SCRIBES ARRIVE FOR BIG FEAST

EVERY TRAIN BRINGS THEM INTO THE CITY

Umatilla County Press Association Will be Formed at Banquet Tonight With Commercial Clubs and Development League.

With the advance guard already here and others bound for the city on the evening trains the newspapermen of Umatilla county are preparing to gather tonight for the purpose of forming a county press association and later in the evening to dine with the managers of the Commercial club and representatives of the commercial clubs of the county who are also to be here for a session of the county development league.

Francis R. Reeves, owner and editor of the Hermiston Herald and G. L. Ford, editor and manager of the Stanfield Standard, are the journalists already here. They came up on the motor car this morning and are enthusiastic over the idea of forming a county press association. Both men are also the development league representatives from their respective towns. J. P. Nell, of Freewater, also came down from the east end of the county this morning to represent the Freewater club at the league meeting and the Freewater Times at the press meeting.

Col. Fred Boyd of Athena, and Col. Clark Wood of Weston are to arrive on the 5 o'clock train from that direction as is also Bruce Shlange of Milton, Editor Castle of Echo and J. P. McManus of Pilot Rock are also expected by evening.

Visiting newspapermen and development league representatives are requested to be at the rooms of the Commercial club at 6 o'clock for the purpose of holding business meetings of the respective bodies. At 7:45 the visitors will be entertained at a banquet to be given at the Quells and at which the Commercial club managers will be the hosts.

Moving Pictures for Friends. Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—The American Federation of Labor today declares that its plans of exhibiting moving pictures to provide funds for the McNamara defense, is "humiliating but necessary." The pictures, portraying the arrest of the McNamaras, the courtroom scenes and views of their prison life, will be exhibited around the country by the federation.

All that is needed to have half or so of the supreme court decisions reversed is a higher appellate court. Why don't lawyers work for that?

Newsy Notes of Pendleton

Three Drunks Jailed.

Three more occupants were secured for the city jail last night when John Baker, D. R. Niles and Walter Lara were arrested for being drunk. They all took jail sentences this morning after pleading guilty before Judge Fitz Gerald.

Democratic Warhorse Here

Colonel Dunphy, well known attorney of Walla Walla and frequently mentioned as the next democratic candidate for governor of Washington, is in the city today, in connection with the injunction suit being tried in the local court.

Dog Goes to Jail.

Officer Kearney last night arrested a shepherd for being drunk and when he was taken to jail, his faithful shepherd dog refused to leave him. In sympathy the officer allowed the animal to go to jail with its master and apparently it is quite happy in its narrow confines.

Will Survey Hatchery Site.

Frank Hays will leave early in the morning with a crew of three men for Gibbon where he will survey the land wanted by the state fish and game commission as a hatchery site. The land has only been surveyed once and that very badly thirty years ago and as a result the commission has been experiencing difficulty in describing the land.

Paving Men Are Here.

Five representatives of the Warren Construction company, which is under contract to pave Alta, Cottonwood and Webb streets in this city, are here today to make preliminary arrangements for establishing their plant. They state that their plant will be here within a few days and that work will commence immediately on its arrival.

Insurance Men Here.

John Knight, manager of the Knights of Pythias insurance department for Oregon and E. B. Hawkins, manager for Washington, were guests of Damon lodge No. 4 at a social session and smoker last evening. Mr. Hawkins was formerly in charge of the insurance work in Oregon and has been here often in the past.

Hunters Get Four Deer.

George Beddows, Ed Hayes, H. E. Kramer and Jim Markham are back from a deer hunt in the Camas creek country and in token of their prowess the carcasses of four fine bucks are hanging in cold storage today. They report deer plentiful in the district where they hunted. One of the "young bucks" which they brought back had two bullet holes in one of its shoulders not two inches apart where Kramer and Hays shot it at the same time.

McComas Buys Indian Land.

E. W. McComas, the well known grain buyer, has just purchased eighty acres of Indian land about a mile southwest of Cayuse. A forty acre piece was secured from Mary Flush, formerly Ta-ma-e-light, and her husband, Charles Flush, for $1200 and the other forty was bought from Rosa Gilman formerly Rosa Lyman, formerly Ash-ta-noon, and her husband, Walter Gilman, for $1000. The deeds were placed on record today.

Assessor Loses Mustache.

