Floods Again Devastate Yangtze Valley and Starving Thousands Add to Government's Troubles—Woo Sung Panic Stricken as Rebels Advance.

Peking, China, Oct. 15.—This afternoon rioting began in this city and it is expected that a general outbreak will occur at any time. The finances of the city are in a disastrous condition and the banks are greatly alarmed.

Peking, China, Oct. 16.—Fearful that the consideration that the Chinese rebels have shown for foreigners since the revolution started will change and foreigners be massacred by the rebels, all foreign consuls today sent out notices advising the foreigners to immediately leave all places where fighting is likely to occur between the government and republican forces.

A report from H'ankow states that all white inhabitants of that place have taken refuge on the various warships of foreign countries, which are anchored there.

So active have the rebels become during the last few hours that practically every province in the Chinese empire is in a state of panic.

Thirteen transport trains, loaded with government troops and supplies, left this city this morning. The destination of the expedition was not made public, but the trains contain 20,000 troops.

The Yangtze river country is again being devastated by heavy floods and thousands are reported to be starving in the province of Kaibau.

Shanghai, China, Oct. 16.—Surrounded by large forces of rebels on all sides, the populace of Woo Sung is today in the throes of a panic and expects that every moment will usher in an attack on the city which would mean its demoralization and much bloodshed with the invasion of the revolutionists.

Refugees who have reached this city from Woo Sung state that the rebels are building formidable breastworks at that place, in anticipation of an attack to be made by the government forces.

Fiftenth Day of Strike Sees Both Sides Standing Firm, With no Hope for Peaceable Settlement of Industrial Dispute in Sight.

Sacramento, Calif., Oct. 16.—J. G. Naylor, business agent of the International Association of Machinists, and other labor leaders who are directing the strike of the shopmen of the Harriman lines, today are taking steps to place before the Interstate Commerce Commission information, which they claim will prove that the Harriman system, on its western divisions, is violating the federal law, relative to the inspection of passenger trains.

Reports which have come to the union officials from all parts of California and Oregon, state that the passenger trains, since the strike commenced more than two weeks ago, have been allowed to go through division points, without being properly inspected as is required by the interstate commerce commission.

The railroad company denies that this is being done.

NOTED WHITE SLAVE SLEUTH GIVES STARTLING INFORMATION ON TRAFFIC

Startling revelations regarding the white slave traffic and the liquor traffic among Indians were made by George A. Miller, special officer in the Indian service of the department of the interior, who is here today to appear against Frank McSwain, accused of selling whiskey to a redskin. Mr. Miller has been in the Indian service for five years but during that time he has had furloughs amounting to eighteen months, during which times he was employed by the national immigration commission to secure evidence as to the extent of the white slave traffic. By his work in these two capacities, Mr. Miller has won for himself a national reputation and is one of the most feared detectives of the country.

It was in 1909 that he first secured a furlough from the Indian service to undertake an investigation for the national immigration commission. During the several months in which he engaged in this work he operated in all of the principal cities in the west and made discoveries regarding the organization and extent of the white slave traffic that were startling even to officials familiar with the lower world. He secured evidence against 67 different dealers in young girls before his furlough ended.

Before Rockefeller Grand Jury.
In 1910 he was again secured by the immigration commission from the Indian service and this time he worked in the east. After extensive investigation he announced to the world that all the cities in the United States, Seattle and New York were the worst hellholes of white slavery. It was this statement that led to him being subpoenaed before the Rockefeller grand jury in New York of which John D. Rockefeller, Jr. was foreman and the specific purpose of
