Whitman Stock Soars.
Walla Walla, Wash., Nov. 7.—With the announcement of the score of the Oregon-Whitman football game, played in Eugene Saturday, when the local collegians were barely beaten by an eight to five score, the rascally stock took a big boost, and the football fans of this city expect to see Whitman finish in the first division of the college conference.

Play Championship Game.
Newport, R. I., Nov. 7.—The football championship of the United States Atlantic fleet, which resulted in two tie games in New York recently, will be settled here November 15, with the silver cup given by R. Livingston Berkman.

Still Talking League.
Walla Walla, Wash., Nov. 7.—Northwest league ball for Walla Walla is still being talked and enthusiastically listened to by many prominent business men, but as yet no action has been taken for want of a leader. Older baseball men in the city want the matter started as a strictly business proposition, with substantial business men at the helm, and say they will stand back and boost the game both financially and otherwise.

Spokane will join with the rooters from Wenatchee in "whooping 'er up" for the largest attendance yet recorded at Recreation park.

CHURCH LUNCHEON A GREAT SUCCESS

More Than Fifty Men Sit Down Together at Christian Church Last Night.

There was a happy crowd of men at the Christian church luncheon last night, given by the ladies of the church in honor of the coming of Evangelist Holmes, who is conducting a series of meetings. The Christian church is splendidly arranged for such an affair and then the touch of the ladies' hands in making everything a delight to the eye as well as to the palate, made every one feel, "It is good to be here."

After the "evening meal" was well under way, Mr. Fred Taylor, the toastmaster for the evening, called upon Judge Lowell for a talk and in his usual splendid way the judge talked upon the fellowship thus being manifested among Christians, emphasizing what he termed a basis for the unity of Christians, and complimenting those in charge for such a happy incident.

After a solo by Mr. Ridenour, who is aiding Mr. Holmes in the series of evangelistic services, Mr. Keefe, of the commercial association, spoke. He was agreeably surprised at seeing so many men together in a church affair and said that the most manly things for a man to do was to get behind just such work. But he did not forget that he was secretary of the Commercial association and urged everyone to become interested in his work also. He complimented the church on its splendid building and upon securing Mr. Holmes as a leader, incidentally winning a warm place in the hearts of his auditors.

Rev. Dr. Paddock of the Congregational church, then made a fine talk to the young men, pointing out that this is a time of destiny and that the church was the place in which each one could best fulfill his mission. Excellent talks were also made by Mr. McPherson, representing the Christian Endeavor, and by Dr. Draper, representing the Bible school. Both of these presented the work of the church in which men could well endeavor to be interested and reported that a number of "new recruits" were secured.

Mr. Taylor then called upon Evangelist Holmes. Although the hour was growing late, he caught the crowd with two or three good stories, and then outlined some "future work" for men. He told them about the Brotherhood movement in which the men of the churches are banding themselves together that the church may care for the sick and helpless, may play the part of the "big brother" to the young boy—clean up the "pool of poison" suppress evil of every nature, and finally get back of the work of the church and introduce a new era. He said that they could never get along without the women, but declared that the time had come for men to do the men's work and in their own way. His enthusiasm for this work was contagious and nearly every man present agreed to go into a Brotherhood organization. Some urged that it should be made a general movement among the churches of the city, and while that was favored by all, Mr. Holmes insisted that could not be done at a meeting called by a single congregation and in connection with their own work. He urged however, that steps be taken to interest other organizations in the city, and pledged his support in making them a success. This should be done so that a Brotherhood Union, capable of swaying the moral questions of the city, could be organized.

A. O. Carden was chosen president, D. C. Bowman vice president, and E. O. Draper, secretary, these three constituting an executive committee to further the interests of the new movement.

Mr. Holmes announced that the evangelistic services would continue indefinitely and that tonight he would talk on "The Devil a Liar." Mr. Ridenour, who carries a splendid stenographic will illustrate "The Ninety and Nine" tonight.
