BUYS COFFIN FOR OLD LOVE.
 But Minnesota Man's Benefactress in Seattle May Not Die.
 Seattle, Wash.—Mrs. M. E. Bradford of Portland, critically ill with dropsy, bequeathed a fortune of no mean sum to Albert J. Smith of Wells, Minn., a sweetheart of her school days and forthwith he hastened to Portland and started to make arrangements for her funeral. He even purchased a coffin for his benefactress. Now her chances of recovery are said to be excellent.

 The case has reached the county court, as two neighbors of Mrs. Bradford, one a sister, Rebekah, appealed to that tribunal to be appointed guardian over Mrs. Bradford, who, says one in her petition, bids fair to live long, owing to the curative powers of potato water and foot baths in a wormwood solution. The case will be heard next week. No charge is made against Smith.
 Smith says he bought the coffin because he was anxious to return to Minnesota and he had understood Mrs. Bradford could not live.
