.

Many novelties are introduced, mainly about "Skivers," who is in ordinary street wear Jess Harris, a most capable comedian and whose laughs are put over in no uncertain style. He did his part well, and the comedy part was fully equal to the music.
