BOILERS DID NOT WRECK THE MAINE Excavation Shows Them Practically Intact-Powder is Blown Far.

Washington,-At least one fact has leveloped beyond controversy in connection with the excavation going on inside the cofferdam inclosing the wreck of the Maine in Havana harbor. That is that the ship was not blown

Some persons have contended the resident of this city playing a part explosion of the boilers caused the magazine to explode in turn. But a report from the army engineers shows ney, has returned to Klamath Falls the workmen have uncovered the tops after a two months' absence, during of the boilers, which were intact with vened and the grand jury was called of one of the forward boilers, which one exception. It had some through the magazine. It had gone through a heavy bulkhead and against one of the other bollers.

Another curious find was an ammunition case which had been blown aft from the magazines into the rear boiler room without exploding the smokeless powder it contained.

The report shows that instead of being able to float only the after third of the hull it is possible that more than half of the ship can be pumped out and floated out of the dam. This will greatly reduce the work of removing the wreck from the
