favor business, and under present laws have a right to demand of mayor and council obedience to this sentiment.

But in the light of past experience the best interests of those even who would engage permanently in the liquor business, and of those who desire stable values of real estate in the business districts, demand strict regulation.

A supply of good water is desirable in any urban community, but in the chief city of a rich agricultural county like this it is almost imperative. Good water, good streets, good lights, parks and sundry embellishments which constitute community refinement we must have, if we would attract our retiring wealthy farmers to our city to reside.

Until such time as the introduction of intense farming around us shall build up our prosperity, we must rely on our attractions, the fair dealing of our merchants, the strength of our banks, and the employment of honest labor in our public work.

A small, yet important matter in this connection is the need at present of hitching racks for farmers' teams.

But this community has its financial limitations. We need good water and should have the very best that we can afford. The present water board deserves credit for the zeal with which they have prosecuted their search for a suitable supply.

It is no fault of theirs that a gravity system will cost something like $200,000. Neither is it their fault that abundance of spring water is not available.

But as the matter appears to me it will cost $200,000 to install a gravity system having wood pipes. The cost of metal pipes would be so great as to be prohibitive.

The annual interest charge would be $10,000 on the cheaper plant. The depreciation on such a system would probably be as much as 5 per cent per annum and this would cost us
