PRETTY GIRL WINS HEART OF OFFICER OF SHIP

Houston, Texas.—A romance, somewhat late in being announced, but a romance just the same, was culminated just prior to the sailing of the North German Lloyd steamship Hannover for Bremen. The parties concerned were a young lady who was one of the cabin passengers on the last trip and an officer of the ship, connected with the steward's department. The gentleman's name is John Schultz and the lady was Miss Minnie Schroeder. The lady left Germany with the avowed intention of going to relatives in Iowa but on the trip from Bremen to America the couple met, the acquaintance ripened into an attachment and finally when parting time came it was found that they both believed that a little home in Germany with the young lady presiding over it was better than beginning life in a strange country. The matter was taken up with the relatives in Iowa by letter and a telegram came granting approval and a blessing, consequently they were married and she returned to Germany as the wife of Mr. Schultz. The wedding was witnessed by ship officers and by immigration authorities the latter feature made necessary in order that the records of the voyage might have official sanction and approval.

AT THE PICTURE SHOWS

Orpheum.

Kalem feature film for Friday and Saturday.

1. On the War Path, or How Bobby Defended the Cabin From the Indians. (Kalem). James Newcomb and Jim Ward two old settlers seated in front of Newcomb's log cabin are discussing their fights with the Indians when the cabin was first built. Little Bobbie, Newcomb's nine-year old son listens with rapt attention. Going to the house and getting a gun he shows the old timers how he would defend the cabin from an Indian attack. The following day a half breed trapper brings word that the Indians have arisen during the absence of the troops. What household goods they can carry with the family are bundled into the prairie schooner and the team starts on the dead run for the nearest military post. Just as they are about to drive away Bobbie throws out a gun and unseen by the family drops to the ground in his determination to stay behind and defend the cabin. Shortly after the family have driven away the Indians appear. Little Bobbie opens fire and beats a hasty retreat. Safe at the fort the Newcombs discover Bobbie's absence. Dick Latrobe volunteers to go back for him and arrives in time to rescue Bobbie from a perilous situation. This is one of the most thrilling and interesting Indian stories ever portrayed.

2. The Hobo Cowboy. (Mellies). A story of gratitude. He was but a hobo, but with a heart as big as a barn. He proved popular with the cowboys and was made sheriff. How he showed gratitude to his benefactors is a beautiful dramatic story.

3. At the Break of Dawn. (Essanay). A sensational Mexican drama with a finish that will startle you. Don't try to guess—see for yourself.

4. The Cinematograph Fiend (Gaumont). This picture shows the troubles of a moving picture cameraman. The subject is full of laughs on account of the amazing situations into which the zeal of the camera man leads him.

5. A Mountain Torrent in Austria. (Gaumont). Showing the beautiful falls of Schwarzbach near Golling, in Austria.

The Pastime.

Where you see the best in motion pictures, Coping for Friday's change "Cherry Blossoms." (Vita-graph). There is nothing that appeals to the heart of the old and the young like a romance of this kind. It is so fragrant with cherry blossoms and spring-time that one feels that life is worth living after all. This is a love story of the 18-karat variety, in which cherry blossoms play a large part in the happy ending. The scenes include West Point, a Japanese garden with its romantic beauty, and the picture is a marvel of beauty and dramatic situations.

"A Western Girl's Sacrifice." (Essanay). The young man of this story breaks off a match with an eastern girl because he did not understand a joke and hurries west. There he meets with an accident and is taken to a woodcutter's cabin, where he falls in love with the daughter of the house.

Eventually they are married. The other girl hears of the accident and hurries west, only to find that the man is married. The Western girl sees the couple together and realizes that her husband's love is not hers. She takes her own life, begging the man to marry after she has gone.

"Giving the High Sign," or "The Woman Hater." (Kosmik). A great comedy in seven magnificent colored scenes. Learn the high sign. Your friends will ask about it. The setting of the story are interesting and artistic and the acting is good.

"African Sharpshooters." Typical scenes in and about the camp of the Tunisian army. The greater part of this film consists of a dancing festival in camp, the dances being of an extraordinary nature.

"The New Faith." (Selig). This is a story of a Roman noble, Claudius Valerius, who was converted to the Christian faith by one of his slave girls. The story is clean and well acted.

The Cozy.

For Wednesday and Thursday, two great western stories, a fairy tale and a bright comedy.

"A Daring Deed." Champion. An exciting railroad story, with the scenes laid in a lonely station out west. Carver the station agent, received a box full of gold, also a box containing a dead man, escorted by a quota of rough messengers. In the night Carver was astonished to see the dead man trying to get out of the box and realized that it was a plot to steal the gold. He carried crates and boxes and piled on the lid of the robbers box, then called the operator of a distant station, who mounted her horse and rushed to a dance hall for help. The rescue party arrived just as the robber's accomplices, the mourners, were breaking down the doors to aid him. The story ends happily.

"By the House That Jack Built." Imp. A delightful fairy story that takes us back to nursery days and old "Mother Goose." Purity, a little slave girl, was approached by an old hag and asked for food, which was given her and instantly she became a richly attired lady. Purity is told that Old King Cole wishes a wife for his son, the prince, and is taken to the court by her friend. Here she meets all the famous characters of "Nursery Land," and after many strange and wonderful adventures, marries the prince amid great pomp and splendor.

"The Stage Robbers of San Juan." American. After a successful hold-up, Slippery Jim quarreled with his partner, Tom, and left him in a rage. He saw a sign offering $1000 reward for the San Juan stage robbers and led the sheriff's posse to Slippery's hiding place, but the robber saw them coming and eluded them after being wounded. Tom, next day, found Slippery and forced him to ride to the sheriff's office. That night Slippery was rescued by his wife and they left for Mexico, while his treacherous partner was caught, later, in a robbery.

"Who Will Eat the Turkey." Itala. A comedy that is certainly funny, which introduces a well-trained little dog and is full of laughs.

GIRL JAILS TARDY SWAIN. Falsely Causes His Arrest So He Would Hurry Proposal of Marriage. Los Angeles.—Naively informing the court that she told the story which resulted in the imprisonment of her sweetheart for two months simply to hurry up a proposal of marriage which she knew was coming sometime, Helen Roberts, a Monrovia girl, obtained the release of Charles H. Thompson of Washington, D. C.

Thompson, who is 23 years old, has been in the county jail since last July, but he declared after his release that in spite of the peculiar treatment accorded him by the girl, he still loved her and that he probably would comply with her wish to marry her quickly.

Miss Roberts is 14 years of age. When she caused the arrest of Roberts she said she was only 12.

Years of Suffering

Catarrah and Blood Disease - Doctors Failed to Cure.

Miss Mabel P. Dawkins, 1214 Lafayette St., Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "For three years I was troubled with catarrah and blood disease. I tried several doctors and a dozen different remedies, but none of them did me any good. A friend told me of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took two bottles of this medicine and was as well and strong as ever. I feel like a different person and recommend Hood's to any one suffering from catarrah."
