MINIATURE ROUNDUP SHOW IS ARRANGED

STARS OF ANNUAL AFFAIR ARE AGAIN TO PERFORM

Broncho and Burro Busting, Steer Bulldozing, Fancy Roping, Etc., Are Among the Features of Program Announced for Next Sunday

Pendleton is to see a miniature Round-Up Sunday afternoon, staged in Round-Up Park the program composed of typical Round-Up events and the performers all Round-Up cowboys. The show, however, is not being put on by the Round-Up association but is being arranged by the cowboys themselves and this promise excitement aplenty. The principal event will be the riding of bucking bronchos and for it a good many untrained "outlaws" have been secured. George Fletcher, the colored boy who won second prize at the Round-Up, Glen Cox, one of the best of the riders at the recent show, Lee Caldwell the Pendleton boy buckaroo, Guy Hayes, who has appeared at both Round-Ups, John Runyan, noted for the ride he made on "Dynamite" a year ago, Narcisse McKay, the famous Indian broncho buster who qualified for the semifinals at the last show, L. E. McCoy, a cowboy of varied attainments and Jimmie Jangles, also well known, are all scheduled to ride Sunday. McCoy and Cox will also build a steer apiece for the entertainment of the crowd and, as both have had considerable experience in this dangerous pastime their performance should be far from lame. Shortly after the Round-Up, McCoy broke into print at Ontario when he broke the world's bulldozing record by throwing his steer in thirteen seconds. The day following he broke his collar bone in an attempt to duplicate the feat but the fracture has healed and will not be a handicap to him in the Sunday show. Cox, while he failed to get his steer at the Round-Up, established a reputation at Colfax when he defeated Buffalo Vernon. McCoy and Caldwell will give exhibitions of fancy roping and riding and the former will also mount to the back of a big spotted cow. Micky Madden is billed to duplicate his ride of the burro at the big September show. The program will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

WEEKLY MUSICAL AT COMMERCIAL CLUB

A musical evening one night every week is a new idea, just conceived and adopted last night at the monthly meeting of the Commercial association, and it will be put in practice at once. Secretary Keeffe who is himself a musician of rare ability, suggested that, inasmuch as there is a great deal of musical talent in the membership of the club, it would be a splendid idea to arrange entertainments for the other members and the public at large at least once a week, and the suggestion was heartily approved. Accordingly he will begin preparing a program immediately and the first musical evening will be given next week, probably on Wednesday. It is also planned to give such an evening at least once a month at which ladies will be invited.

Secretary Keeffe also explained the plan he has in mind for using a musical program as a means of boosting for the local clubs and for the clubs of other towns in the county and for a co-operation between all.
