Pitching Won Pennant.
Portland, Ore., Nov. 8.—Effective pitching by the Beaver twirling staff won the 1911 Pacific Coast league pennant for Portland according to figures that have been computed. McCredie's pitching staff allowed less hits than any staff in the league and the percentage of hits made off the Portland staff was .227. The Portland staff was without the service of a southpaw most of the season and if Manager McCredie had secured the services of a good left handed twirler at the beginning of the season the percentage of hits would likely have been much smaller.

Harry Wolverton's twirlers were next in line with efficient twirling, although the percentage of hits made off the Oakland staff was much greater than that of the Portland team.

Can't Cure Catarrh
Stomach Dosing, Sprays and Douches Have All Failed.
There is only one way to cure catarrh. Reach the raw, tender, inflamed membrane that is infested with catarrh germs and destroy the germs. You can't reach the nooks and crevices with liquid preparations—there is only one way—breathe the anti-septic germ killing air of HYOMEI (pronounced H-Y-O-M-E-I) directly over the infested parts.

HYOMEI contains no opium, cocaine or other harmful drugs, it is made of Australian eucalyptus, thymol and other Listerian antiseptics. It is guaranteed to end the misery of catarrh, asthma, croup and bronchitis, or money back.
Ask Tallman Drug Co. about the HYOMEI outfit today. They sell it for only $1.00 and guarantee it.

De Oro Defeats Wheeler.
Chicago, Nov. 8.—Alfred De Oro, champion three cushion billiard player, last night defeated George Wheeler, 59 in 74 innings in the first block of their 150-point match for the three cushion championship. De Oro's average was .478. Wheeler's average was .419. High runs: De Oro, 9; Wheeler, 3. De Oro also made a run of five. The men will play fifty points tomorrow and fifty points Thursday.

Fatal Injury in Football.
Seattle, Nov. 8.—Harold Hankins, 16 years old, a sophomore at Lincoln high school, died today of blood poisoning believed to have been the result of an injury to his knee in a football game at Tacoma between the second teams of the Tacoma and Lincoln high schools 10 days ago. The attending physician would not say positively that football was responsible for the boy's death but said that an explanation was probable.

JOHN McCOURT WRITES OF RESERVATION SUIT

have been taken. A pleading called a "Suggestion" was filed by me last spring in the case between these parties in the circuit court there, which fully and clearly sets forth the claims of the government and the Indians. Recently when a case between the same parties came up on demurrer in the federal court, I happened in the court room while argument was in progress. This was the first notice I had of such a suit. I notified the court that I desired to be heard in behalf of the government and the Indians when the case comes up on its merits.

The Indian rights were fully presented and preserved before the board of control so far as possible. The proceedings before the board of control were instituted by me after considerable opposition. On September 1st, Mr. Morton, representing my office, appeared before the board at Pendleton, requesting that taking of testimony begin at an early date, but he was opposed by virtually every other water user on the river. This opposition resulted in postponing the commencement of taking testimony until May next.

You seem to feel that I should take up the Caldwell fight against Byers. As hereinbefore pointed out, neither the Indians nor the government have engaged to protect or supply any of the rights claimed by Caldwell in his litigation. He is claiming under the provisions of the treaty with the Indians. Byers is claiming under a statute passed subsequently; both claim that the government is bound to recognize and protect their rights. As a matter of fact, however, the government is not concerned with the claims of either except insofar as they may affect the rights of the Indians or of the government itself. Adequate steps have been taken to protect the latter.

To illustrate this point: Suppose you own twenty acres along a river; you have never attempted to irrigate this land but have raised only such crops thereon as would grow without irrigation. You lease it to B for cash rent for three years without any provision as to what B shall raise or how he shall cultivate or handle the land. As soon as B gets the land he takes out a ditch from the river and commences to irrigate the land. This water B takes out conflicts with the claims of C, a lower proprietor. C sues B and attempts to enjoin him from using the water. Manifestly, you would not be under any obligation to defend B in his litigation. And further, suppose C has been using water for some time and has secured a right of way from you over other lands belonging to you for carrying the water to his land. This would further oblige you from mixing up in the supposed litigation. If you got into it at all it would not be for the assertion of the claims of either of the parties, but to protect your own ultimate rights in the property or subject matter of the litigation. In the supposed case you are given the place of the government, B of Caldwell and C of Byers.

You should bear in mind that except two of three, no Indians have ever attempted to irrigate any land along the river and that none is now attempting to irrigate his land. Those who are irrigating have not been molested. The government has suffered no opposition to its use of water. Therefore, no occasion exists for bringing any suit. Mr. Swartzlander is on the ground. He is active and capable in behalf of the Indians and will see that their rights are not invaded.

