AT THE PICTURE SHOWS

Orpheum.
Interesting program for Friday and Saturday:

1. "The Little Soldier of '64." Kalem. Gabe, a backwoodsman, sees the massing of troops and realizes that a great battle is imminent. He shoulders his rifle and goes to the front. Mattie, his young wife pleads to go with him, but being denied, determines to follow. Mattie while riding toward the ferry makes a narrow escape from a company of federal scouts and unrecognized by her husband joins the recruits. They are rushed into battle. Gabe is badly wounded and Mattie saves his life. This story contains the most thrilling battle scenes ever portrayed in motion pictures.

2. "A Cup of Cold Water." Selig. A romantic love story of Old California. Many years ago in California, Senora Inez De Miguel lost her beautiful little daughter Juana, the bandit, Jase, stealing the child. Years afterward her mother found her, recognizing her child by a cross she had worn.

3. "Everybody's Troubles." Essanay. This delightful little comic is a novel production. It shows the troubles of dwellers in flats.

4. "All on Account of the Porter." Essanay. Two old friends, one having a son and the other a daughter, plan to pair them off. On the sleeping car another young man, a salesman, gets on, leaving instructions to be up in time to leave the train at Rockwell City, while the young Lochinvar seems to be left off at Villa Park, the home of the girl. The porter puts them off at the wrong station and the salesman wins and wins the daughter, she and her father thinking him to be the old friend's son. The latter arrives too late.

5. "The Ninety and Nine." A Vitagraph life portrayal that abounds in common sense and good, wholesome thoughts, touching the mainspring of parental love. A modern homily that drives home and teaches a lesson of forgiveness. It shows some very attractively sweet and pretty scenes of rustic life and woodland.

The Pastime.
Where you see the best in motion pictures. An all feature program for Friday's change.

"Hal Chase's Home Run." Kalem. Featuring Hal Chase, the premier first baseman and manager of the New York American League baseball team in the title role. The feature of the game is where Hal Chase goes to bat in the last inning with the score 2 to 0 against his team, two men on bases. He hits a home run which makes the score 3 to 2. Tom gets a bride when the home team wins the pennant.

"The Star Spangled Banner." Edison. This fine and stirring picture tells the story of how the national anthem came to be written by Francis Scott Key, who with others was a prisoner on board a British man of war when just before dawn, after the bombardment of Fort McHenry, they stood wondering whether the flag was still flying. Dawn breaks through the rack of clouds, the fort is seen and the flag is still waving. "Long may it wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave." "Forgotten." Vitagraph. Once seen this picture will never be forgotten. In this story of the neglect of a child by everyone and her constant pining for her father there is a depth of emotion which touches every heart. And when parental love comes the audience rejoices with her in her new found happiness.

"Mary's Masquerade." Edison. Mary as it chanced, came on a vacation visit to her aunt's the very evening she was giving a dinner to fourteen persons. One disappointed her. Mary was only a girl in short frocks but her aunt let her dress up as a grown up lady and come in so as to keep the unlucky thirteen at a table far away. Mary fills the part delightfully, but has many difficulties with her long silk train. There is true human experience under the comedy and the picture pleases.

The Cosy.
For Friday and Saturday a sensational western story, a child drama, a pretty love story and a whirlwind comedy.

"The Brand of Fear." American. The sheriff was shot and killed by an outlaw, frightening his wife so badly that her baby was marked by the brand of fear and grew up a coward. Jack fell in love with Millie, but when her Mexican admirer insulted her he quailed in terror. The Mexican and his pal abducted Millie, wounding her father who staggered into town and told the boys. Love cast out fear and he set out in pursuit and by a clever trick got the girl back. After a sensational struggle on the brink of a chasm he threw the Mexican over. He was no longer a coward and was made sheriff by the yelling cowboys.

"The Foundling." G. Northern. The poor mother, unable to support her child, left it by the wayside and it was adopted by a rich couple, and the mother was engaged as nurse. She was loved by a mail carrier but declined to marry him. A gypsy carried the child away and her lover tracked the criminal down and recovered the child and the grateful mother married him.

"The Way of a Maid." Reliance. Helen loved a young minister, but her father wanted her to marry Van Buren, a man of wealth, so he told the minister Helen was engaged to Van Buren. As the minister did not come any more, Helen became engaged to Van Buren. While working in the slums she met the minister preaching in a poor mission. Explanations followed and Helen wed the man she loved.

"Foolishness, Chauffeur." Itala. Just imagine Mr. Foolishhead trying to steer a big motor car through the crowded streets of a big city and you can imagine the laughs in this funny picture. He had a wild and exciting time. A fine comedy.