C. P. Strain, county assessor and city councilman, is today minus the hirsute appendage which has adorned his upper lip for these many years. His friends stare at him in surprise and wonderment for his appearance indicates that he has found the fountain of eternal youth. The mayor and other councilmen believe that their colleague will be seriously handicapped in the future deliberations of the aldermanic body as it is a well known fact that Mr. Strain has always been accustomed to do his best arguing while twisting his mustache.

A Splendid Cotton Display.

The Peoples Warehouse has in one of its windows a display which is attracting considerable attention from the public. It consists of cotton in its various stages, on the plant, the raw material and the finished product. A large cotton plant was secured through Roy Buchanan, head of the ladies' department, from his former home in Texas and many people are thus afforded their first sight of the great southern product as it grows. About it are large rolls of cotton in its raw state ready to be made into cloth and draped along the sides and back are many bolts of cotton fabric ready to be made into garments.

To Ride Across State.

H. M. Averill, brother of Deputy Game Warden Averill, and Roy Moss, champion steer rider of the northwest, will leave in their racing horseback on a ride across the state. They will leave by way of Pilot Rock and head for Prineville, after which they will cross the mountains by way of Clater Lake and end up in Curry county in the extreme southwestern part of the state. Besides their mounts they will take two pack horses and expect to meet no difficulties in their journey. They believe they can cover the distance in less than three weeks.

FIND REVOLUTION REMAINS

Bones of Washington's Soldier Dug Up in New York. New York.—Workmen who are preparing that part of the Ithaca estate which the family has given to the city for a park at Broadway and 207th street, found a complete human skeleton about three feet under the ground.

It is believed that the skeleton is that of one of General Washington's soldiers who was killed in the retreat from White Plains. Perhaps he was killed in the battle along the river front near this point, when Washington stood on the Palisades opposite, weeping as he saw his soldier being slaughtered.

Several skulls have been dug up in this field by men working for Donald & Barry, who are converting the land into a park. Arms, legs, thigh bones and other human bones have been dug up during the four months that the contractors have been working there. Innumerable bullets have also been found scattered all over the fields, many of them buried in trees and in stumps and the workmen have unearthed many arrowheads which belonged to the Indians who helped in the fight.

NATION'S PROMINENT MEN VISIT STATE UNIVERSITY

University of Oregon—President after passing through Eugene, made a special stop at the university for a few minutes and talked to the students, and Henry George, Jr., the New York congressman and economist, addressed the students at the University last night. Senator Gore, of Oklahoma, "the Blind Orator Eloquent," is to address the students next week, and many other prominent men are scheduled to visit the University during the present year. Owing to the fact that Eugene is on the main trunk line between Portland and San Francisco all the prominent men coming to the coast generally find time to stop for a short visit at the state university of Oregon.

WIRELESS DASH TO POLE.

Captain Baldwin to Keep in Touch With World on New Voyage.

Mare Island, Calif.—Captain Edwin Baldwin of "dash to the pole" fame is preparing again to invade the ice fields of the north. This time he expects to carry with him a wireless outfit and through the wireless stations recently established by the government in Alaska keep in constant communication with the outside world.

Captain Baldwin was the guest of Captain H. T. Mayo at Mare Island navy yard today and inspected the wireless stations. Through arrangements made with Lieutenant E. H. Dodd, in charge of the wireless, Captain Baldwin is planning to furnish the world with daily reports on his next battle with the ice fields.

Vast possibilities have been opened by the wireless, according to Captain Baldwin, and he believes that with a wireless outfit he will be able to reach the north pole and talk to the rest of the world from "dead center." Only the installation of the higher power stations in Alaska has made this possible.

Captain Baldwin has not announced the date on which he will start his dash.

BOY'S LEAP COSTS AN ARM.

Lad Who Jumped from Fire Escape in Serious Condition.

Bloomfield, N. J.—Wesley Mortimer, eleven years old, lost his arm as the result of a game of follow leader in which he jumped from a fire escape some days ago.

His arm was broken by the fall of twenty-five feet, and after a few days gangrene developed. To save his life Dr. Frank W. Lockwood of East Orange decided that an amputation was necessary and the arm was amputated in St. Mary's hospital.

Ten other boys were following Mortimer when he made the leap, but they did not follow him.

The surgeons say he may recover but that his condition is serious.
