EFFORTS TO SAVE FORESTS EFFECTIVE

LOSS PERCENTAGE IS SHOWN TO BE SMALL.

Out of a Total of Nearly One Million Acres, One Hundred and Three Acres Are Burned Over—Money Loss Only One Hundred Dollars.

An original campaign to save the forests from devastation by fire is being effective as evidenced by the annual fire report of the Whitman National Forest just prepared by Supervisor Ireland. It shows that, out of a total area of 349,176 acres, but 103 acres, or approximately .0001 of the entire area, was burned over during the past season. The estimated loss was 141,000 feet B. M. of sawtimber, valued at approximately $100,000, besides $10,000 damage to young growth and to forage. A total of 52 fires has been reported by the rangers, nearly all of which were discovered and extinguished while small, only two having burned over an area greater than ten acres. This comparatively large number of small fires reported and the scarcity of large ones speaks well for efficiency of patrol.

Needless to say the supervisor and rangers are extremely well pleased with the results of their work. Last season's disastrous record has not been without its beneficial effects. A more efficient organization on the part of the forest service has been effected and better cooperation on the part of the local population obtained.

During the past season forest officers were stationed upon several of the highest points upon the Whitman. Keeping constant lookout for fires. Such observation stations were maintained at North Powder Lakes, upon Vinegar Hill in the Greenhorn mountains at North Powder Lakes, upon Baldy mountain about 20 miles south of Austin. These men reported all fires seen to the central office and some one was immediately sent to extinguish them. Telephone connections rendered part of these lookout points extremely valuable and emphasized the importance of such connections from a central office to all points throughout the forest.

All men employed upon the forest, even though not on special fire patrol always regarded this as their first duty and were on constant lookout for fires.

"Not the least effective feature of the past season," says Melvin L. Merritt, acting forest supervisor, "has been the cheerful and willing cooperation on the part of settlers throughout the country in reporting and fighting fires. Without this assistance even the most thorough organization would be ineffective and the forest service wishes to express its appreciation for the extremely valuable assistance which has been so rendered. The putting out of a small smoldering fire or the telephoning to some forest officer reporting a smoke which has been seen may seem a small thing, yet it may save a loss of thousands of dollars and is always fully appreciated.

"The fire season always carries with it a feeling of anxiety and uncertainty. Each season teaches its lesson and helps in the improvement of the fire protection plan, but always there is danger and even when everything is apparently safe had fires are liable to occur. Hence the need for an efficient organization and continued vigilance on the part of the forest service, for constant and hearty cooperation on the part of local residents and of users of the forest, and for constant care and thoughtfulness on the part of every one upon or passing over our public forests. Without this we can look for nothing but disaster and loss; with it we may expect many seasons that are no more destructive, or even better than the one just past."

HOW TO TREAT OLD SORES

The proper way—the only successful way—to treat an old sore is to destroy its source. Not by dangerous surgical operations or irritating, "drawing" plasters, but by Nature's true method of purifying the blood and filling the circulation with rich, nourishing properties; then the cure will be natural and lasting. We can easily understand how impurities in the blood will infect some weak point on our bodies, and by continually discharging impurities into it keep the place open and inflamed until a chronic ulcer is formed. Nothing then is so sure to produce a cure of these old sores as S. S. S. This medicine is Nature's perfect blood remedy, composed of the most healing and at the same time the most penetrating and blood-purifying properties. It removes every particle of impurity or morbid matter from the circulation, and assists nature in the increasing of healthful, nutritious corpuscles in the blood. S. S. S. makes pure blood, and pure blood is Nature's unfailing cure for old sores. Every sufferer with an old sore should use S. S. S., because it is the remedy they most need. Book on Sores and Ulcers and medical advice free. S. S. S. is sold at drug stores. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

A CHINA BOY ON OREGON GLEE CLUB

University of Oregon, Eugene, Ore.—Harry Ding, a Chinese student at the university, will be the star performer on the fourteenth annual state tour of the University of Oregon Glee club, which is to take place during the holidays. Ding will appear in his native costume and sing a few solos, both in Chinese and in English. He has an excellent second bass voice, which is surprising for a Chinaman.

This is Ding's second season on the Glee club. Last year he and his partner, William Lai, made such a hit in the concert at Portland that a representative of the Orpheum offered the two of them the salary of $200 a week if they would go on the Orpheum circuit. The two Chinese students, however, took too seriously to accept a position in vaudeville. Harry Ding is one of four or five hundred Chinese students in American colleges, who are studying engineering, with a view of aiding in the development of China. Ding's circumstances are somewhat different from his fellow Chinese students, as he was born and raised in Portland, Oregon. In fact, he has never set foot in the Flowery Kingdom. However, he has an intense loyalty to China, and expects to go there as soon as he finishes his collegiate course. Although raised in Oregon, Mr. Ding never spoke the English language until he was fourteen years old, as his family used the Chinese entirely at home, and all his playmates were of his race. On account of this lack of early training, he finds English to be his hardest course.

So it seems that Colonel Roosevelt's recent declarations in regard to the Tennessee Coal & Iron absorption were not final and conclusive.