Don't forget "The Crusader," the world's greatest motion picture in four reels, next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

At the Grand.
The only vaudeville house in the city offers as its headliner for the last half of the week the Musical Walters, two marvels in creating harmony from all kinds of instruments. Besides a number of selections of unusual merit on standard instruments, they introduce several features which never fail to win applause. Principal among these are the "electrical display" and "musical suit" numbers and they are unique, to say the least.

In Verde Brothers, comical acrobats, are also appearing at the Grand now and they furnish amusement both by their comedy which they introduce and by the physical wonders which they perform.

Not for a long time has a singer appeared before a local audience with such a sweet, lyrical voice as Stella Rosetta, who will be here through Sunday. She is an Italian girl and she is a true representative of the nation noted among all others for its famous songsters.

High Class Attractions.

Generally we look upon entertainments given by the young peoples' societies as commonplace attractions, but from word being received from all parts of this country and England the Imperial Hand Bell Ringers, given by the Epworth League the latter part of this month, is of a specially high class. They are giving first class music with commonplace instruments.

PAJAMA PARTY STIRS GOSSIP OF SMART SET

Unique Affair Attended by East St. Louis Matrons, Who Bring Along Their Hubbies' Nocturnal Apparel.
East St. Louis.--Social circles are much excited as a result of a "pajama party" given between 3 and 5 p. m. at the residence of Mrs. I. O. Ganote, 1806 North Tenth street, and in which thirteen young married women participated. For various reasons given those who attended showed great reluctance in discussing the affair. The chief reason for their reticence was that each of the guests was garbed in a pair of pajamas purchased especially for the occasion. Games, which required much running about over the floor on hands and knees, furnished amusement, and a three-course luncheon was served.

Gives Cautious Interview.
Mrs. Arthur G. Bray of 2705 Forest street conceived the idea and aided Mrs. Ganote in acting as hostess. Mrs. Bray was very cautious when she answered the telephone.

"You know, we are all highly respectable married women," she asserted.

"Whose idea was it?"

"Mine."

"How did you transport the pajamas to Mrs. Ganote's residence?"

"Now, that is too much," objected Mrs. Bray. "We don't give out any details."

"What color were the pajamas?"

"All colors."

"Were they the women's own pajamas or their husbands'?"

"Their husbands, of course."

An Embarrassing Question.
"But some of the husbands are very stout, aren't they?"

Silence.

"Aren't they?"

STIMSON AND WOOD FAVOR ABANDONING SMALL FORTS

Secretary of War Announces That Shortly Troops Will Be Concentrated in Larger Posts.

Washington, D. C.--After a month's tour in the west, Secretary Stimson and Major General Wood, with the latter's aid, Captain McCoy, have returned to Washington. They made a flying trip along the Mexican border, inspecting army posts as far as Prescott, Ariz. They spent a week hunting and fishing in the White mountains 12,000 feet above sea level. Secretary Stimson and General Wood stated that the trip confirmed their belief that sound army policy requires the concentration of the troops at large posts and the abandonment of the many small western forts.

It was decided that nearly all of the troops now in the southwest overland above the normal garrisons of the posts, including the troops ordered there in connection with the formation of the maneuver division, should be removed forthwith.

Orders probably will be issued tomorrow for the return of most of these troops to their posts, though some of the men must go to Hawaii and the isthmus to form the permanent garrisons there. The Twenty-Eighth infantry will return to Fort Snelling, Minnesota, and the sixth cavalry to Fort Meade.

DECLINE IN THEFTS SEEN. Ratio of Thefts to Population Two-Thirds Less in Forty Years.

Washington.--In London the annual ratio of thefts to population forty years ago was one to 183. Today it is one to 428, or a decline of more than two-thirds. The net loss in 1870 to the city was $297,000. Last year, with the population doubled, it was only about $153,000 more. In 1870 little more than one-half of the perpetrators were apprehended by the police, but in 1910 nearly 75 per cent fell into the toils of the law.

FLOCK OF CHICKS GO ON JAG.

Anamosa, Iowa.--Being thrifty, Mrs. Albert Weiss disliked to throw away a quart jar of fruit in her cellar when she found it was not keeping well, so she fed it to the chickens. Shortly afterward she found that every biddy in the flock was wandering unsteadily around the yard.

In alarm Mrs. Weiss called her husband. Just then one old hen, with a loud squawk, settled down peacefully in the midst of a mud puddle and began to sing. The chickens seem none the worse for their experience.