Pendleton and Umatilla county are probably more interested in this question than you are aware. Should the rights of the Indians be recognized to the full extent of the rule laid down in the Montana cases in the supreme court and in this federal circuit, a very serious condition would exist. Those cases assert the doctrine that there is reserved to the Indians everything within the boundary of the reserve that can be utilized for their advancement, prosperity and happiness. This includes water for irrigation or other use and prevents the appropriation of such water or the use thereof by others. It also preserves the water to the Indian until such time as he gets ready to use it, whether it be five or one hundred years hence. In the meantime, no one can acquire any right to the use of water as against the Indian.

In the arid or semi-arid portions of the west, Indian reservations are always situated upon or at the source of one or more of the chief streams. The doctrine referred to has given a great deal of concern to the interior department and to states where irrigation is necessary. It hampers and often prevents reclamation of arid lands and the development of great communities by either the government or private enterprise.

In Montana several scores of persons were compelled to give up their homes and sacrifice the savings of a lifetime on account of being deprived of water for irrigation.

In Washington one of the largest and best reclamation projects nearly failed on account of it, and was only saved by arranging virtually a new treaty with the Indians.

In the case of the Umatilla reservation, if the 5300 acres susceptible of irrigation should be cleared and placed under water, there would be considerably less than enough water in the river in July August and September, to irrigate them. This result is given me after painstaking and accurate surveys and measurements by an engineer of high skill.

This would entirely preclude the city of Pendleton from securing a gravity supply of water and might seriously affect its well supply. I think, however, the well supply would be unaffected and if anything, would probably be benefited.

All the city got by its condemnation proceedings is a right of way and site for its plant. Its attempted appropriation of water is subject to the rights of the Indians and they cannot be deprived of the same by appropriation or otherwise. The water which the city is attempting to secure constitutes part of the flow of the river and would all be required by the Indians in the dry season.

I called the attention of the water board of your city to this matter at the time of the suit against Wenix. The Byers and Walters mills would be prevented from running for three months during the year. Every private water user below Pendleton would be affected, including the several irrigation companies. The Umatilla reclamation project would be compelled to depend entirely on storage water during the irrigation season. This would render necessary larger storage facilities on the project and consequently, additional charges to settlers.

The Indian land is not and never will be taxable so long as it remains in the hands of the Indians. Without irrigation it will raise a good crop. The land below Pendleton will not raise crops without irrigation and cannot be developed and made to pay taxes without water.

The only irrigators below Pendleton which could survive this condition, would be the Furnish ditch company and the government project

BACK COVERED WITH MASS OF PIMPLES

Burned and Itched So He Could Hardly Stand It. Tried Medicines, Etc., Nearly 3 Years. In Eternal Misery. Started Using Cuticura Remedies. Now Has No Sign of Skin Disease.

"My troubles began along in the summer in the hottest weather and took the form of small eruptions and itching and a kind of smarting pain. It took me mostly all over my back and kept getting worse until finally my back was covered with a mass of pimples which would burn and itch at night so that I could hardly stand it. This condition kept getting worse and worse until my back was a solid mass of big sores which would break open and run. My underclothing would be a clot of blood.
"I tried various blood medicines and other remedies and salves for nearly three years and I was not getting any benefit. It seemed I was in eternal misery and could not sleep on my back or lean back on a chair. I was finally given a set of the Cuticura Remedies by my brother who recommended them to me very highly. I started using the Cuticura Remedies and inside of two weeks I could see and feel a great relief. I kept on using Cuticura Soap, Ointment and also the Resolvent, and in about three or four months' time my back was nearly cured and I felt like a new being. Now I am in good health and no sign of any skin diseases and I am fully satisfied that Cuticura Remedies are the best ever made for skin diseases. I will always recommend them to anybody who will use according to directions. I would not be without them." (Signed) W. A. Armstrong, Corbin, Kan., May 26, 1911.

For more than a generation Cuticura Soap and Ointment have afforded the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp of infants, children and adults. Although sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 25-p. book on the skin, will be sent free, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 57A, Boston.

storage facilities are provided and as above indicated, they would be materially affected in the dry season.

It must now be apparent to you that the only consideration favoring the construction of the supreme court is the obligation of the government to fulfill its treaty obligation to the Indians. Set against this is every material and substantial consideration of the community. The court holds and I agree with it that this should be done, even to halting the development of a great civilized community. The only way to honestly evade this responsibility, if it exists on the Umatilla
