Orpheum. Excellent program for Sunday and Monday. 1. "A Friendly Marriage." Vitagraph. A breezy western girl marries an English lord, they decide upon "A Friendly Marriage," but soon fall madly in love with each other, and "All's Well That Ends Well," though there are misunderstandings that plague the interest before this happy ending is reached. This motion picture is filled with beautiful scenes and holds the attention from start to finish, both by the strong love motive and the charming setting, staging, etc. 2. "The Two Devotions." Essanay. This deeply religious film pictures the sacrifice made by two young people who dearly love each other, on account of religion. The acting is strong and well sustained, each of the principal characters interpreting their parts admirably. The film is certain to make a deep impression since its subject is unusual and the actors perform their parts sympathetically. 3. "The Hermit." Pathe. A man who is alone in the world loses all that he holds dear when his son dies. He leaves civilization and going to the wilds lives the life of a hermit. Near him are a man and his little family, who are prospecting for gold without success. One day the little daughter of the prospector wanders away and is found by the hermit, who takes her to his cave, feeds her and gives her a nugget from his store, for he has acquired wealth. The little girl later tells her father where she saw the gold and he robs the old man but is seen and followed. How the father is saved from disgrace by his little daughter is a most pleasing story. 4. "That Winsome Winnie Smile." Edison. The famous Winsome Winnie is introduced to the motion picture public for the first time on the screen and they will be charmed to make her acquaintance. Her smile conquers every one. 5. "No Cooking Allowed." Edison. A breezy farce of how two young girls evaded the rule of a heartless landlady and incidentally made a new and most desirable acquaintance. The Pastime. Always the best in motion pictures. For Tuesday's change of program: "The Missing Will." Vitagraph. Pictures of this kind please because they expose wrong and show right triumphant and love victorious. They prove that we all have an inherent sense of right and justice and a picture like this strengthens our appreciation of human and divine rights.

Go see this splendid production. It will do you good and make you feel better pleased with life and every thing will look brighter. This whole picture is finely acted. "Pathe's Weekly." A picture that is making the hit of the century all over the United States. Every element of interest is seen in this film. Among other things, it shows how we are making progress in getting to the "Maine," U. S. ship sunk in Havana; also a bull fight and a lively one; the Russian czar reviewing the student battalion; and in Constantinople the procession bearing the sultan's gifts to Mecca. A great oil well on fire in the Rothschild concessions at Baku Russia, threatens the entire plant, etc. It is a good number. "Crazy Dope." American comedy. A certain chemist, with a weird looking assistant, has discovered a series of elixirs which have the wonderful property of increasing a man's efficiency in the direction in which his natural abilities turn. An advertisement brings a number of clients. A musician, an artist, an actor and, finally a pugilist. This last gets cleaned out the entire shop, all but the assistant, who mixes all the elixirs and drinks them, the result is funny enough to make any audience laugh. It created a stir in New York. "Circus in Australia." A very clever film of a mighty good circus. "Quest of Gold." Vitagraph, 1909 feet. Hazardous and thrilling undertakings at the risk of life by men who penetrate the wilds of Alaska. The Cosy. For Monday and Tuesday, two beautifully told stories of the home, a fine Indian drama, and two comedies. Mr. E. L. Cooper, manager of the Cosy Amusement company, has just returned from a trip to Portland, where he went to arrange for a higher grade of moving pictures for the Cosy. He was very successful in his mission, having perfected arrangements for all of the feature films that will be released by the independent manufacturers. While the new service cost almost double what his previous services did, Mr. Cooper says that the people of Pendleton require a higher grade and better films than any other town in the state, and in order to give them the very best, he has disregarded expenses entirely. Among the feature films that he has arranged are "The Human Sacrifice," comprising two reels, "Romeo and Juliet" shown in two reels, and "The Crusaders," a $50,000 production in four reels. The many patrons of the Cosy theater will be delighted to learn of Mr. Cooper's success. We have not a more energetic citizen nor one who boosts more for Pendleton. "The City." Reliance. A beautifully told story of modern city life. George read in a paper that a big corporation needed several competent clerks, and leaving his wife and child till he should send for them, went to the city. But the newspaper article was a lie, and overcome with worry George fell sick and lost his memory. His wife came to the city to find him, and worked hard to support herself and child. Ten years later George now manager of a concern, became interested in his office boy and one day accompanied him home. Meeting his wife restored his memory and there was a happy reunion. "Lone Eagle's Trust." Powers. An Indian story that is "different." Lone Eagle wounded in battle is cared for by a rancher and remains on the ranch as a cowboy. The rancher's girl fell over a cliff, but caught a small tree and hung suspended over a deep canyon. Lone Eagle while rescuing her is shot by an enemy who in turn is shot by the rancher. But Lone Eagle was not badly hurt and was the hero of all the ranch country. "The Connecting Link." Eclair. A pretty child drama of unusual interest. The husband forgot his sick wife being lured away by another girl but the child's great love, coupled with wisdom, enables her to unite her parents in a novel way. "A Marriage in the Stars." Eclair. An amusing farce comedy skilfully portrayed by some of the leading Parisian actors, containing just enough comedy in the right place to give it a pleasant taste. The young folks had lots of trouble outwitting a cranky old daddy and his trials are entertaining and amusing. "An Obliging Young Man." Eclair. He was a genius at obliging. What he couldn't do, all in an instant wasn't worth speaking about. The favors performed are astonishing and lead to many complications. PIED PIPERS ARE AFTER A JOB. Marinette, Wis.—A Pied Piper of Hamelin has offered his services to rid the village of Florence, Wis., of its pest of skunks. Following the publication of a news item saying the village was overrun with the animals, the postmaster at Florence received the following letter: "Dear Sir:—I have seen an article in the Milwaukee papers tonight that you got so many skunks in Florence. If you will pay my R. R. Fare I will Come and Clean out the skunks for You. Robt. Mittelsteadt, Minoninee Falls, Wis." "Dear Sir: We saw in the Paper about the Skunks pest in Florence and as we are in the trapping business what what accommodation could you offer if we come and clean them out. J. Kerr & Heemings, Trappers, Pewaukee, Wis."

