THE DALLES JAILER ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

The Dalles, Ore.—John Beattie, keeper of the Wasco county jail here, is lying at the hospital in a very critical condition as the result of an attempt to commit suicide about 1 o'clock. Beattie has been drinking heavily and when he retired last night was under the influence of liquor. He sleeps in a room at the jail. The prisoners were awakened by two shots this morning, and their calls for help brought local police officers to the county jail, where Beattie was found in an unconscious condition. The first shot missed its mark, but the second entered the man's head just behind the right ear, cracking the skull. The man has a slight chance to recover.

Man Taken for Grouse, Shot.

Flames Destroy Hotel.

Murray, Idaho.—An early morning fire, presumably caused by an exploding lamp, destroyed the Lonsville hotel, this city's largest hostelry. A frame office belonging to County Commissioner John Murphy, which caught fire from sparks, also burned. The total loss is placed at $8,500, with $6000 insurance. Mr. Murphy's building was valued at $500.

Toppenish Home is Destroyed.

Toppenish, Wash.—Although every occupant of the building escaped without injury no property was saved from the John McKune rooming house, when it was totally destroyed by fire. When the occupants of the building awakened about 3:30 o'clock the interior of the 10-room building was ablaze from a fire of unknown origin.

Aged Indian Chief Dies.

Seattle.—Chief Wabalechu of the Squamish tribe of Indians, who was better known as Jacob Kitsap, and who was reputed to be more than 100 years old, died at his home on the Fort Madison reservation. Jacob Kitsap's great age is well authenticated. He was a middle-aged man when Seattle was founded 60 years ago and in 1854 at Mukilteo he signed a peace treaty with the whites. The aged man will be buried near Chief Seattle, at the Old Man House on Bainbridge Island.

Boy Falls Into Hot Water.

Moscow, Idaho.—Clever, the three-year-old son of Mrs. and Dr. K. W. Woodward of Troy, was accidentally scalded to death in a tub of boiling water. The child and its mother were visiting at the home of Mrs. Woodward's father, George Thorpe, of this city, who is absent in the east. Preparatory to washing, the tub of water was left on the floor and the boy was playing in the room. Stepping backward without noticing the tub he staggered and fell. Much of the skin came off with the clothing.

PUPILS REFUSE TO COUNT

Rebel When Teacher Demands Number of Words in Dictionary.

Chicago.—A Chicago high school teacher has stirred up a hornet's nest by demanding that fifty pupils in his English class report to him how many words there are in the latest edition of the most unabridged dictionary. The pupils tried to ascertain the knowledge from books of statistics, libraries and university professors, but failed. At an indignation meeting it was decided that the only way to answer the question was to count the words and this they decided to refuse to do.

Prof. D. P. Parham, who asked the question, admits he does not know the exact number himself, but said several authorities gave it about 400,000.

Berry Wall an Exile.

Paris.—Berry Wall, the one-time famous king of the dudes, is about to join the great and growing army of American expatriates. He has given orders to a house agent to find him an apartment in the fashionable quarter of the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne. His desire is to be in the mystic circle where Mrs. William Moore, Mrs. John Mackay, Mrs. John G. A. Leishmann, Mrs. Clinch Smith, Mrs. Grant, who is Lady Essen's mother, and other women of fashion have settled.

Berry will give up his place in Forty-fourth street, New York, which he has occupied for the past twelve years, and will make a hurried trip to New York to bring his furniture and household goods to Paris.

Mr. Wall's chief reason for joining the Hydes, Eddies and Vanderbilts and other expatriates in Paris is because he can indulge in his love of racing in the excellent sport provided here. He is a conspicuous figure at the race course every day and his only American rival in the way of regularity in attendance is Mrs. Charles Carroll, formerly Miss Susanne Bancroft. Though he will live permanently abroad, Mr. Wall, unlike William Waldorf Astor and Harris Phelps, will retain his American citizenship.
