OLD TIME CRUELTY.

One Time When Surgery Is Often Needless Torture.

Many operations for piles are simply needless torture, for when it's all over the piles come back.

The one fine way to be rid of piles for good is to use Dr. Leonard's HEM-ROID. It cures piles by doing away with the cause—poor circulation.

Death Ends Romance.

Milton, Or.—Claud Hanson, living a short distance above Milton, died from an abscess which formed on his tonsils and broke, the poison going through his body and causing death in a very short time. The circumstances are doubly sad, as Mr. Hanson had been married only a short time, having met his wife, formerly Miss Rosenberg, for the first time at the Peach Day celebration in Free-water in August and marrying her the same day in Walla Walla.

DOG SAVES FORMER PENDLETON CITIZEN

HORACE STILLMAN, HURT, SENDS CANINE FOR AID

Animal Runs Miles With Note and Leads Rescue Party Back to Spot Where Master Lay Helpless from Injuries Received in Runaway.

According to a story in the Kallispell, Montana, Times, Horace Stillman, formerly a gunsmith in this city, and well remembered as the champion trap shooter of this section of the country, owes his life to the faithfulness of his dog. The following is a reproduction of the story as it appeared in that paper:

The faithfulness and intelligence of the dog has been the subject of song and story since the dawn of history. Given an opportunity and Carlo seems always to rise to the occasion, exhibiting sagacity and even reasoning power above his kind. Horace Stillman, of Pleasant Valley, has such a dog and no doubt owes his life to the fine intelligence and understanding of this spaniel pup.

Wednesday of last week Mr. Stillman hitched up a team to a light rig, put in his tripod and other surveying impedimenta, and set out for the A. D. Stillman homestead, several miles distant, where he intended to run some lines for ditch or other utility. Of course his spaniel dog tagged along joyously. About half way to his destination a deer ran across the road and set the horses going. They lunged forward and caused Mr. Stillman to lose his balance as he was occupied in holding the lines and the tripod. He nearly fell over the dashboard, and it would have been better, perhaps, if he had. A foot and leg went through the forward wheel under the axle, locking the wheel with flesh and bone. The horses were running and it was impossible for the unfortunate man to extricate himself. The best he could do was hang partly under the bed and wait for the team to stop. Finally he was able to get a twist on the hind wheel which eventually brought the team to a stop, but not until he was exhausted, bruised and bleeding, but fortunately with no bones broken. He tried to rise, but was too weak and dropped exhausted in the brush. After a rest of about an hour, as near as he could judge, Mr. Stillman decided to attempt to reach his homestead and set himself to the task. The agonies he suffered are indescribable; he had been whipped and torn by brush and roots as he swung to the frame and wheel until he was flayed alive. He could not stand erect but painfully crawled along. For five hours he essayed to travel along this road of torture, finally reaching the clearing near A. D. Stillman's homestead, but he was so weak and exhausted he could not make himself heard.

Now appears the brown pup in the story. He came wagging himself foolishly into his master's presence, expressing his sympathy and finally offering his assistance. For Mr. Stillman bethought him of the expedient of ending a note back to his home by the dog. He laboriously wrote of his situation in his note book, tore out the leaf and tearing a strip from his overalls, tied the note safely and prominently about the spaniel's neck, then ordered him to go home. Doggie capered about and refused until Mr. Stillman was in despair, but finally the right idea seized the pup and he tore off home at top speed. He was mighty few minutes covering the miles which separated the ranch from his master. Reaching home he delivered the note to Mrs. Stillman, patiently half an hour while things were gotten ready to take care of the injured man, then he started through the timber and took them direct to the wounded and fainting master. Mr. Stillman was given all the homely aid possible and was doing well when Dr. O'Neill motored up there Sunday, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Christensen, Miss O'Neill and Miss Peeler, all friends of the family. Mrs. Christensen being a daughter of the Stillmans. The invalid seemed to rank second in importance to the brown pup which saved his life and they surely made much of that dog.

Nature's Hair Restorer

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY

Restores Gray Hair to Natural Color

Sulphur is a Natural Element of the Hair

When there is not a sufficient amount of sulphur in the hair, it loses its life, color and strength, turns gray, and falls out. There are many forms of sulphur, but only one kind that is suitable for treatment of the hair and scalp, and that is the kind used in preparing WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY.

We Have the Secret, and We Give You the Benefit of It at an Exceedingly Low Price

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair, and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.