PASTOR ADVISES MAID AT 3 A. M.

LEADS GIRL TO PARK TO PREVENT SCANDAL

Early Morning Prowl of Parishoner Leads to Discovery of Lady and her Counselor and Resignation From Pastorate Soon Follows.

New York, Oct. 24.—If you wish to give counsel and advice to a young woman, don't lead her into the park at 3 o'clock in the morning to do so.

If you do lead a young woman into the park at 3 a. m. to give her helpful counsel and advice, be sure that no prying member of your congregation is following you.

If you are discovered by a member of your congregation giving advice and counsel to a young woman in the park at 3 a. m., don't tell the rest of the flock that it was because your wife was away from home and you were afraid to take her to your own abode because of fear of scandal.

All of this extraneous counsel and advice was brought forth as a result of the resignation of the Rev. E. B. Shaw as pastor of the Memorial Baptist church, sixth street and Eighth avenue, Brooklyn. The resignation was accepted a week ago, only because the pastor insisted on resigning. The cause of the resignation leaked out.

It appears that some member of Pastor Shaw's flock happened to be in Prospect park, Brooklyn, very late at night a few weeks ago and came suddenly upon Dr. Shaw and a young woman of his flock. The pastor evidently did not see his parishoner, who proceeded to diffuse the news of his adventure all through the parish.

Male members of the church volunteered to act as detectives and they say they trailed their pastor to Prospect park. The pastor was summoned to a meeting of the church officers and confronted with charges.

He is said to have admitted that he was in Prospect park with the young woman in the case, but insisted that his sole object was to give her counsel and advice. He took her to the park, he said, because his wife was not home, and he could not take her to his own home because of fear of scandal.

Pastor Shaw handed in his resignation.

APPLE GROWERS SELLING EXCHANGE SUPPORTED

Spokane Chamber of Commerce Offers Financial Backing.

Spokane, Wash.—Financial support and the fullest cooperation of its 1100 members has been pledged by the chamber of commerce of Spokane through its industrial committee, headed by Frank R. Culbertson, to the original incorporators of the Cooperative Central Selling exchange, to be composed of apple growers in the northwestern states. L. E. Meacham of Walla Walla, Wash., acting secretary for the temporary organization, has been engaged to carry on the work from headquarters in Spokane along the lines employed by growers of southern California in handling the orange crop.

"The policy of the organization will be directed with its promotion," said Mr. Culbertson, "and the managing committee probably will be composed of the first incorporators. It is planned to have everything in readiness to handle the crop of 1912. Officers of the chamber of commerce and the National Apple Show will assist in every way possible. However, the last named organization can not act officially beyond providing an occasion for the final conference and the launching of the exchange, some time during the week of November 23."

The movement was started at a meeting of growers of Washington, Idaho and Oregon, called for that purpose at Walla Walla last spring, and afterward was discussed by delegates from horticultural associations throughout the state of Washington at a meeting in North Yakima, when it was agreed that the essential points of the proposed organization were satisfactory to those interested. The delegates also recommended to the growers of the northwest that the organization be completed at the earliest possible date.

At the last meeting of the temporary organization it was suggested that, as Spokane is the geological, railroad and industrial center of the northwest, it be made headquarters for the exchange and a resolution was adopted inviting Spokane to assist in furthering the movement with the foregoing result.

WOMAN FREE IN MURDER CASE

Mrs. Althea Rush's Attorneys Refuse to Argue at Hampton, Iowa. Mason City, Iowa.—Mrs. Althea Rush, on trial in Hampton for the murder of her husband, was acquitted after a clever legal movement had been executed by her lawyers. Attorney Clock for the state made an opening statement, expecting that after the defendant's two attorneys had spoken Attorney Leggett would make the close. The defendant's attorneys waived their right, thus shutting off
